LAWSON WON THE THREE MILE RACE

And Also Made Very Fast Time At the Saucer Track Last Evening.

MOTORS REFUSED TO WORK

Therefore the Last Event of the Evening was Spoiled—Downing Won The Event from Redman.

An unusually large crowd assembled at the saucer track last evening and saw another splendid program of bicycle races. The number of spectators on hand was surprising in view of the fact that it is so near after the Fourth, but it indicates the popular favor of the bicycle racing game.

The program would have been without a flaw had it not been for the contrary actions of the motor cycles in the five-mile paced race between Iver Redman and Hardy Downing. Redman started to follow Heagren's machine but just as they were about to start, the Machine balked and refused to work under any conditions. Then Samuelson's chug-wheel was brought forth, and it too made a brave start but quit cold at the critical time. The result was that when the machine did decide to go a little, it was not fast enough to give Redman proper pace, and Downing won hands down.

The three-mile lap race professional, and the Australian pursuit race, were events worth going a long way to see. They were close and decidedly thrilling in the former event. Williams and Hollister formed a combination and had visions of the big money, but it appears that one Bill Samuelson, and one Iver Lawson had similar views, and also a license to butt in. And they did butt in to the extent that the first named team was beaten to a standstill.

Williams tried hard to pull Hollister around to victory, but each time he let out a sprint, the Provo boy hauled Lawson alongside. And so it went for three miles, and what brought the crowd to its feet was the sprint in the last half of the last lap, when Samuelson was leading and Lawson proceeded to crowd him to the tape. Lawson managed to come home first, but it was only by an inch or so, and many thought it was a dead heat. That the entire bunch was going some is evidenced by the fact that the three miles were covered in 5:56 4-5.

The Australian pursuit saw Wilcox and Hume fight it out in the finish. One by one the riders dropped out until only this pair remained. Then for two miles they raced, each trying to overtake the other. Finally Wilcox "baked" and Hume shot by him a winner.

A summary of the events follows:

Half-mile, amateur, final—C. Redman, Castro, West. Time—1:08 2-5.

Three-mile lap professional—Lawson, Samuelson, Redman, Hollister. Time—5:56 4-5.

Mile handicap consolation professional—Hopper (scratch), Bowler (scratch), Hearen (120 yards). Time—2:00 1-5.

Australian pursuit amateur—Hume, Wilcox, C. Redman. Distance—3 miles 6 laps, 180 yards. Time—8:25.

Five-mile motor-paced race between Downing and I. Redman—Won by Downing by two and one-half laps. Time—4:06 3-5.

A NEW GYMNASIUM.

Willard Bean Will Promote Amateur Boxing Exhibitions.

Willard Bean announced last evening that he had secured a lease on quarters in the Board of Trade building on Second South, where he will establish an up-to-date gymnasium, and where he will be able to pull of amateur boxing contests. He says that the main room where the events will occur, will accommodate at least 500 persons. He says that occasionally he will try to promote professional bouts, but that they will be of a high class order.

SCHRECK IS READY

To Sign Articles for a Fight for Championship with Hart.

Word has been received from Chicago that Mike Schreck has, by his manager, Billy Hogan, posted a forfeit of $1,000 to bind a match with Marvin Hart for the title of heavyweight champion of the world. Hogan is anxious to have the contest take place in this city, but says he is willing to go where the best inducements are offered. It is likely that Hart will take on the wrestler, Frank Gotch, before he signs with Schreck.

FAST HORSES COMING.

Denver Owners Will Ship Speedsters for Big Local Meet.

Manager Jones of the state fair track, says that he has received word from Denver horse owners, that within a few days they will ship some of their fastest horses to Salt Lake, and enter them for the big sixday race meet which begins here on the 24th. The meet will be under the auspices of the Western Racing association, and the events will be run according to the recognized rules of the National association.

As fast as the speedsters arrive in this city they will be taken down to the track where they will be quartered, and where they can have the advantage of daily work outs. The horses already here are now in training each afternoon.

My Life

Hung On a Single Thread With Heart Disease.

You should never wait until your life hangs in the balance before you give the necessary aid to your sick heart.

A weak heart is always serious, for it affects every organ of your body through its inability to purify and keep the system supplied with pure, rich, life-giving blood.

