

WINNER TO MEET "FARMER" BURNS.

Chance for Charley Ross or Frank S. Lewis to Become the Champion.

AFTER TONIGHT'S CONTEST.

Wrestlers Expect a Terrific Struggle On the Mat at the Grand Theater This Evening.

Charley Ross, champion wrestler of the northwest, and Frank S. Lewis, ex-champion, middleweight of the world, will meet on the mat at the Grand theater tonight, and the winner will be matched to meet "Farmer" Burns, present holder of the middleweight title.

During an interview today with J. E. Shaver, Lewis agreed to meet Burns here should he win over Ross tonight. The latter has already issued a challenge to the great "Farmer," but if he loses tonight he may pass up the match.

The men will step on the mat in the best of physical condition. Lewis will have an advantage of at least twelve pounds over Ross. He admits that he weighs 150 pounds now, while Ross declares that he will not tip the scales at over 150 pounds. Ross says his shoulder is all right now, and that if he is defeated it will only be after the most terrific struggle that has been seen here for a long time. The only advantage he has is in his legs, and whether or not that will avail him anything remains to be seen. Lewis is a very powerful man and is capable of setting and making a fast pace. He has defeated some of the best men in the country during the last few months and is confident of winning over the local champion. Burns and Phillips say they are in great shape for their contest for the amateur championship of the state.

TYPHOID GERMS.

Important Discovery as to the Time They Will Live in Water.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—A discovery that may decide the interstate canal case before the United States supreme court was announced today by Prof. Jordan of the University of Chicago. While on the witness stand in the hearing of the injunction case of the state of Missouri against the state of Illinois and the Chicago sanitary district today, Prof. Jordan declared he had proved that typhoid germs will not live more than two days in sewage polluted water and will not live more than 10 days in pure water.

The discovery, beside being crucial in the present case, is contrary to all present scientific theories regarding the life of typhoid fever bacilli.

Associated with Prof. Jordan in the extensive experiments which led up to his discovery were Prof. Russell of the University of Wisconsin and Prof. Zeit of Northwestern university.

TO DISFRANCHISE NEGROES.

A Bill Introduced Into Maryland Legislature for That Purpose.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 4.—In the senate today Senator Wilson introduced a bill, the purpose of which is to eliminate the negro vote in Maryland. The bill provides for the submission to popular vote of a constitutional amendment which limits the right of suffrage to adult male citizens of the state who belong to one of three different classes, and the registers of voters are directed to refuse the registration of all others. These classes are:

First—Those who can read a section of the constitution of the state which the registers shall submit to them and give a reasonable explanation of it.

Second—Those who were, prior to Jan. 1, 1893, competent to register under the laws of this state or any other state, and Third—Lineal descendants of those qualified to register and vote under the preceding section.

The bill was referred to the committee on constitutional amendments.

WARFIELD AND THE NEWSBOY.

David Warfield, or Dave, tells about an experience he had with a New York newsboy the first day he got back home last fall. He was about to board a car at Forty-second street and Broadway when one of the Tenderloin "newsies," his new badge showing conspicuously, rushed up to him with an evening paper, crying: "Extra! Extra!"

"What are you trying to do to me, you rascal?" exclaimed the comedian.

"That's not an extra."

"It is an extra," insisted the boy.

"I know better. Go along with you," replied Warfield.

"It's an extra all right," said the lad, skipping away. "They gave me two papers over my regular number at the office, and they are extra."

"I was a newsboy myself once," mused Warfield, "but that is a new gag on me."

AN INTERESTING POLITICAL DEBATE

Conditions Under Harrison's and Cleveland's Administrations Are Compared.

DID SENATE SESSIONS MERCE?

Question of Recess Calls Out Sharp Talk—Gorman Says Tariff Changes Not Desirable.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The senate chamber again today was the arena of an interesting political debate with the provision in the urgent deficiency appropriation bill for a loan of $4,600,000 for the St. Louis exposition the basis for the discussion.

The controversy was precipitated by Mr. Lodge who quoted many official figures to demonstrate that Republican policies had not been a failure in the United States. Mr. Foraker also spoke devoting himself largely to a comparison of conditions under the Harrison administration and those under the administration of Mr. Cleveland to the advantage of the former.

