DESERT NEWS.

GOOD HAY, to cut on the shares, near the city.—[We.]

The flood of emigration to the Valley is very great at the present time, and we were obliged to issue the second edition of our last No. to supply all, which was the cause of our late delivery to a portion of our subscribers. Those who received of the first edition, for No. 1 will read No. 14.

DONT LOOSE YOUR CATTLE.

The Brethren just arriving in the valley will find it greatly for their interest, to secure a recorded brand, and brand all their cattle and horses before they turn them off to herd, or let them get out of their sight; otherwise their cattle will be liable to stray, so that they may never find them. Any information on this subject can be obtained of Wm. Clayton, the Recorder of Brands, at the titling office, near the State House. The brethren who are acquainted with the law and order of branding, will be doing as they would be done unto, by giving that information to the emigrants as quick as possible on their arrival, as they may severally have the opportunity.

Since the emigration of 1849, and the killing of two Shoshone women, and the stealing of their horses by some mobocratic travelers, as we were credibly informed, from Illinois; the Shoshones or Snakes have manifested a very different disposition from what they had hitherto done. Those murders and thefts created a hostility in the minds of the Indians towards the Whites, and they have, from that time to the present, been lurking about our northern borders, and committing depredations, such as pasturing horses in the grain, robbing the corn fields, abstracting from melon patches, running off cattle and horses, &c. &c.; until on Monday night last, in one of their marauding expeditions, in a field or garden, they were shot at by a citizen, more, probably, to frighten, than otherwise, though the shot took effect and one Indian died: on Tuesday, the Indians massacred a citizen named Campbell, some distance from the settlement, on the north bank of Ogden River, and threatened to massacre the inhabitants, and burn the place by 9 o'clock next morning. An Express, stating the facts, was received at Head Quarters on Tuesday evening, when General Wells ordered a detachment under General Eldredge, to repair forthwith to the scene of action, and stand on the defensive, with the citizens of Weber County. At 9 o'clock Wednesday A. M., Gen. Eldredge, with a portion of Capt. Grant's Mounted Guards, and such others of the Legion as could be collected, were at Ogden. The Shoshones had moved North; taking, as is supposed, some cattle and horses. The Utes remained near by, a portion of whom were taken prisoners, without fighting, and kept as hostages for the good behavior of their tribe, who have been advised to remove South to their usual place of abode and have nothing to do with the further movements of the Snakes. It is expected the troops will remain, till the inhabitants and grain are secured; and we confidently hope there will be no more blood shed at present. [Thursday 4 P. M.]

July 18.—Professor Webster is to be executed on August 30th, for the murder of Dr. Parkman. Webster confessed on the 23d of May, he was the cause of Parkman's death, but not intentionally.
