

had made an attempt to saw out of the city jail and would have succeeded had it not been for Chief Sheets, who thought the man a bad one and cautioned Night Jail Ripley to watch out for the fellow.

BREAK ANTICIPATED.

Night before last Chief Sheets said to Ripley: "Keep a watch on that fellow or he won't be here in the morning." Ripley visited the jail about every 10 minutes during the night, but always found the man in his cot and apparently sound asleep. But he was not sleeping. Last night it was found that one of the bars in the corridor of the second floor had been sawed almost through. Immediately after the discovery Ripley notified the jailer at the county jail.

WHAT SHEETS SAYS.

This morning Chief Sheets stated that he believed Riss was none other than Merritt, the burglar sentenced at Chicago to five years in prison and who escaped while enroute to the pen. "The first time I saw the fellow," said the chief, "I put him down for a bad man. That's why I told Ripley to watch the guy or he would not have him in the morning. I believe that he is Merritt. He is a smooth crook and if he is recaptured it will certainly be lucky."

It was noticed in court before Judge Diehl and Judge Armstrong that Riss walked with a peculiar limp and had his shoulders up and head down. Yesterday afternoon Sergeant Hengel saw the fellow inadvertently come out of his room—but only for an instant. Riss must have been thinking of "home and mother."

One naturally wonders how it was possible for Riss to conceal saws enough about his person to escape from the county jail, especially after being stripped of clothing, the wearing apparel thoroughly searched and the prisoner securely locked in a cell.

But it is easy if one knows the secret principles of concealment. Here are some of the ways in which saws can be concealed:

SECRET OF CONCEALMENT.
In the first place the saws used by professional crooks are made of material almost as fine as a watch spring. They can be rolled up into a small wad and a dozen or more secreted in the heel of a shoe. They can be placed in the collar of a coat, in seams of coat or trousers or in the hat. They can be placed between the soles of a shoe without detection and by merely feeling the clothing can not be detected. And this is only a tithe of the ways in which saws are concealed. These little strips of thin, finely tempered steel saws which mean liberty to the man who is willing to take a chance.

Riss, or Merritt, in the opinion of Chief Sheets, ranks with the most dangerous and clever crooks ever in Salt Lake, and this city has been visited by some good, or rather bad, ones.

SEARCH GOING ON.

The police and sheriff's forces are now hard at work trying to find Riss down. Word has been sent to every city and town within 100 miles of Salt Lake. The description given above has been furnished by the officers and every thing possible is being done to capture the man. But if the man is caught it will be because of chance more than anything else. Despite the fact that he is without money and is a comparative stranger in these parts, his ability as a house-breaker, thief, jail breaker, and his knowledge of the ways of desperate criminals will be brought into requisition by him and it is hardly likely that he will take a "long chance" unless forced to do so.

SAW NOT THE SAW.

While no clue has been secured by the officers as to the direction taken by the burglar it has been reported that a Murray resident was awakened early this morning by a man passing the place singing:

"Don't tell them that you saw me, or saw me use the saw, just tell 'em and hear me say, I don't know where I'm going, but I'm on my way."

WARD ENTERTAINMENTS

Seventeenth Ward.—A farewell entertainment will be tendered this evening, in the Seventeenth ward meeting-house, to J. E. Holladay, who leaves shortly on mission to Sweden. Twentieth Ward.—The Twentieth ward amusement hall, the M. L. A. orchestra will give a dance on the evening of Friday, Feb. 8. The orchestra is especially organized for Mutual Improvement association benefit.

Twenty-seventh Ward.—The rains of the Twenty-seventh ward gave a dramatic entertainment last night, to a crowded house in aid of the piano fund. The play presented was "Joseph's Courtship," which was well received that it will be repeated to-night.

Mrs. Margaret Robertson Kerr and Prof. J. J. McClellan, assisted by Hugh Douglas, soloist, will give a piano recital at the Salt Lake Theatre, Feb. 2nd, 8:15 p. m. for benefit of Oregon fund First Presbyterian Church. Tickets 50c to be had at Clayton's Music Store.

