NATURAL HISTORY CONTROVERSY

Theodore Wood, Leading British Naturalist. With Dr. Long and Against President.

THE SNIPE AS A SURGEON.

Secures a Broken Limb by Means of a Stout Ligature-An Interesting And Authenticated Case Cited.

London, Aug. 27 .- Rev. Theodore Wood, vicar of St. Mary Magdalene's church at Wansdworth and perhaps the leading British naturalist, is on the side of Dr. W. J. Long in the natural history controversy between Dr. Long and President Roosevelt. The president's denunciations of "the yellow journalists of the woods," and in particular his citation as an example of "their deliberate invention" of the story of the woodcock which made a kind of mud splint for its broken leg, are taken exception to by Mr. Wood, who wrote out the following state-

"President Roosevelt may be an ex-"President Roosevelt may be an extremely able man, but the fact that he is president of the United States hardly qualifies him for delivering excathedra pronouncements on questions of natural history. Notwithstanding the scorn which he pours upon the assertion, I think there can be little doubt that snipe, at any rate, understand the art of binding up a broken limb by means of a splint. Statements to that effect have been made by many limb by means of a splint. Statements to that effect have been made by many naturalists and sportsmen, and M. Fatio's observations on the subject were brought some time back before the Physiological society at Geneva. It was stated that snipe had often been known to secure a broken limb by means of a stout ligature. On two occasions M. Fatio had seen snipe with interwoven feathers straped on the seat of the fracture of one of the with interwoven feathers straped on the seat of the fracture of one of the legs. A most interesting case was that of a snipe, both of whose legs he had unfortunately broken by a mis-directed shot. He only recovered the bird the following day, when he found that the poor creature had contrived to apply dressings and a sort of splint to both limbs. In carrying out this operation some feathers had become entangled around its beak and, not being able to use its claws to get rid being able to use its claws to get rid of them, the bird was almost dead from hunger when found. Magnin, a snipe which was seen to fly away with a broken leg was subsequently found to have forced the fragments into a parallel position, and they were secured there by means of a strong band of feathers and moss intermingled. The observers were particularly struck by the application of a ligature of a kind of flatleaved grass, wound around the limb in spiral form and fixed by means of a gluelike substance."

TOTAL VALUATION OF THE STATE OF IDAHO.

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 28.—The Evening Capital News says:
The total assessed valuation of the state of Idaho, as fixed by the state board of equalization from the reports of the county auditors from the assessments of the various counties, will reach nearly $100,000,000.

The figures on the total, excepting sheep, is $96,447,789.30. The valuation of sheep last year was $2,266,638. The board has compelled the return of many more sheep this year and has equalized their value at 50 cents a head equalized their value at 50 cents a head more than that year, so that there is likely to be an increase of nearly a million dollars on sheep which will raise the total to about $99,500,000. There is always some subsequent valuations sent in which go into the total of the year's valuation. This subsequent list will undoubtedly increase the total valuation to the $100,000,000 figure. This is an increase of over $18. ure. This is an increase of over $18,-190,000 over the report of last year. The greatest increase in any single property was that of railroads. The property was that of railroads. The main lines were valued at $13,000, an increase of $2,700 over the valuation of last year. The branch lines, as a rule, were subjected to even greater increase than were the main lines. On most of the valuations Gov. Gooding stood alone, the values being fixed by unanimous action of the rest

The governor was no satisfied with the valuations as given. He made a motion that main lines be assessed at motion that main lines be assessed at $15,000 instead of the $12,000 as agreed upon by the board, but his motion received no second. It has been stated that the governor wanted the main lines assessed at $18,000 but this is not

E. B. BRIMHALL KILLED BY BOLT

Lightning Strikes Spanish Fork Resident While in Field, Causing Instant Death.

(Special to the "News.")

Spanish Fork, Aug. 28 .- Emer B. Brimhall, aged 50 years, was struck by a bolt of lightning at 9 o'clock this morning and instantly killed, while his 16-year-old boy was badly stunned. Mr. Brimhall and his boy were engaged in stacking grain on his ranch 16 miles from this place, a terrific electrical storm came up, Suddenly a bolt descended striking Mr. Brimhall with the effect above stated, and temporarily dazing the boy. As soon as possible the young man rushed to the nearest neighbors with the report that his father had been killed, and secured assistance in bringing the body to town.

ANGUS M. CANNON STRICKEN.

Former President of Salt Lake Stake Visited With Slight Stroke.

President Angus M. Cannon suffered a slight stroke of paralysis Sunday noon last, and for a short time his family were alarmed; but he became convaiescent shortly afterwards, and while he is not able to be up and around, there is now no occasion for further apprehension.

Mr. Cannon has not been reeling well this summer, and of late spent considerable time at the Woodland Ranch of Barnard. Stewart, 60 miles from Salt Lake, at the headwaters of the Provoriver, where the our-of-door life was proving decidedly beneficial to him, and he grew strong rapidly. In fact, Mr. Cannon felt so well and strong Saturday that he felt perfectly able to ride horse-back for the greater part of the road to this city, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart following in a road wagon. Mr. Cannon rode 35 miles on horseback, a pretty good jaunt for a man of 73 years of age; and as Mr. and Mrs. Stewart caught up with him then, he rode the remainder of the distance to town in the wagon with them, alarmed; but he became convalescent for a man of 73 years of age, and as Mr. and Mrs. Stewart caught up with him then, he rode the remainder of the distance to town in the wagon with them, reaching home at 7 o'clock. No particular ill effects were noticed; on the contrary, the old gentleman expressed himself as feeling well.

