

RENDERS VERDICT FOR FULL AMOUNT

M.K. Parsons Awarded $4,294.91 By Jury in United States Court.

END OF NOTED CATTLE CASE

Suit Had Been Hanging for Many Months on Transfer From State Courts.

The jury in the case of Maurice K. Parsons and others against B. F. White, in which the plaintiffs asked a judgment for $3,357.80 with interest from June 20, 1906, this morning brought in a verdict for the plaintiffs for the full amount, in all $4,294.91. It was a noted cattle case in which the parties interested were well known on the ranges of Idaho and Oregon.

Maurice K. Parsons is in the cattle business and associated with him are William Hanley and H. L. Corbett, the firm name being Maurice K. Parsons. On June 16, 1906, Parsons delivered to the defendant, as the complaint avers, 786 yearling steers, the purchase price for which was $12,356. In return for these White agreed to buy from one J. D. Comb 200 head of 2-year-olds, which were to be delivered to Parsons in part liquidation of the debt. They were to cost $27.50 a head, in all $5,500.

It was alleged that White failed to keep his agreement and that the 2-year-olds were taken over by Parsons and paid for. The suit was for the recovery of the price paid for these cattle. The suit had been transferred from the state courts to federal jurisdiction and had dragged through a number of terms through technicalities and ordinary delays. The defense was that the original purchase had been made through an agent who was not accredited by White.

The usual 42 days in which to file a bill of exceptions was granted the attorneys for the defense.

HIS LABORS COMPLETED.

Judge Page Morris Extends Commitments to Local Bar Before Leaving.

Judge Page Morris concluded his labors in the federal court this morning, and at noon left for his home in Duluth, Minn. At the conclusion of the last case on trial he thanked the jury for their work and then, in a few genial words, handed down a decision which made the members of the local bar who have appeared before him crimson to the roots of their various hairs.

In his own particularly happy manner, Judge Morris told the lawyers that they were just about the finest bunch of men that he had ever had to deal with, that their courtesy had been unfailing, that their legal acumen would have made an Evans or a Choate get up and hump, and that—oh, all sorts of things. He said that his stay in Salt Lake was one of the most pleasant incidents in his career and then made J. B. Letcher, clerk of the court, best a hasty retreat when he directed a complimentary broadside on him.

Judge Page Morris has made a most favorable impression upon the members of the Salt Lake bar. He exhibited great finish as a jurist, his knowledge of law, in many profound cases which were tried before him, and great depth and with it all he manifested a sense of humor and a finesse which at all times relieved a heavy legal atmosphere when it became extremely tense. He has left a reputation as a humorist and his short tenure in Salt Lake will be recalled for years to come when the anecdotal stage is reached in the dens where the law books line the wall.

JUDGES MARSHAL ON BENCH.

Judge John A. Marshall will take up the work on the federal bench next Monday morning, when the regular Monday session will be held. The purpose of naturalization and other routine matters. Continuous Monday sessions will be held until Jan. 10, when the members of the federal bench who reside in Salt Lake will report. From then a jury will be selected which will try the few cases which remain upon the federal docket.

BAKER CASE CALLED.

Further Testimony Taken and Hearing Continued for Matinee.

J. A. Baker, who is fighting to obtain possession of his two daughters and son from his wife, Mrs. Pauline Baker, who is suing him for a divorce, was on the witness stand this morning when the case was called for further hearing in Judge C. W. Morse's court. Baker declared that his wife refused to allow the two daughters, Rene, 17, and Nina, 15 years old, to go to school. Mrs. Baker told him, he declared, that Nina was one of the "smoothest little grafters in Salt Lake" on one occasion. When he talked to Rene and wanted her to go to school, she declared that she was going on the stage. Baker said that he made a proposition to her to attend his sister's school of oratory, but she refused to do it, saying that she was "stage-struck."

On several occasions, Baker testified that his wife had taunted him because he would not drink beer with her. He said that shortly after Leroy, 4 years old, was born at Le Grande, Oregon, that she had company and sent out for a schooner of beer. He says that he refused to drink with them. When she lived at Kendall's court, he said that she asked him to have some beer with her and that he declined.

