LABOR DAY IN JUNCTION CITY

Star Attraction at Glenwood Was The Marriage of Young Holland Couple.

WINNERS OF THE GRAND PRIZE

Valley Day at Hermitage—Boxing Contest at Saucer Track—Horse Racing and Other Attractions.

Ogden, Sept. 3.—It is not often the pleasure of a young couple in joining hands in bonds of matrimony to have 5,000 guests to witness the ceremony, but such was the experience of Peter Dee and Miss Gertrude De Gooyer, who were publicly married at 6 o'clock last evening at the saucer track, Glenwood. The young people passed through the ordeal bravely, and when Judge C. F. Middleton, who performed the ceremony, told the groom to "kiss his bride," he was the happiest and proudest man in the immense assemblage. The public marriage was one of the labor day attractions at Glenwood park, and it proved to be the right one. The immense seating capacity of the saucer track, which was increased with chairs in the center, was taxed to its capacity by curious people anxious to witness the event. As a reward for their presence, they were given a complete house furniture, valued at $300, and a complimentary pass to the Grand Opera Company by Manager Grant. The marriage scheme was struck upon by Manager Grant and the labor union committee as one of the day's attractions, and it proved to be the right one. The event did so many thousands of people gathered at the resort at one time, as were there yesterday. The bride and groom are young Hollanders who came to Utah a year or so ago. They had intended getting married the latter part of this month, but when they were passing the Ogden Furniture and Carpet company's store a few days ago and observed the house furnishings offered free to any couple who would be publicly married on Labor day, they decided to take advantage of the opportunity and get their home furnished free, which to them was a great help in starting out on the sea of matrimony.

Besides the marriage attraction at the park, there were many other events to interest and amuse great throngs of people. The game of ball between Ogden and Bountiful resulted in a victory for the local team.

The boxing contest did not draw the crowd it was expected it would, only a few hundred going to the saucer track to witness it and the gate receipts for the bout only amounted to a little over $700. The battle was a swift one while it lasted, both men fighting vigorously. Up to the eighth round, when Chivis, the Boer scrapper, put an undercut below "Cyclone" Thompson's belt, which was declared a foul, and the referee gave the fight to Thompson.

The horse races at the Weber county fair grounds were good, and pleased a large crowd.

At the Hermitage in Ogden canyon, "Billy" Wilson had forth with Valley day. The residents of the three towns in the valley turned out in great numbers to join in the many contests and pleasures arranged by Mr. Wilson for the day. Thus with the numerous attractions the people of Ogden and Weber county spent a joyous Labor day.

VISIT TO THE A. C. COLLEGE

Old Time Bitterness in Competition is Now at an End.

HARMONY WITH THE U. OF U.

Various Departments Fully Equipped And in Readiness for a Big Year's Operations.

Logan, Aug. 30.—The grounds of the State Agricultural college at this time of the year are beautiful beyond description. A representative of the Deseret News visited the institution last week and the beauty of the place, the situation, the magnificent view of the entire valley from the College hill, the well kept lawns and drives made a lasting impression on him. The whole plant impresses one as a beautiful, well kept park. It is situated high on a hill, overlooking beautiful Logan and with Cache valley in its autumn garb, stretching away to meet the distant blue mountains to the north and south. Directly across the valley the dry farms looking like yellow checkerboards give a dash of color to the endless stretch of green. The little villages of the valley, too—a great many of them, can be seen from the hill-clusters of more dense green scattered here and there as though by some landscape gardener. The valley doesn't look like the busiest agricultural community in the state; it looks like a beautiful park.

The "News" man was driven through the grounds by Prest Widtack and saw enough in a few short hours to convince him that the Agricultural college stands for the coming style of education and that the Utah Agricultural college is with us to stay.

He was shown the veterinary hospital, where the college veterinarian with his students treat free of charge all diseased or injured horses or cattle brought in by the farmer. This feature of the big school impressed him as one that certainly should under the college to the farmer. Last school year there were nearly 400 horses treated at the hospital by the students and professor.

FIREMAN IN HOSPITAL.

Fireman Short, the Union Pacific night fireman who was injured Sunday night near Evanston, Wyoming, in the wreck caused through several run-aways cars colliding with an east bound freight train, was brought to the Ogden hospital yesterday for medical attention. His injuries, which are painful, are not considered serious.

PRINCE OF PILSEN OPERA.

Ogden lovers of comic opera are to have an opportunity Thursday evening of witnessing Mr. Henry Savage's elaborate production of "The Prince of Pilsen," which is today one of the most popular opera productions on the stage. The company, consisting of the attraction is strong both with soloists and chorus.

CENTERFIELD. DEATH OF PIONEERS.

J. M. Christensen and Mrs. H. M. Garrick Called Hence.

Special Correspondence.

Centerfield, Sanpete Co., Aug. 29.—Crops look very promising and farmers are in the midst of harvest. A large number of harvesters were almost compelled to idle this season on account of low prices, but the coal dealers finally let the machine owners have the limited amount needed here while the owners wait for coal until such time as it can be had. One steam and two horsepower thrashers have also been ordered.

There will be some alfalfa seed raised, but it is not very promising.

The district schools will begin Monday, Sept. 2.

SPANISH FORK. IMPRESSIVE OBSEQUIES.

Three Victims of Accidents Laid to Rest by Loving Friends.

Special Correspondence.

Spanish Fork, Utah Co., Sept. 1.—The remains of George Deibert, Bowlers and Ralph Cress, who were overcome by fire at Salt Lake, Aug. 27, were brought for burial to their home town, the two bodies arriving here Friday, Aug. 30.