Will Entertain Choir.—St. Paul's church choir will be entertained at the rectory by Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Sharpe.

To Address Nevada Wool Men.—Supt. Hickox of the local office of the Bureau of animal industry has sent Dr. Murray to Reno to address the Nevada wool growers on sheep dipping, and in furtherance of the effort being made in that state for legislation favoring healthier hygienic conditions among the sheep.

Mission Not in Vain.—Manager J. Q. Crichton returned this morning from Chicago where he went to consult with certain of the creditors of the Utah Implement company with reference to a possible settlement. While not meeting with the success that he had hoped for, his mission was not entirely in vain.

Condemned Oysters.—One of the express companies recently threw away 25 gallons of New Jersey oysters which the local consignees refused to accept, and the shipment charges will be assessed against the consignees. The oysters were condemned in consequence of the recent investigations by the state chemist who found samples of the New Jersey bivalves loaded with nitrate of copper.

Snow Tonight.—The skies continue unpropitious, with rain followed by snow predicted for tonight, with colder weather in the morning. While a high-area is prevailing along the California coast, three-quarters of the United States is under a low barometer, and the high is in the west, the north still diminishing, so that the lowest thermometer there is only 10 degrees below zero. The precipitation over the country is very light.

Girls' Tennis Club.—The girls' section of the High School Athletic association met yesterday afternoon and elected officers for the ensuing year, as follows: President, Maud Smith; vice president, Helen Boes; secretary, Carrie Snyder; treasurer, Bessie Crabtree. It was decided to lay out tennis courts on the high school grounds as early in the spring as practicable, and a great season of sport with racket and ball is anticipated.

Warning to Dry Farmers.—The secretary of the state board of horticulture is sending out warnings to the dry farmers of Utah against the Russian thistle. This is in line with the recommendations of the state horticultural inspector, J. P. Sorenson, who declares that the big dry farms of the coast are likely to prove hotbeds for the propagation of these thistles unless great precautions are taken for their extermination. The report claims that a loss of from 20 to 40 per cent of the crop is possible where the thistle once gets a foothold, but the thistle is not troublesome in fenced and cultivated fields.

W. T. Rose Funeral Sunday.—Funeral services over the remains of the late William T. Rose will be held in the Seventh ward assembly rooms at 12 noon, on Sunday. Mr. Rose's death occurred at Payette, Idaho, where he was employed on a building contract. The body was shipped to this city, arriving here on Wednesday evening. The remains were accompanied by Mrs. Rose, who was formerly Miss Rose of Payette, Idaho, Canada, where they resided for a number of years. Mr. Rose had been married before, his first wife, who died several years ago, having been Miss Mattie Needham of Payette. Of his first family survive him three sons and one daughter, namely, Roy, Frank and William Rose, and Alice R. Smith, all of whom, except the oldest son Roy, reside in Alberta, Canada. The second son, Frank, is now on his way to this city to be present at the funeral. Interment will be had at the city cemetery.

RUSHING COAL TO NEVADA TOWNS

Solid Train of 19 Cars From Illinois Going Out After The Record.

SMART WORK OF OFFICIALS.

Operating Department Giving the Relief Train a Clear Track Through To Its Destination.

A solid train of 19 cars, each loaded to capacity with Illinois coal, is rushing towards Reno, Nev., on a mission of relief. The Harriman lines are sending this consignment through on passenger time to render aid to Reno and intermediate points, now in the grasp of a real, serious coal famine. This train left Green River at 7:40 o'clock yesterday morning, reaching Ogden at 7:30 this morning—a record run for a big freight train between these two points. The distance between Green River, Wyo., and Ogden is 176 miles. The Overland Limited, one of the fastest trains in the country, leaves Green River at 10:40 a. m., reaching Ogden at 4:50 p. m. the following day. This comparison will illustrate with what haste the coal train is being moved towards its destination.