Any indication of heart trouble, such as shortness of breath after exercise, redness of face, hot flushes, oppressed feeling in chest, weak, hungry spells, palpitation, dizziness, sudden starting in sleep, irregular pulse, is serious, and should be cured at once.

The safest and surest treatment is Dr. Miles Heart Cure, a nerve and muscle builder, a blood tonic. It acts directly on the heart nerves and muscles, giving them strength and vigor, and relieves every symptom of a sick heart.

Your life depends upon your heart, and a weak, diseased heart, like a single thread, can endure but little.

"I suffered for years with my heart. At times my life hung by a single thread. A number of physicians and an eminent specialist treated me. Without the knowledge of my doctor I took Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. It lifted the pains from my heart, and caused a free circulation of blood. I am now able to attend to my affairs, something I had never hoped to do again."—MR. JOHN ROELGES, 186 Clinton St., Cleveland, Ohio.

ATHLETES SHORT LIVED.

So Says Dr. Anderson in His "Making a Yale Athlete" Article.

According to Dr. William G. Anderson, in his article on "Making a Yale Athlete," in Everybody's Magazine for July, college athletics tend to prolong rather than to shorten life. "The hostile criticism," says Dr. Anderson, "that athletes 'die young' has been so often made without definite refutation that it passes for truth among those who mistake rumor for fact. An investigation of the health and longevity of college athletes must be exhaustive to furnish trustworthy data. Realizing the importance of such statistics, Prof. Franklin B. Dexter, the librarian of Yale, has recently completed the task of collecting the records of 761 athletes who competed in the intercollegiate events and won their 'Y's' on the eleven, the nine, the crew and the track team between 1855 and 1904. This material was gathered for a prominent life insurance company, and later given to the director of the gymnasium. The main deductions are as follows:

Of these 761 athletes, 51 have died since graduation. The causes were: Consumption, 12; pneumonia, 44; drowning 6; heart disease, 2; suicide, 2; war and accident, 3; died from unknown causes or disappeared, 10; from various diseases (fevers, appendicitis, cancer, diphtheria, paresis, dissipation, etc.), 12.

"Of these 51 men, 18 rowed, 16 played football, 11 were track athletes, and 6 played baseball. The ages of those who have died show these extremes and averages:

Sport	Extremes of Age.	Av. Age at Death.
Crew	20 to 68 years	41.7 years
Football	22 to 37 years	30.3 years
Baseball	20 to 39 years	28.3 years
Track	21 to 33 years	25.4 years

"Turning to the 710 living athletes, those who have passed 40, may thus be grouped: 113 are between 40 and 49 years of age, 38 are between 50 and 59 years of age, 2 are between 60 and 70 years of age.

"Of the Yale athletes in their latter years, 13 are between 60 and 65 years, 1 is 66, 3 are 66, 1 is 67, 2 are 68, and 1 is 69. In brief, barring violent deaths, only 40 of these 761 Yale athletes, in a period of nearly 50 years, have been lost from the ranks of the living.

"I have been assured by a life insurance expert that college athletes, barring the track men, show a better average expectation of life than their non-athletic classmates, and much better than the general average of insured lives."

Englishmen Win.

Bisley Camp, England, July 7.—The close finish of the initial range in the match between the teams of the Seventh regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., and the Westminster volunteers yesterday for the Sir Vincent shield increased the interest in today's shooting, bringing out even a larger gallery than yesterday.

On the whole the breeze was very light, but the sun was much stronger and the glare in their faces interfered with the marksmen. The heat was oppressive.

The total scores were: Westminster, 345; Americans, 328.

The Englishmen won by their superiority at long ranges. Unfortunately for the Americans, Meyer went to pieces at the 1,000 yards. Otherwise the finish would at least have been closer.

The Americans were given the heartiest send-off when the shooting was over. They were escorted to the train, preceded by a band.

TWO PRETTY BAD BREAKS.

Life insurance agents are more intelligent than phonographs. True, they repeat their little stories, just as phonographs do theirs, but, a life insurance agent can think, and phonographs have never yet been suspected of ratiocination.

One diligent agent was vibrating the sensorium of a business man with all of the reasons why he ought to buy a policy, climaxing his work dramatically, as they all do, with a tearful explanation, thus: "Think of the good that $5,000 will do your widow if you are suddenly called hence."

