CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Eulogies to Sumner.

WASHINGTON, 27.—This being the day set apart for eulogies upon the late Senator Sumner, the Senate galleries were filled long before the hour of meeting. Vice-President Wilson was present, but did not occupy his chair. After the usual opening formalities, Boutwell read resolutions, that as an additional mark of respect to the House of Representatives, long a Senator of Massachusetts, business be now suspended, that the friends and associates of the deceased may pay a fitting tribute to his public and private virtues. Also resolved that the resolutions to be presented to the House of Representatives be agreed to, and that Boutwell then began his speech.

He paid a high tribute to the pure purposes of the deceased in private and public life, and to his high liberty in the highest sense, and his arduous labors on behalf of freedom, which would secure for his countrymen the remembrance of his countrymen.

Thurman alluded in feeling terms to the personal friendship between Sumner and himself, and to the personal qualities of the deceased.

Spencer, Morrill, of Vermont,

Pratt, and Sargent also made brief and appropriate remarks.

HOUSE.

Eulogizing Sumner.

WASHINGTON, 27.—E. F. Hoar briefly reviewed Sumner's career to the hour of his death, which he attributed to Brooks' assault, and eulogized his great integrity and honesty of purpose.

Lamar seconded the resolution in a speech which attracted much attention. He declared that, strange as it may seem, he had never seen
