

JEROME AGAIN BADGERS THAW

takes that he said Jerome had made in the trial. In these remarks he referred to his wife as "Poor Evelyn."

Jerome introduced Thaw's notes on the conduct of his lawyers at the two trials in which the attorneys were roundly censured.

"I hate to read this," remarked the prisoner.

"I am afraid these gentlemen may come in here and testify that I'm insane."

"No danger," said Jerome.

Thaw was excused at noon by Jerome, after two hours' questioning. His counsel said he would put him on the stand later.

JUSTICE MILLS' QUESTIONS.

Then Justice Mills went to the heart of the case with a series of questions: "Do you thoroughly believe that you told Dr. Evans as to your beliefs regarding White? Were your beliefs honest?"

"Distinctly, yes."

"At the present time do you hold the same belief as to White's practices?" "I have found I was mistaken in some things."

"But in substance, do you believe that White committed these offenses against young girls?"

"Yes."

"Do you hold that you had ample evidence? Have you more evidence on this subject than the statements of various women who said they had lost their virtue?"

"Yes, sir, Mr. Comstock."

"But Mr. Comstock told you he could not corroborate this and make certain proof."

"No, Mr. Comstock told me he had unmistakable proof, and I thought his judgment better than mine."

"Did you consider the statements of abandoned women to be trustworthy evidence?"

"By no means."

"How long before White's death did you have these fixed ideas as to his acts?"

"As early as June, 1905."

"These papers and exhibits indicate that your mental attitude then was that your act of killing White was praiseworthy to be compared with the act of David in killing Goliath. Did you make this suggestion to Mr. Delmas, believing that it was right to make such an appeal to the jury?"

THAW HESITATES.

Thaw hesitated and began to stammer. "You need not excuse yourself," said the justice. "For anything you did in fighting for your life. Under such circumstances a man is expected to take every chance."

"Now," went on Justice Mills, "they are going to argue to me that all the way through you have exhibited an 'exaggerated ego.' I have been observing you. You have had the assistance of one of the ablest lawyers in the country. I have observed you constantly interrupting him and making suggestions. You have constantly changed your course before me. Why don't you trust Mr. Moerschhausel?"

"I do," said Thaw nastily.

"Why did you not trust your other lawyer, you, a man, unlearned in the law? Haven't you felt all the way through that you were better able to conduct this case?"

"No, sir," answered Thaw, "although I might have in the case of Mr. Hart-ridge."

YALE ATHLETE LICKS FIVE BANDITS

Barmen, Rhinish Prussia, July 30.—Five bandits today made the mistake of tackling a former Yale baseball player, and in about two minutes learned what "muscular Christianity" means. James L. Houghteling, of Chicago, a former member of Yale baseball squad, while on his way here today to attend the world's conference of Young Men's Christian associations, was set upon by thieves on the Italian frontier.

The encounter was brief but in every way decisive. Houghteling used two fists at the end of two muscular arms. There were five robbers in the band. Two ran away after getting

PUT $100,000 IN CONTRIBUTION BOX

New York, July 30.—John H. Deane, a lawyer and real estate operator who a few years ago dropped $100,000 into the collection plate at the Calvary Baptist church, has testified in the supreme court in supplemental proceedings that today his entire worldly possessions consist of a suit of clothes he wears and $7 in cash.

Mr. Deane had given away large sums of money previous to his business reverses. He gave $100,000 to the University of Rochester and besides the $100,000 which he placed in the contribution plate one Sunday, he donated $50,000 to the Calvary church building fund. He testified to his present depleted financial condition in an action brought by one of his creditors.

AMERICANS COMING HOME.

New York, July 30.—The tide of ocean travel is now changing and the great crowd of Americans who have spent the season abroad are starting home. From how on the companies believe that each incoming ship will be crowded with the homeward rush.

The North German Lloyd steamship Kronprinzessin Cecilie, due to arrive on Tuesday from Bremen and channel ports, will bring almost 300 cabin passengers, of whom about 300 are in the first cabin and more than 300 in the second.

The opening of the schools in September is largely responsible for the early home-coming of many. As usual the steamship booking during the months of August and September will be heavy.

UTAH JOCKEY CLUB LEASES RACE TRACK

One Mile Course Near Poplar Grove Secured for Meets of Horsemen and Bookies.

The Utah Jockey club has leased the old, one-mile track near Poplar Grove, through the local representatives of Charles Francis Adams of Boston, for a term of years, and proposes to open up there, where the statue of local public sentiment will not bother the management to any alarming extent. This track was known as the Faust track in its glory 30 years ago, while it is not in any great repair, still for a moderate sum the premises can be put in good condition. This transaction is taken to mean that the bookmakers, the gamblers, and the usual tough aggregation of race track hangers on will be back again at their work in due time.

TROUBLE BREWER BLOWN UP.

The stone planer that was the occasion of so much trial and tribulation among the local stone masons when the federal building was started, and finally precipitated a strike, now lies an inglorious wreck at LeGrand Young's stone quarries. It was hauled up there some time ago by a lessee of quarry privileges, but when he failed to carry out his plans, the machine was left lying in the way of Judge Young's workmen. To get rid of it, the planer was finally shot off with dynamite and broken up. It originally came from Omaha.

POLICE LOOKED ON.

Master Plumber Tells of His Experiences With Officers of the Law.

With reference to the cowardly assault made upon a plumber by one of the strikers, a master plumber said this afternoon that the action of the police, or rather lack of action, was disgraceful.

"At the time of the assault," said he, "there were several officers near the scene. The master plumbers had every reason to expect assistance from the officers of the law in the event of trouble, but instead of getting it, the police really sided in with the journey men and did not offer to assist us in any way. We were acting within our rights and should have been protected but the officers stood around and permitted the law to be violated."

DEATH OF MRS. LOWE.

TROPICS ARE CONQUERED.

Government is Fast Reducing the Death Rate Among Canal Workers and Panama People.

It has been proved that the female anopheles mosquito is the only means of infection with malaria and the work in Panama has been directed to killing the mosquito. Destruction of the breed-

Colon, a town built on piles in a swamp, has been rendered practically mosquito free by draining. All houses are screened, especially the galleries. All employees are urged to take these grains of quinine daily. There is one chief inspector and 17 district inspectors who carry out these measures. A complete record of the cases of malaria in each district is kept and the sanitary work regulated accordingly. The malarial rate at Panama has dropped from 81 per 1,000 in 1905, to 28 in 1908 and the death rate from 7.45 to 1.34 per 1,000. The general death rate has changed from 65.41 per 1,000 in 1905, to 24.82 in 1908; in the canal zone from 31.60 in 1907 to 18.95 in 1908; among government employees from 41.37 in 1905 to 13.01 in 1908. Among American men in 1908 it was 7.69 per 1,000, and among women and children 9.73. This rate is higher than in the United States.

Tropical debility is due largely to malaria. With the modern knowledge of sanitation the tropics will soon become as habitable by the white men as the temperate zone. The cost of protection from malaria and yellow fever in the tropics is no greater than the cost of protection against cold in the north. To future generations the building of the Panama canal will be known less as an engineering enterprise than as the first demonstration of the habitability of the tropics by the Caucasian.—Medical Record.