"Yes, I know all about that," replied the business man, "but I've never been married, and there will be no widow."

"Then, for pity sake," anxiously exclaimed the earnest agent, "think of the poor, unfortunate orphans who will need the money."

Just as bad a break—even worse—was made by the proprietor of a leading hotel in Washington some years ago. He was a handsome fellow, large, well-proportioned, dressy, but illiterate. He was reared in kitchens and dining rooms, and knew hotel business, but nothing else. There was a conclave of Roman Catholic prelates, and two score of them were guests of his hotel. Swelling out his chest, the proprietor walked about the lobby, talking with these learned and trained soldiers of the church, and telling them lies which would make any ordinary man blush to utter or hear; but the prelates never smiled nor exhibited sign of annoyance. At last, having spoken of his visits to Rome, one of the bishops asked him whether or not he had made the acquaintance of the pope, and he cheerily replied:

"I've met the pope every time I've been to Rome, and the last time I was there, I dined with the pope's daughters."

The bishop did not notice the insolence nor the indignity of the lie; but caught the humor of it, and he long Chesty around introducing him to other prelates, as "The only American who ever dined with the daughters of the pope."

ONCE WAS ENOUGH.

Senator Dubois was lamenting the decay of oratory among American statesmen.

"With only a few exceptions," he said, "we have in Washington no orators worthy of the name. On this account I had to accept in silence during the last session an acid criticism from a clever woman.

"I attended a meeting of the Senate the other day,' she said, 'and that night I had a terrible dream.'

"'What did you dream?' said I.

"The lady smiled.

"'I dreamed,' she said, 'I went again.'"

MADDOCK-YOST WRITING A BOOK

Two Great Exponents of Rapid Play in Football Collaborating.

ARE TOGETHER IN MICHICAN.

Local Players at Work Developing Center and Quarterback for Next Season.

Maddock from Michigan, the now famous coach of the University of Utah, whose record of last year with the Utah team attracted wide eastern notice, will probably blossom out in the football world next year with a new feather in his cap of accomplishments. This time he will be an author, and his name will be linked with the greatest of all winning coaches, Yost of Michigan. Maddock was the 1904 selection for the All-American team selected by Walter Camp of Yale, and he is a man whom Yost picked up as a freshman and built into a football player. He and Yost are warm personal friends now that they are engaged in the same profession, and it is learned here from Utah men studying at Michigan, that Yost and Maddock are now hibernating in a Michigan village near Maddock's home, hard at work writing a book, the title of which is "How to Play Football." The book will be on the market for next season, and will probably be a written exposition of the game as only Yost and his family of players know it.

MADDOCK'S BROTHER COMING.

Another bit of interesting Maddock news comes in a letter to Capt. Fred Bennion. It states that when Maddock starts westward at the end of the present summer he will probably bring with him his younger brother, who has just graduated from a Michigan high school, and intends to follow the study of mining. He is slighter than the big coach, and is mentioned as having "played a little football." From other sources, however, it is learned that he is much desired at Michigan, and is looked upon as a promising star man.

CENTER AND QUARTERBACK.

Among local football men, there is a great deal of anxiety manifested as to who will fill the center trio and the position of quarterback. The Utah back field for next season is well supplied with material, but the heavy center men are as yet unprovided. The critical position of center and quarter give the most worry. Robbins last season passed the ball with never swerving steadiness, and Wade took it with remarkably speed. For Wade's place Pitt, the streaky but rapid halfback and end, is being worked out, and for Robbin's place in the center Varney is taking on form. The two men work together in the mines at Park City and for an hour every day work together with a football, perfecting its passing, so that when the team gets together next fall its practise will not be hindered by a raw center and quarter. If their work is successful next season should see the first few weeks of training devoted to learning the fine points of the game, instead of the elementary phases.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Detroit	1	6	1
Chicago	4	3	0

Batteries—Donovan and Doran; White and Sullivan.

WESTERN LEAGUE.

Omaha, July 7.—A previously postponed game with Des Moines set for today was won by the visitors. The grounds were very wet, which prevented fast playing.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Omaha	7	7	1
Des Moines	1	6	2

Batteries—McCloskey and Gonding; Morrison and Towne.