On the Democratic side Mr. Gorman and Mr. Bailey were the orators. Mr. Gorman explained his attitude toward the army and navy, and charged that at the close of the Harrison administration the treasury of the United States was in a very bad way. Mr. Bailey followed up this charge with an elaborate presentation of statistics and contented that the export trade of the United States under Cleveland was greater than under Harrison. The exposition amendment had not been disposed of when the senate adjourned.

THE CRUM CASE.

The resolutions introduced by Mr. Tillman in the senate, making inquiry of the secretary of the treasury concerning the appointment of W. D. Crum as collector of the port of Charleston, S. C., and directing the senate to act on judiciary to make an inquiry as to what constitutes a recess appointment to office, was taken up today.

Mr. Tillman claimed that the records show that on Dec. 7 last, Mr. Crum was both nominated and appointed, and he declared that such a course had been without previous parallel. Mr. Tillman declared that there was no interim between the two sessions.

Mr. Lodge called attention to the fact that after adjourning the extra session the president pro tem had left the chamber and descended to the floor, returning afterward with the chaplain, who had offered prayer for the beginning of the first sitting of the new congress.

Mr. Tillman declared that the president pro tem had not gone three feet from the chair and had returned immediately. To say that there had been a recess was like saying that there had been an interim between the last session of Dec. 31, 1903, and the first session of Jan. 1, 1904.

QUESTION OF RECESS.

Mr. Platt, (Conn.) said that "if there had been no recess in December the recess appointments made prior to the beginning of the extra session did not go over into the regular session. Mr. Tillman replied that while there had been no recess, he did not think that there had been an end of one session and a beginning of another. Mr. Platt's suggestion, he characterized as a very attenuated thread for a great constitutional lawyer to hang a commission on quite as substantial as the spider's web of which Mohammed's bridge was built."

WHAT OF THE CONSTITUTION.

"What," Mr. Tillman asked, "becomes of the Constitution?"

Mr. Platt replied that it is the intention of the constitution that sessions come together as the executive is in session and the present regular session did, that recess appointments should hold over to the regular session in order that vacancies in office might not be created.

Mr. Tillman declared that Crum was not a fit man for the position, and that the community had made many protests against his selection.

On Mr. Tillman's suggestion the judiciary committee resolution was amended so as to relieve that committee of the necessity of deciding whether commissions are held as a result of "unlawful authority of the executive." The resolution as amended was then agreed to. It instructs the committee to report to the senate "what constitutes a recess of the senate and what are the powers and limitations of the executive in making appointments in such cases." The resolution was postponed indefinitely.

REDUCTION OF WAGES.

Mr. Foraker replied that the reduction of the wages of textile workers was due to the advance in the price of cotton. As for the other reductions, it was no unusual thing to make changes in the wages of the army, and he said it cost relatively more than that of other countries because it was composed of citizens temporarily serving their country, but still citizens.

Mr. Bailey declared that Mr. Foraker's speech proved too much, and said Mr. Foraker had found it necessary to compare himself with himself. For instance, he had shown that the prosperity of the country in 1893 was much greater than in 1892, notwithstanding the administration was the same.

As a matter of fact, no one party was responsible for all that was going on at that time. It was the joint product of God and man. It was not true, he said, that the Democratic party was the party of hard times. "No more clearly cry for Mr. Cleveland, but," he added, "unpopular as was Mr. Cleveland, he was not more so than will be the man whom you will elect next November if you elect any one. In fact, I have never known of a candidate who so many favor and so few want as the present occupant of the White House."

Mr. Bailey then read from statistical reports to show that the balance of trade in favor of the United States was more pronounced in favor of the United States under Mr. Cleveland's last administration than under Mr. Harrison's administration.

When Mr. Bailey concluded at 5:35 p. m., the senate went into executive session and at 5:42 adjourned.

CRUM'S OPPONENTS NOT THERE.

Washington, Feb. 4.—None of the opponents of the confirmation of William D. Crum as collector of customs at Charleston, S. C., appeared before the senate committee on commerce today and the matter went over until next Thursday, when former Mayor Smith of Charleston will testify. William McKinley, an attorney of Washington, and C. B. Smith, collector of the Charleston custom house, both collected spoke in Crum's behalf.

Mr. Foraker announced his support of the exposition amendment and expressed regret that the question should have been given a political hue. He expressed surprise at Mr. Gorman's remarks concerning the condition of the finances of the country at the close of Harrison's administration. He recalled the panic of 1893, which, he declared, was precipitated by the election of Mr. Cleveland on a platform pledging the repeal of the McKinley tariff law and the substitution of a tariff for revenue only.