The train is due to reach Carlin at 2 o'clock this morning, and then its final destination, at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. Not a minute has been lost during the entire run. Engines and crew have been kept in readiness at various stations to change the engine, the train pulled in. Freight yards have been kept clear and open, to expedite switching and hurry coupling, etc. The best engines available were attached to the long list of heavy cars. With the tremendous traffic, both passenger and freight moving towards the west and east, over the main lines of the Union Pacific are considered, the "coal train" will be in the history of this line. Even the fastest passenger trains have been able to do nothing more than poke their way cautiously along the line, but no "poke" for this coal train. Out at Reno and Carlin, freezing men, women and babies were waiting for coal and the entire Union Pacific and Southern Pacific main line has been cleared of everything to get the precious load of black stuff to its destination.

Reno has been suffering intensely for some time on account of a fuel famine. The governor of Nevada has sent numerous messages to different railroads asking for immediate aid, in the shape of trainloads of coal. The newspapers of the state have swamped all railroad offices with appeals. These requests have brought about the "coal train," which is now bowling towards Nevada's shivering towns. In-shedding points, greatly in need of fuel have been notified of its coming and where suffering is caused by a lack of coal, portions of the consignment will be dropped off for use of the needy. The various telegraph and operating offices along the line of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific are taking a great interest in having things in their divisions in tip-top shape for making the coal-train's flight a success.

LEE LANE IS HERE.

"The Denver Booster" and Colorado-Midland Man Has a New One.

Lee Haney, the "Denver Booster" and advertising agent for the Colorado-Midland passenger department is in Salt Lake. Mr. Haney is a man of energy, business, good stories and original ideas. He has been on an extended trip through all states west of the Missouri and east of Denver to boom Colorado and incidentally the Midland route. He has a large collection of 500 or more really good articles on Colorado, profusely illustrated and all ready for insertion. I am not going to send these about the country, but rather to carry them to each country editor myself. Colorado is the greatest state in the Union, with Utah a mighty close second. Of course, and we are going to let every portion of the world know about it. I am in Salt Lake on a brief business trip. I have been here before and like to come here as often as possible.

Mr. Haney is an old newspaper man. He was for 15 years engaged in that business in Kansas City, being employed at different times by the Star, Journal and World. He has also worked in various large cities of the east and west, coming a few years ago to Denver. After quitting newspaper work, he went into show business, being manager of the Orpheum road show for some time and the first manager of the Orpheum theater in Denver. Leaving the show business he entered the railroad world, and he has continued his knack of being a whiz. Mr. Haney tells a good story on himself. Here it is, minus Haney's copy-right, and features: "I was traveling through Missouri some years ago when I noticed a lot of hogs running around in a pasture wildly. There was a small patch of trees near the pasture and the hogs were running in and out of this in a most idiotic way. I had never seen hogs act in that manner, so I climbed over the fence and asked an old farmer what ailed them. 'Say,' he whispered hoarsely, 'I lost my voice several months ago. Before that I used to call my pigs to feed and after losing my voice I called them by knocking on the fence or barn or anything like that.' He stopped to bite a quid off his plug. 'Well,' I said, quite curious to hear the rest of the story. 'Funny thing,' commented the farmer slowly. 'Them woodpeckers in the trees yonder have my pigs crazy now.'"

The high priests' quorum of the Liberty state will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Second ward meeting-house next Monday night, Feb. 4, at 7:30 o'clock a full attendance is desired.

Manifold Virtues of Salt.

Common, ordinary table salt (sodium chloride) has many virtues. It is one of the best cleansers for the teeth and gums. It is good for dyspepsia. It is excellent for the skin, and disfects wounds and sores. It relieves pain caused by bee stings and spider bites. Land is greatly enriched and grass is made to grow by sprinkling salt on the ground. Salt used when sweeping carpets freshens them and keeps out moths. It will put out a fire in the chimney, as well as revive a coal fire. Salt in the oven under baking this prevents scorching on the bottom. Salt put on ink spots freshly made will remove them. Salt in water will refreshen cut flowers, as a head wash will prevent the hair from falling, and injected into the nostrils is an excellent remedy for nasal catarrh.