Denver, July 7.—Swormstedt was decidedly weak in the first game today and allowed the home team to score enough runs in the first two innings to win. The visitors made a poor showing in the second game also.

First Game—

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Denver	8	13	3
Colorado Springs	6	11	0

Batteries—Vollendorf and Fisher; Swormstedt and Messitt.

Colorado Springs	5	9	2

Batteries—Schaub, Hickman and Lucia; Linasey, Stimmel and Messitt.

Sioux City, July 7.—Sioux City, after overlooking an opportunity to retire the side, lost the game in the second inning today, when St. Joe smashed the ball for six runs.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Sioux City	5	12	1
St. Joseph	10	16	2

Batteries—Newlin, Barrett and Brown; Jones and Zibran.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE.

Tacoma, Wash., July 7.—Tacoma took the first game in the race for the pennant. Both Emerson and Williams were hit hard, but the former, who made his initial appearance in Tacoma, played the better of the argument. Both sides did some sensational fielding.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
San Francisco	3	10	3
Tacoma	8	13	0

Batteries—Williams and Wilson; Emerson and Graham.

Umpire—Davis.

San Francisco, July 7.—Los Angeles played a listless game today and lost to Oakland by a score of 2 to 10. Oakland fell upon Gray for fourteen hits and completely outplayed Los Angeles. In the fourth inning Oakland scored five runs on three hits. Devereaux and Moskiman each made a three-base hit. Schmidt allowed seven hits, but kept them well scattered until the last inning.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Los Angeles	2	7	2
Oakland	10	14	1

Batteries—Gray and Spies; Schmidt and Stanley.

Seattle, Wash., July 7.—Both teams hit the ball hard today, and although Portland's smashes were cleaner and longer, Seattle finally got away with the winning end. Walters, Stickney and Peary did the slugging for the locals, while Schlafley, McLean and Mitchell starred with the bat for Portland. Mitchell wrenched his ankle in the fifth and will probably be out of the game for some time.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Seattle	9	11	4
Portland	8	14	4

Drs. Shores' Explain Disease of the Stomach.

THE PEOPLE AT LAST UNDERSTAND that Drs. Shores' Treatment is the only reliable and safe method for the treatment of Chronic Diseases of the Head, Throat and Bronchial Tubes, and are in a condition to appreciate how the Treatment works in curing another disease—that which affects the stomach. This is not a curable disease under any known plan adopted by the old school doctors. Their method of dealing with the lining of this organ that is inflamed and irritated by disease is all wrong. It is wrong because the old school doctors introduced into the irritated organ medicines which further irritate and inflame its structure, and aggravate instead of cure. Under Drs. Shores' methods of treatment the inflamed and diseased stomach membrane is soothed, not irritated. Next to the lungs, the stomach plays the most important function in keeping up the health. The lungs give the blood oxygen and remove the foul gases it contains. The stomach manufactures food into substances from which the more solid parts of the blood are formed.

I. WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

The name that has been given to all stomach diseases is Dyspepsia, and this name is used for want of a better one.

The word dyspepsia means Difficult Digestion. It does not indicate a disease, it only expresses a condition, and sub-acute inflammation of the stomach certainly renders digestion extremely difficult.

II. HOW TROUBLE BEGINS.

In many cases diseases of the nose and throat, if neglected and unchecked, instead of extending down into the bronchial tubes, extend along the œsophagus, or swallow, into the stomach.

Disease of the stomach is usually caused by swallowing poisonous mucous, which drops down from the head and throat at night.

With disease in the head and throat there is more or less discharge, which accumulates in the throat by dropping there.

The mucous discharge is dropped into the throat from the back part of the nose, and in the daytime is hawked up and expelled.

At night this nauseating material still continues to drop into the throat.

It first collects in the pharynx, then it is brought into contact with the foul and impure air from the lungs and is mixed with the germs of decay.

Decomposition results, and in this condition the vile material is swallowed while asleep and goes to the stomach.

The decomposing discharges so swallowed are poisons, not deadly ones, but poisons, nevertheless—which act slowly but surely, undermining the patient's constitution.

III. A FURTHER EXTENSION

The thousands of little glands situated in the lining are free to pour out the juices that are needed to digest the food in the healthy stomach.