The funeral services of G. Deibert, Bowlers were held here on Sunday afternoon, at the home of his father, Isaac Bowlers, Bishop Argie taking charge. The speakers were Elder Charles Monk and L. Preston Cress, his old school teacher. C. W. Both read a short memorial entitled, "Consolation," written for the occasion. Commander Hueston spoke briefly with a few of the veteran soldiers of the Black Hawk war, sang a hymn.

George Deibert's father is the son of Isaac and Eliza Bowlers, born in this city 23 years ago. He was a faithful and loving son to his parents.

Funeral services over the remains of Ralph Cress were held at the home of his father, Orson Cress, Joseph Brodeur, moderator, of the bishopric of the second ward presiding. Elders L. Preston Cress, a cousin of the deceased, and C. W. Both were the speakers. Their words were full of comfort and consolation to the bereaved ones.

Ralph Cress was the son of Orson and Emma R. Cress, 27 years of age; was born in this city, was married, leaves a wife and two children; for some years his home has been in Idaho where he was well fixed. He was a true and noble soul, loved by all who knew him. His way he met his death, in attempting to rescue a fellow worker, is a good index to his disposition.

FUNERAL OF EMBER BRIDMALL.

At 3 p. m. Sunday the funeral of Emory B. Bridmhall was held from the first ward meetinghouse, which was filled with friends and relatives. Bishop McKell presided. The speakers were Elders R. R. Bradford, a life long friend of the deceased, Patriarch George Wilkins and Henry Gardner, one of the presidents of the Nebo stake, all of whom bore testimony to the noble life and character of the departed.

A select choir, under Neph Hurd, sang a piece entitled, "Bene Hearts Forever With," which was followed by Prof. J. B. Kenter, offering the benediction.

Emory B. Bridmhall was the son of the late Patriarch Brimhall and of his wife Rachel Ann Myers. The latter survives her son; also the wife and three children.

shown large, well lighted rooms and scores of machines used by the girls, and the wardrobe were opened and he was shown wonderful creations in feminine things, and had the intricacies of the bust and the hemstitch and things like that explained to him by the young lady in charge. He saw the stitchers, big enough to accommodate scores of girls, and had the field covered by the work here explained to him. This department stands for the kind of education that appealed to the writer. Here the girls are taught the principles of housekeeping, home sanitation, and taught how to properly cook things to eat. Every household in the state should have its daughters in those kitchens.

The plant as a whole smells of the coming kind of education. In the places before mentioned, students are taught to work—to make useful things with their hands; how to grow wheat and sugar beets, how to make wagons, how to cook, and how to make dresses. There they are taught how to make butter. The college dairy department has furnished nine-tenths of the managers of creameries in the Intermountain country. The big school has a glorious future. Its faculty is strong, is composed of men zealous in their work, men fired with an enthusiasm by their president, fired with a desire to conquer mother nature and to show to the world the kind of education that control her properly. They are a small band of earnest missionaries up there at Logan and they preach a gospel that demands pure, right living, clean, business-like, conscientious methods of agriculture.

ATTITUDE OF FRIENDSHIP.

The institution takes the stand that it has no quarrel with either state institution, that its policy is to work hand in hand with other educational institutions for the advancement of education in Utah. The old time bitterness between the Agricultural college and the state university seems to be at an end and the two institutions for the first time in their history are working peacefully together and offering cooperative courses. This means not a little for education in Utah.

The future policy of the college, as gleaned by the reporter, is, while not to push the industrial side to the front far enough to overshadow the other courses, to make the pursuit of the applied sciences the main excuse for the existence of the institution. Men will be offered here that of their equipment in our western country. In every fall where the end of our state Agricultural college has exhibited, prizes have been won. Courses will be offered here that of their compulsion will mean trained mechanics, woodturners, cabinet makers, carpenters and blacksmiths. It is a style of education that can be picked up by the humbler and a style of work that means big wages. From the standpoint of quick returns, this department undoubtedly leads all the courses of the school.

This work in domestic science and arts is going to be made one of the features of the school. This department has already achieved a national reputation. It has more gold medals to its credit than any like department in the western country. The aim of the administration is to make it even stronger.

The department of commerce was found to be one of the most elegantly equipped departments of the college. This department has made an enviable reputation for itself in the past. It has turned out hundreds of young men and women qualified in the short time they were in the institution to earn good wages as stenographers and bookkeepers and, prepared as they can be in no other department, for lives as business men and women.

The department, the "News" man was told, was never able to furnish men and women for one-third of the positions tendered by business houses of this Intermountain region. The department offers a three-year business course, calculator to prepare one for competent service as stenographer or bookkeeper and a six-year course leading to the bachelor's degree.

The prospects for the coming year are bright. An extensive advertising campaign has been carried on the past summer and judging from applications already received for boarding houses, etc., the coming year will be a record-breaker from the standpoint of attendance.

The future of the big industrial school looks rosy. With the great big field of applied science before it, an enthusiastic state behind it, peaceable relations with other state institutions, and a zealous president and faculty, the institution will certainly push to the front ranks of Uncle Sam's agricultural colleges.

LIVELY RUNAWAY.

Jas. Wilson had an exciting runaway near his raspberry farm this week. In driving out of his yard he discovered that his jumper was on fire and on looking back into the wagon found a blaze in the wagon box, sparks from a pipe probably being the cause. At about the same time the team began running away. For three or four blocks they made good speed, while Mr. Wilson was fighting fire. He finally got the team stopped and extinguished the fire without much damage.