Sunday morning, he attended a meeting of the high priesthood of Salt Lake stake, and afterwards dropped in at the residence of Hon. Rudger Clawson, to visit. It was there while sitting in a chair, that Mr. Cannon was seized with what appeared to be a fainting spell, which paralyzed his powers of speech, and affected his entire right side. Dr. W. T. Cannon was summoned, and John M. and George M. Cannon were telephoned for. The latter hurned up from Forest Dale with his carriage, and the patient was quickly removed to his home, where every attention possible was given him. But no really serious results were noticed; and thanks to the vigorous constitutional powers of Mr. Cannon he began presently to mend, so that he is now not only comfortable, but is regaining apparently the full control of his vocal organs. The exertion consequent upon the long and unusual ride, was no doubt the cause of what is diagnosed to be a very slight stroke of paralysis; but it is expected that in a few days the veteran will be out again as well as ever.

QUEER HONEYMOON.

Bride and Groom Walked and Rode Horseback 2,500 Miles.

The Seattle Times of Aug. 23 says: Tired, dusty and travel-stained, but radiantly happy, Quincy Scott and his bride, formerly Miss Ella Allen of Se-

final spurt and made the last block of a 2,500 mile horseback journey in

Mr. and Mrs. Scott were married last winter in New York, where Scott is well known as a newspaper artist. One hundred and twelve days ago they

Horses and outfit were procured in St.
Paul, and in the midst of a blinding anowstorm they started for Seattle.

Bad weather, steep roads and inhospitable farmers, who refused to sell them provisions, and mistook them for fugitives from justice, are only a few of the disagreeable things that the will have to tell their friends about, but in spite of all their hardships they but in spite of all their hardships they unite in saying that the trip was a huge success and the experience well worth the effort. Late last night they arrived at Kirtland, on the east side of Lake Washington, and this morning they entered Seattle from the ferry at Madison park. The horses with which they finished were the ones which crossed the continent, and despite the fact that they have averaged more than 20 miles a day over mountain roads, they are in good condition and look fit for a return trip if necessary.

Both the artist and his wife wore Khaki suits and carried little outfit be-sides blankets and a small tent, which they seldom used except in rainy weather. A kodak and light firearms were also included in their outfit, for use on any kind of animal which they happened to meet, but aside from rattlesnakes, which were plentiful, and a bear which invaded their camp one night without waking the sleepers, the kodak was all that was necessary.

"I can't say that I am not glad to have it over," said Mrs. Scott this morning, with a sigh of relief. "Do you realize that this is the first time I have worn civilized clothes for three months? While, of course, it was a delightful trip, and we got material for endless stories and a lot of good pictures, I don't think I would ever care to undertake anything so strenuous again.

"On the whole trip we only slept in houses about 12 nights, and from the start, when we insisted on reaching a hotel for the night, we passed through gradual stages of farm houses, barns and hay stacks, to the last two months, when we camped where night happened to overtake us and we could find food. to overtake us and we could find food

Luxuriously buried in the first easy chair he had seen for three months, Scott was inclined to look optimistically on his term.

"I'm a real tenderfoot," he said. "This is the first time I was ever west of Chicago. We got on very well, and after the first few days, when the horses were green and we weren't hardened to the riding, we enjoyed the trip. "We will be in Seattle about a month and then we will start back for New York. I like what I have seen of Seattle, but New York looks pretty good too."

A new railroad to the big copper camp over in the Oquirrh range of mountains is an assured fact and it was learned today that at least $250,000 had already been expended on the project in the way of making surveys, buying right of way, and in driving a tunnel into the mountains. The "News" printed a story several weeks ago to the effect that a survey of the proposed road was being made and it was also pointed out at that time that the Mascott tunnel of the Dalton & Lark mine was to be used in connection with it; that the line was intended primarily to supply cheap transportation for the ores of the Ohio Copper compan's mine and incidentally that it would be possible to make arrangements for the transportation of ore from other mines in the district at rates considerably under what it costs the mining company at the present time.

WARD ENTERTAINMENTS

Eighteenth Ward—The farewell testimonial to Elder J. J. Toronto and wife, who leave shortly to perform missionary work in the Swiss and German mission, will occur this evening in the Eighteenth ward chapel. The following excellent program will be fendared ou this occasion: dered on this occasion:

inforced concrete, which it looks upon as still being in a somewhat problematic stage."

Corroborating this, the United States government, through its geological survey experts, has issued a warning to the people in a widely scattered report sent out to the press. In part the report states that the recent collapse of a number of reinforced concrete buildings, with loss of life and several hundred thousand deliars, has brought forcibly to the attention of construction material experts the need of an immediate revision of the building regulations of the great cities of the country. It is declared that inattention to this new material on the part of officials of municipalities and the haphazard manner in which it is being handled by some contractors, has led to a most serious problem and will result in more disasters unless there is a remedy at once.

The government expert declares that the danger of collapse of concrete structures exists in nearly every important city of the united States.

"I have examined carefully nearly every one of the buildings that have collapsed in the past year," says this expert, "and in every instance the fall of the structure has been due to carelessness in construction. I am satisfied that the same errors are being repeated and that further collapses will surely come unless the officials of the cities take the question in hand now. This danger of careless construction confronts nearly every city of the country, and it is a miracle to me that more concrete buildings have not collapsed. In order to meet this problem squarely, every city should revise its building laws in such a manner that either the owner or the contractor of a concrete building shall be compelled to employ a competent inspector, whose duty it shall be to follow every detail of the construction from the beginning of the fundation to the completion of the roof."