Baker also told his wife and Nina, who was keeping company with J. E. McCormack, that he objected to the man coming to the house. Nina promised to tell McCormack what her father had said. A few days later, Baker came home and found McCormack at the house. He asked McCormack if he had been informed that he was not welcome at their home. McCormack said he had not, Baker testified. "I told him if he wanted to get out of the house altogether," the witness said, "he had better get his hat and go."

During the past year Baker testified to a number of instances when he asked his wife to come to Bingham Junction where his work was and live there with him. On each occasion, she told him that she did not intend to live with him in Bingham or anywhere else. The case went over until this afternoon after the regular divorce matinee.

FUNERAL OF CLYDE WOOLLEY.

Impressive Services Held in Twenty-Fourth Ward Meetinghouse.

The funeral of Orson Clyde Woolley, son of Orson A. and Alice Goodard Woolley, was held Wednesday afternoon in the Twenty-fourth ward meetinghouse. A large attendance of friends were present, and the music and remarks of the speakers were comforting and impressive.

The first speaker was B. S. Hinckley, whose appreciative remarks on the mature and disposition of the deceased and his ambition to acquire useful knowledge were very comforting to the bereaved ones. Bishop Robert Morris, of the Eleventh ward also spoke of the sterling qualities of the young man. The other speakers were Patriarch Angus M. Cannon and Joseph E. Taylor.

The music was furnished by Samuel Winters, James Poulton, Lizzie Thomas Edward and Agnes Olson Thomas.

DEATH OF GEN. SUITER.

Aged Veteran of Civil War Passes Away at Age of 91.

Major Gen. Walter F. Suiter, Civil war veteran and a noted surgeon of the west, died Thursday at his home, 150 north West Temple street. Death, which came at the age of 91, was the result of a general breaking down accelerated by injuries received from a fall on the pavement several days ago.

The dead man is survived by the widow, Mrs. Nancy P. Suiter, two daughters, Miss Electa B. Suiter and Mrs. W. J. Barrette, 1062 east Second South, and a son, Dr. F. C. Suiter, of La Crosse, Wis. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made.

Gen. Suiter had a very distinguished war career, enlisting as a member of the Ninety-fifth Illinois volunteers. He served throughout the war under Grant and Sherman. He distinguished himself before Atlanta and was with Sherman in his famous march to the sea. He came to Salt Lake six years ago and was the oldest veteran in Utah. He was a member of McKean post No. 1, G. A. R.

JOKE ON "NEWLY-WEDS."

Mr. and Mrs. John Wise Victims of Prank at Ogden.

Pranks of practical jokers on the "newly wed" were played yesterday on John Wise and his bride, who was Miss Elizabeth Groo, 21 First avenue. They were married at noon yesterday at St. Mark's cathedral and were given a dinner at the bride's home.

Although Mr. Wise caused it to be announced that the couple would leave on the 6:05 train for Kansas City, he sought to put his friends off by leaving on a train two hours earlier. They learned too late that the couple had gone, but knew that they could not leave Ogden until the 6:05 train, made connections. The friends of the young people therefore hastened to Ogden, and by the time Mr. and Mrs. Wise boarded the car they found dodgers scattered throughout the train and their own berth well placarded with the following:

"Be kind to them. They are just married. Car 1. Drawing room 8."

CAMPAIGN FOR CLEANLINESS.

A campaign for greater cleanliness in the canning factories of the state was decided upon by the pure food bureau at a meeting held yesterday at the office of Willard Hanson, state food and dairy commissioner. Those present at the meeting were J. S. Carver, chairman; T. A. Williams, secretary and treasurer; Willard Hanson, and Herman Harms, state chemist. As the farmers usually make their contracts for the coming year in January, it was thought best to begin now to interest the farmers and the canners in more sanitary conditions. The bureau declares that it is receiving the hearty support of a number of canners and that it will not be long before the standard is raised considerably, especially in the handling of tomatoes.

PLEASANT RECEPTION FOR TABERNACLE CHOIR

First Presidency and Presiding Bishop Hosts at Enjoyable Social Function.

The first presidency and presiding bishopric of the Church gave a most enjoyable social reception Thursday evening, in Social hall in honor of Profs. Stephens and McClellan and the tabernacle choir. There were informal addresses from Presidents Smith and Winder, and others, with singing by choir soloists, followed by serving refreshments and a pleasant hour spent in social chat. The function was informal, and the more thoroughly enjoyed in that it brought the entire choir together socially partaking of the nature of a huge "get acquainted" affair.

