A Pioneer of the Florence Basin Paralyzed.

THE INDIANS NOT INDICTED.

A Strange Malady.—Celebration at Grand Junction.

IDAHO.

Joe Smith was found last Thursday in a paralytic condition on the Dead Horse trail between Florence and John Day creek, and was carried to Florence, where he still remains in a helpless condition. Joe is a pioneer of the Florence basin, and his friends will try to get him to his present condition. —Idaho City Press.

WASHINGTON.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 29.—William Robinson, a laborer in the Kent saw-mill, near Seattle, was killed by a fearful accident Monday afternoon. He fell against a saw which was in motion and had a good deal of lumber cut in his back. The death was so deep that his wounds were excruciating. He was taken to a hospital, and the physicians say he has a chance of recovery.

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 29.—An argument growing out of a street fight in this city, between members of the Longshoremen's Union No. 1 and 2, in which several shots were fired, and Michael Schumann, a Longshoreman, was killed, brought 200 men into the police court last Tuesday. Seven members of Union No. 2 were arraigned, charged with assault to murder Schumann.

MONTANA.

Butte, Montana, Oct. 2.—Peter Tronchetti, a middle-aged French wood-chopper, was found guilty last night of burning 1500 cords of wood belonging to the Colorado millers. The fire occurred on the night of June 29 last, and came out involving the smaller. Tronchetti turned the wood because he did not get all he thought he should for the work. He will get the term of the law. —Herald.

The Custer County, Montana, grand jury failed to find an indictment against the Cheyenne Indians for the killing of Ferguson on their reservation in the spring, and another while man has been sentenced, the particulars of which cannot be given. The release of these Indians from jail teaches a lesson. That it is impossible to convict an Indian of a crime committed on the reservation, for the reason that he cannot be identified and that little proof can be brought forward. —Laramie Boomerang.

NEBRASKA.

As a special Union Pacific train was running between Omaha and Chicago, Nebraska, the roof of a car was discovered to be on fire, and the trainmen cut off the front part of the train and shut it down. The fire was caused by a short circuit in the wiring. By the time they got the fire under control the big engine and boiler were entirely consumed. The car was a two-story building with a large number of passengers. A charred mass at the bottom of the car.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 2.—The story of a curious case developed here today when Mr. Childs, a hotel keeper at Phoenix, arrived here in search of his sixteen-year-old daughter, Rose. A young man named Joseph Braughman had been paying attention to her, but while Mrs. Childs looked with strong favor upon his suit, Mr. Childs was finally set against it. An engagement was accordingly planned and yesterday the young couple, accompanied by the mother of the young girl, arrived here and applied for a marriage license. When the clerk learned that the girl was only sixteen he refused to grant the license without the consent of her father. The three then took train for the next day. Mr. Childs arrived and he is not present in them. —Herald.

CALIFORNIA.

J. J. Hatfield, manager of the Bush Street Theatre, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Nathaniel Hunter for cruelty to children in permitting "Harry O'Leary," a six-year-old boy, to dance and sing at the theatre.

THE STATE FAIR OF COLORADO opened with fine displays in all departments. The fruit is mostly from Fremont and Montrose counties. The cattle and sheep departments are well filled, and the agricultural display is excellent. A number of race horses are present. The new electric railway to the ground will be in operation today.

Grand Junction, Colo., Oct. 2.—Extensive preparations are being made here to celebrate the completion of the track between Newman and this city, the last link in the local gauge line to Denver. At a joint meeting of the board of directors and the board of trade, committees were appointed to make the necessary preparations. A grand banquet will be given and the celebration will be in the city and to the city officials and members of the boards of trade and chambers of commerce of the cities and to the representatives of the press of Colorado and Utah. Great enthusiasm was manifested at the meeting, and there was perfect unanimity of purpose. The railroad is expected to be completed in ten days. The citizens of Grand Junction are determined to have a grand celebration. —Herald.

Newspapers and Journals.

Russia publishes but 800 journals, 200 of which appear at St. Petersburg and seventy-five at Moscow. An infinite number of languages are represented in the Russian press. England issues 3,000 periodicals, 800 of which are dailies. France has a number of weekly papers, which officially is 2,819, of which only a quarter are published daily, bi-weekly or tri-weekly. Italy publishes four hundred journals, 200 of which appear at Rome, 24 at Milan, 12 at Naples, 24 at Turin, and 9 at Florence. Of these 170 are dailies. This makes the Gazette des Etats, established in 1777.

In the United States and Canada 23,285,750 papers are printed every week, enough to supply two copies to every family in the United States. These papers are 6,025,000 dailies printed every day, which may also be the influence of newspapers in informing and influencing the minds of the people.

A Theatrical Nuisance.

The selection of the hour in London is said to be the cause of the nuisance. Mr. Hatten expressed his regret at the hour of the performance. The position of the audience who makes a business of attending theatres is to enjoy his night hours by his voluntary in a theatre, though a blow in the face seems too forcible a method to deal with the nuisance. Perhaps the best way to state the nuisance is to say a little to show the audience how they can deal with it. The story is as follows:

The other evening, while the audience at the theatre was indulging in the usual routine of the evening, a gentleman behind the audience was talking to his neighbor. "Excuse me, my friend, but what will you do for that row of yours?" "The gentleman behind me is talking to his neighbor and talking over his shoulder."

"About 11, I suppose?" "About 11, I suppose."

"Here is a twenty. Now that you're talking just let her alone, if you please."

The audience, however, and though the gentleman attempted to turn the joke by saying that the gentleman behind him was talking over his shoulder, the row was continuing in its effect and in the end, since that followed the gentleman's attempt to turn the joke, he was severely reprimanded.

But what the gentleman from the box said when, after the performance, they attempted to buy beer with the twenty and found it had been lost is left for publication. —Los Angeles Express.
