Sterling Morton in setting aside one day in the year for the planting of trees, begun by him in a quiet manner and now almost a national holiday, has a loyal supporter in the State of has a loyal supporter in the State of Utah. From the chief executive of the State and all the State officials down to the youngest school children throughout the State, all delighted in the participation of today's observances. The banks in the city were closed all day, but the business houses did not feel disposed to shut their doors. The public schools were also in session, while the board of education has al-vays encouraged the children in the observance of Arbor day, and endorsed every effort to instil into their minds a proper appreciation of the worthiness of the day, yet they felt that the schools had already been disturbed too much. Outside of the city, however, it is thought that the school children are pretty generally carrying out the especial functions of the day,

Despite the fact that the business houses were open, the city bore the aspect of a holiday. The streets wer devoid of the goodly stream of pedes The streets were trians that now characterizes this growing city, which is a fair indication that a material portion of the community remained home to plant trees

Governor Wells and his official family and the justices of the Supreme court, together with others, repaired to the capitol site and proceeded to plant trees. The city officials also felt that it devolved upon them to ob-serve the day, which they did in a befitting manner in Liberty Park. The faculty and students of the State University were also in full accord with the day. The students turned out in the day. a large body together with their in-structors, and each class planted a number of trees. So that in a few years hence the new campus will be covered with luxurlant shade.

Governor Wells and Other State Officers Repeat Act of Former Years.

The time honored custom of planting trees on Arbor day was fittingly ob-served by the governor and state of-ficials who added a number of promiswho petitioned the Mayor to consider some is provements for that neighbor-hood The city owns quite a piece of land at the foot of Third street and Mr. Swan said that the people living around there much desired that the water should be piped for about 800 feet and the ground leveled over and trees planted, thus forming a fine little park of that land. He said that the residents in that neighborhood would do everything in reason to assist the city to accomplish such an end. Mr. Swan also said that the strip of land, just below the late Dr. Park's estate, between State strest and Canyon Road, through which the creek runs, belongs to the city and that the logical en-trance to the canyon is from State street at that point. He suggested that a roadway be built through that strip and called attention to the fact that hundleds of persons visit the canyon every day during the summer. The Mayor consented to consider the petition to make a park of the city land in that neighborhood and said that he would have the city engineer make plans immediately for such a park.

The drive was continued for a little way farther up the canyon when it was discovered that the trees to be planted had not yet been sent up from Liberty Park, and it was decided to go down there and plant some trees. The drive was quickly made and some fine young Boxelder and Ash trees were taken from the city nursery in Liberty Park to be replanted in another place Councilman Thomas wanted to know why the trees should not be put back in the same holes by the city fathers and as they began to carry them away he accidentally got behind a hedge and between two councilmen and called attention to the fact that "greatness was hedged in."

Finally the trees were got over to the new grove, which is situated in the northeastern corner of the junction made by the two roads that pass at righ, angles through the center of the park. Here they were planted under the direction of Park Florist E. M. Nel. him

A large number of the Cannon family, Including President Angus M. and Da-vid H., brothers of the deceased, went to Ogden on the one o'clock train, to meet the funeral party and remains, at the Junction City and escort them to Salt Lake.

THE FUNERAL ON WEDNESDAY. The funeral will take place on Wednesday at 12 o'clock noon from the Tab-ernacle, as announced in the "News" on Saturday evening. No changes from the outline suggested at that time have been made except that Bishop John R. Winder who will act as marshal of the occasion, has named the following as his aids: N. A. Empey, C. H. Wilcken, B. F. Grant, E. A. Smith and Moses W.

Taylor. WILL ARRIVE ABOUT 5:30. Later-Inquiry at the Rio Grande Western dispatcher's office at 4 p. m. elicited the statement that the funeral party would arrive about 5:30 p. m.

SPECIAL FROM TERMINUS.

At a late hour this afternoon the pas. senger department of the Oregon Short Line concluded that a special train would be put on from Terminus on Wednesday morning in addition to the one from Ogden on the occasion of the funeral services of the late President George Q. Cannon. The train over the Garfield branch will arrive at 10:30 a. m. and return from Salt Lake at 6 p. m. The regular Conference rates will be in vogue for the occasion.

PERSONAL TRIBUTES.

Two Hundred Trees.

Arbor day was observed in the customary fitting manner at the State University today. Before nine o'clock this morning the major portion of the student body had gathered at the libearth rary building. Most of the members of the faculty were also present. The students then divided themselves into classes and repaired to the spots selected for them by the faculty. The members of the faculty then went to a spot a few rods north of the lib-rary building and started what will be known as "Faculty Grove." They plented twenty trees, and they will continue this custom until about one-half an acre is covered with luxuriant shade trees. The students succeeded in planting about 200 trees. They were of the Elm, Box Elder, Linden, Ash, Maple many others which are destined and in a few years to transform the east bench, surrounding the University
