

SOCIAL CHAT

The usual bustle and cheer of the conference time has been in the air, and a spirit of sociality has been kindled with the prime motive of the gathering. Besides the affairs, formal and informal, in which the visitors have participated, have been a number of others, though comparatively few for this always busy season.

The largest event of the week was the reception given at the Bee Hive on Thursday night by the general board of the Relief society in honor of the local and visiting officers of the society and the Y. L. M. A. The spacious rooms were decorated, and thronged during the evening with those bidden, and a most enjoyable time spent by all.

Another delightful social affair of the week which transpired at the Bee Hive House was the farrowed reception given in honor of Miss Emma Lucy Gates, prior to her departure to New York to resume her musical studies. The rooms were effectively decorated, and a number of local artists rendered a program which delighted all present.

Among the large receptions of the week was that given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sadler on Wednesday night, celebrating the marriage of their son, James V. Sadler, and Miss Cora Corne of Ogden. The ceremony was performed in the morning at the bride's home in the latter place, and the young couple afterward came to Salt Lake, where they expect to reside. The rooms were beautifully decorated, each in its separate color, red, yellow, pink, and blue and green, while the hall was in green alone. The bride wore a charming gown of white crepe de chine and carried a large bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Louise Sadler, was in pale blue crepe, and carried pink chrysanthemums. Ernest Sadler was best man and assisting were Miss Alice Goodwin, Miss Louise Leary, Miss Louise Sullivan and Miss Stella McIntyre. Mr. and Mrs. Sadler will be at home after Nov. 1 at 1341 South Eleventh East.

Miss Pearl Tomlinson gave a reception Thursday night at her home on Preston avenue, in honor of Elder Thomas G. Lambert, who leaves Monday on a mission to Great Britain. About 40 young people were present and the evening was spent most enjoyably in playing games and engaging in other amusing pastimes. A guessing contest was a feature of the reception, the prize winners being Mrs. Mark Brown and Miss Rose Heath. Delicious refreshments were served.

The Ladies Wasatch Literary Circle opened last Tuesday at the home of Mrs. E. Hauxhurst. The attendance was good and the interest manifested in all that the most sanguine could desire. The poems given by the members and the several readings by Mrs. Wight as well as the music by Miss Hauxhurst were very pleasing. In the absence of Mrs. Cunningham, the president, Mrs. Hauxhurst gave the address of welcome. The afternoon was altogether an enjoyable one.

The Women's Republican club held the regular monthly meeting this week at the home of Mrs. Frank Hines on D street. The afternoon was spent in a social meeting, music being furnished by Miss Mamie Hines and Miss Lillian James.

The current events and current literature section of the Ladies' Literary club met yesterday afternoon at the club.

house. The topics for the afternoon were "The Indian in the Primitive State: His Landed Interest with Some of His Peculiar Customs," by Miss Mamie Ready; "The Educated Indian and What He Has Done for Literature," by Mrs. Parmalee; Indian songs, sung by Miss Emily C. Jessup, illustrating the religion and dances of the nation.

A pretty affair of the week was the luncheon given on Wednesday by Mrs. Edward Moore, in honor of Miss Crete Pinkerton, the guests being chiefly the members of her bridal party. The table was artistically decorated in autumn tints, and the place cards corresponded. The guests numbered about a half dozen.

Mrs. William Ishchari entertained informally at tea on Wednesday, in honor of Mrs. Joseph Young, who is here visiting from Denver.

On Monday Miss Emma Roberts and William Edwards were married, the ceremony being performed by Rev. E. L. Goshen, and a large reception following, the house being beautifully decorated for the occasion, and a large number of friends assisting in entertaining. The bride and her attendants were charmingly gowned and the entire affair was delightful. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards have gone to Everett, Wash., to reside.

Mrs. G. C. Moore entertained informally at luncheon at the Emory-Holmes cafe on Wednesday, her decorations being in pink and green, and covers being laid for eight.

Mrs. Louis C. Robinson entertained at a delightful bridge tea on Thursday, her guests numbering about 20. The rooms were bright with marigolds and crapeolles, and prizes were won by Mrs. C. R. Pearson and Miss Addie Zane.

Miss Daisy Raybould was hostess at a pretty affair on Thursday, in honor of Miss Lela Trent. Autumn leaves and sunflowers were used in artistic taste, and each was the feature of the afternoon, the prizes being awarded to Mrs. T. R. Black, and Miss Flora Rice of the Post. About 20 guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. George Price entertained at a dinner on Wednesday in honor of Mrs. C. S. Williamson.

PRINCESS ENA MAY BECOME A QUEEN.

The Princess Victoria Eugenie Julie Ena of Battenberg is the eldest daughter of the late Prince Heinrich Moritz of Battenberg and the Princess Beatrice, youngest daughter of the late Queen Victoria. She was born in Balmoral, Oct. 24, 1887, and is the first royal child born north of the Tweed in three hundred years. She was brought up very quietly in her widowed mother's family—Princess Henry died during the Ashantee expedition in 1896—and was presented at court last March. It was seen then that she was the tallest of the English royals, graceful withal, having regular features, superb complexion, blue eyes, flaxen hair, yet having black eye lashes. Princess Ena is a modern girl, is a fearless horsewoman, drives her own motor, as well as her pony cart, and is almost as good a musician as her mother. Alfonso of Spain has been reported engaged to the Princess Ena.

LACE HAT WITH VELVET CROWN.

An off combination noted in millinery this season is the velvet crown on the lace hat. These crowns are somewhat after the tam-o'-shanter style, but instead of being circular and gathered into shape, they are deftly plaited, some of them being oblong from side to side and thus becoming a part of the trimming of the hat as well as forming the crown. An effective hat of this kind which verges to the picture style, always popular, is of white Irish lace, the brim standing straight in front and turned down abruptly at the back. The crown is of black velvet, arranged in plaited or draped form, while to the left side is a cluster of white ostrich tips, so placed that they droop over the edge of the brim. Such a hat is appropriately worn with dressy day costumes or for evening. The combination of velvet and lace is most effective, and such a hat can be made to serve for all the year round.

CHIC FALL OUTFIT.

Correct in every detail is the fall outfit pictured, the dressy round skirt, the Empire coat, heavy street gloves, Japanese leather purse and stylish felt hat. The hat is illustrative of the newest mode in millinery, that of eccentric shape and novel adjustment of trimming. All of the trimming here is applied to the underbrim, which rolls abruptly away from the face. This trimming consists of drapery and bows of velvet ribbon and two novel wings at the left side. The street gloves are of heavy black kid in white to take the place of the white silk and lisle gloves that have been so fashionable during the summer time. The handbag is in one of the new shapes and is made of the highly decorated Japanese leather. The coat is made of a beautiful grey frieze, the shortwaisted effect of the Empire mode introduced here. There is a simple trimming of velvet on the collar and cuffs and the girde strapping across the front. The black broadcloth skirt is trimmed at the bottom in the new waisted lines, so characteristic of the new modes. This trimming is made of straps of the broadcloth piped with black velvet, and caught down on the points with handsome cloth covered embroidered buttons.
