the construction of a great national was adopted by the Territorial Legislature and duly presented at Washington. As it may interest many of our readers, we herewith present the document in full

"To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled:

"Your memorialists, the Governor and Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utab, respectfully pray your honorable body, to provide for the establishment of a national central railroad from some eligible point on the Mississippi or Missouri rivers, to San Diego, San Francisco, Sacramento or Astoria, or such other point on or near the Pacific Coast, as the wisdom of your honorable body may dictate. "Your memorialists respectfully state, that the immense emigration to and from the Pacific, requires the immediate attention, guardian care and fostering assistance of the greatest and most liberal government on the earth. Your memorialists are of opinion that not less than five thousand American citizens have perished on on the different routes within the last three years, for the want of proper means of transportation; that an eligible route can be obtained, your memorialists have no doubt, being extensively acquainted with the country.

We know that no obstruction exists between this point and San Diego, and that iron, coal, timber, stone and other materials exist in various places on the route; and that the settlements of this Territory are so situated, as to amply supply the builders of said road wits materials and provisions for a considerable portion of the route, and to carry on an extensive trade after the road is completed. 'Your memorialists are of opinion that the mineral resources of California, and these mountains, can never befully developed to the benefit of the people of the United States, without the construction of such a road; and, upon its completion, the entire trade of China and the East Inalmost entire coutrol of the Asiatic and Pacific trade; pouring into the lap of the American States, the millions that are now diverted through other commercial channels; and last, though not least, the read herein proposed would be a perpetual chain, or iron band, which would effectually hold together our glotteus Union with an imperishable identity of mutual interest; t :ereby, consolidating our relations with foreign powers in times of peace and our defense from foreign invasion by the speedy transmission of troops and su plies, in times of war. "The carnest attention of Congress to this important subject is solicited by your menorialists, who, in duty bound, will ever pray."

It will be observed by this memorial that one of the chief reasons upon which the application for a railroad ten o'clock at night he bad left her sit-which the application for a railroad ten o'clock at night he bad left her sitwas based was to render the development of the mineral resources of this They elect rather to largely leave the diverse and proper for an escort to leave a lady sitting names. APPLICATION OF THE LAW ELSEWHERE.

As there is naturally much interest in this locality in relation to the application of the Edmunds-Tucker legislation in the District of Columbia and other places over which the United States have exclusive jurisdiction, we present the following from the Washington Critic. It will enable the reader to obtain a clear idea of the nature of the Crawford-White case. It also alludes to other cases brought under the same statute that are now pending in the courts of the District of Celumbia: "It was announced in the Critic exralast night that shortly before 4 o'clock the Judge pronounced Dr. Mil-ard H. However, as soon as Mr. Lips-comb announced that the argument was closed, Judge Harper said: "This case has now been dragging wearily along for some time, under many difficulties. I have carefully considered the points set forth by counsel. I do not agree with the defense in their opinion that the act must be distinctly proven. Offenses of this character are almost invariably committed with the utmost secrecy and can only be proven by circumstantial evidence." He then referred to the