With disease attacking the lining of the stomach, the little glands are choked up by the swelling, and their exit is blocked by the sticky mucous which has resulted from inflammation.

As a consequence, there is not enough digestive juices formed and poured out into the cavity of the stomach.

The food, not having the necessary materials to dissolve it, lies in the stomach like lead.

This food after a time decays, during which process it gives off foul gases.

Instead of being converted into nourishment for the blood, it is changed into poisonous gases, which distend the stomach, diluting it so that the organ presses upward on the heart and lungs.

This causes a sense of smothering, relief from which is only obtained by belching up the gas, or its passage along the bowels, where it causes a sense of distension and rumbling.

Along with the formation of gases that takes place as a result of disease in the stomach, there is found a coated tongue, loaded, as it is, with the particles of decayed food that have risen from the stomach.

There is nausea, and sometimes vomiting, in the morning, with hawking and gagging upon arising, and it requires quite an effort to free the stomach of the mass of mucous that has accumulated in it during the night.

IV. PATIENT'S EXPRIENCE

The patient gets up in the morning, his throat is full of nasty slime, which dropped there in the night.

This slime gives him a bad taste in the mouth.

He hawks and spits a great deal to rid himself of the offensive stuff.

He coughs, and that makes him gag, and sometimes vomit.

He has a disgust for food, and can eat but little, if any, breakfast.

The offensive matter swallowed during the night coat over the food he eats, and keeps it from digesting.

The food rots in his stomach and forms a lot of gas, which bloats him up.

He belches up a quantity of bad-tasting wind.

A lot of the poisonous stuff is absorbed into the system, and he feels sick at the stomach.

He becomes costive, has a coated tongue, feels dizzy, and has a rush of blood to the head.

Sometimes he will bloat up so that he can hardly breathe, and feel as though he would smother.

He has pains in the lower part of the back and across the kidneys.

His hands and feet are cold, and, when not cold, they sweat and feel clammy.

He feels nervous and weaker all the time.

He has frequent attacks of palpitation, or rapid beating or fluttering at his heart.

The old plan of doctoring for stomach troubles consisted in purges and emetics.

Drugs that irritated or inflamed the stomach.

V. THE OLD PLAN.

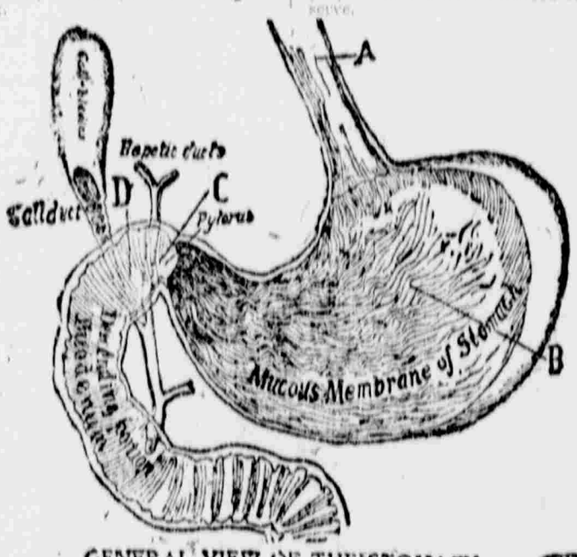
The old plan of treating stomach troubles was like heaping dry fuel on a smouldering fire.

Under Drs. Shores' treatment, the inflamed and diseased lining of the stomach is first soothed and quieted by the use of proper remedies.

The sore and inflamed spots are healed and the lining of the organ is restored to its wonted tone and healthy condition.

Under this plan, healing drugs quiet the sore and inflamed spots that have been throwing out quantities of sticky, slimy mucous that is mixed with the food and has coated it over, thus preventing the gastric juices from dissolving and digesting it.

When once healed, the lining of the stomach is enabled to serve the purpose that nature intended it to serve.



GENERAL VIEW OF THE STOMACH.

A—Shows the esophagus, or swallow, which is the seat of disease. B—The mucous membrane of the stomach, which is affected by the disease extending from the swallow. C—Shows the pylorus opening into the small bowel, through which disease passes from the stomach. D—Shows the seat of disease in the small bowel.