THIRD WARD HALL TO BE OPENED TONIGHT

Large Addition Constructed in Which Amusements Will be Conducted—Dance This Evening.

In honor of the opening of the new $7,000 amusement hall in the Third ward, a dance will be held by the members of the ward tonight at the hall. It is to be a social affair and the people of the ward have been invited.

The new hall has been erected under the superintendency of Roscoe W. Eardley and Oliver Hodgson, who donated their services for the benefit of the ward.

The building is a large, handsome structure, adjoining the meetinghouse. The upper floor is arranged with a large dance hall and a stage that can be used for the giving of dramatic entertainments. The lower floor is fitted up with large class rooms that can be used for the various organizations of the ward.

The ward has appointed a committee on amusement, whose duty will be to arrange for various athletic and social events for the people of the ward. The members of the committee are: Zeke Ball, Orson H. Hewlett, Oscar Anderson, Gene Irvin and Ardelia W. Eardley.

FUNERAL OF MRS. BREWSTER.

Arrangements have been made for the holding of funeral services for Mrs. Annie Brewster, 330 Sixth avenue, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Twenty-seventh ward chapel. Mrs. Brewster, who was the wife of Edwin H. Brewster, died yesterday afternoon after a brief illness. She was born in England, May 13, 1845. She leaves a husband and nine children. They are: Mrs. A. R. Gibson, Seattle, Mrs. T. Peterson, Salt Lake, Mrs. J. Mathews, Mrs. Alex. Ohlud, Mrs. Edna Brewster, B. H. Brewster, Albert Brewster, Arthur Brewster and Leonard Brewster of Salt Lake.

FUNERAL OF JOHN LLOYD.

Simple services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon for John Lloyd, the veteran shoe dealer of Salt Lake, at the family residence, 228 east South Temple street. A. V. Taylor, president of the Theosophical society presided at the services which were held in a quiet and dignified manner. The body was laid at rest in the city cemetery. For years Mr. Lloyd was one of the best known men of the west, and at the time he retired from active work he had won a well earned reputation in his line.

Zero Temperature Reached For First Time This Season

Zero temperature was reached for the first time in Salt Lake for the season of 1909-1910 this morning when the lower stratum of the city, under the influence of a heavy settling of mountain currents showed just one notch above the nothing point. At the same time the thermometer on the top of the Boston building, where Weather Observer Thiesens keeps an eagle eye constantly on the alert, showed but a little over 8 degrees above.

The reading throughout the city varied a number of degrees, owing to atmospheric conditions. On the north bench, where the cold blasts come over the wall from the City Creek canyon, there was a reading taken this morning at 7 o'clock of 2 above. In various parts of the city there were differences of a few degrees.

But it was cold. With that it was bracing for those whose red corpuscles flowed rampantly through their arteries. There was the tendency to throw back the head and step up high, wide and handsome. It brought the glow to the eye, the color to the cheek—and to the nose—and manfully was most enjoyable. To the girls who were due at the big department stores early it was rather trying, for, for prominent facial extremities just would get red and there was no kind of talcum which was impervious to the onslaught of the boreal deity.

Yes, there were household troubles, also. The stoves were bugaboos to the so-called worse halves of the family who invariably manifested a desire to nurse the grateful warmth of soft coals. Those pesky furnaces came in for all sorts of smothered maledictions. "To the Work" was not a popular song by any means. Kitchens were popular resorts while the parlors were religiously eschewed.

On the streets in the early morning there were Cooks and Pearys in abundance while over all there floated a steaming residue of breath which would have become cloud-like in character were it not for the fact that it was congealed on its appearance and fell to the pavement as infinitesimal snow flakes. There were some troubles among the men who handle the juice on the street cars but it came principally from the cold in the air, not the bad conditions of track.

As the sun rose over the eastern hills there was some little betterment but not appreciable. It was noticeable that everybody hugged the sunny sides of the streets, when a stove was not available. At noon the temperature had risen a number of degrees but when one got into the shade there was a very general and abiding conviction that the north pole had moved its habitat.

The Christmas News will be issued tomorrow; all ready for mailing at the News counting room. Price 15c, in magazine form 25c.
