Fire engine invented, 1785.

Epileptics and such.

People who believe in crossings—

young ladies with pretty ankles.

Why is a water-mill like a whale?

They both come to the surface to blow.

The enthusiasm for base ball is said to be on the decline in New England.

The grave of a freeman is far greater than the throne of a slave.

A bad sign—To sign another man's name to a note.

A cow in Pennsylvania gave birth to five calves recently.

Judy calls conservatism the greatest triumph in the world.

What fruit does a newly married couple resemble? A green pear.

A blue horse, eight feet high, has been seen in West Virginia.

A German family in Baltimore died recently from starvation.

Only two executions have occurred in Vermont within forty years.

The proceedings at Washington seem to upset the belief that hell is a fable.

Mary has as well as characters have been ruined by eaves-dropping.

Carlyle's dyspepsia is aggravated by the elevation of Diarriah.

First Lord of 150 Treasury—Gold.

—July.

The City Council of Omaha has "about down" on pretty waiter-girls.

The battle of Long Island was fought

August 2, 1776, on the spot now known as Brooklyn Heights.

Squib says he sat down to a table

where there were thirteen turkey gob-bles and only one turkey.

The first appointment of a woman in the revenue service has been made in the fourth district of Indiana.

One of the railroads in England offers free passage for seven years to any one who will erect a house to cost $2,500

along its line.

Truth is a good dog; but beware of barking too close to the heels of an error, lest you get your brains kicked out.

Grize Harper Hyes in Verona, Ind.

He was formerly a slave in Georgia, and was set free, turned out to die, in fact, forty odd years ago. He didn't die though, and is now 122 years old.

A poor fellow, half drowned,

from a river, was asked to take some spirits and water. "No, thank you," replied he. "I have had water enough already. I'll take the spirits alone."

Never attempt to do any thing that is not right. Just assure as you do you will get into trouble. If you suspect any thing is wrong, do it not until you are sure your suspicions are groundless.

The chief secret of comfort lies in not suffering trifles to vex one, and predictably cultivating the enjoyment of small pleasures, since very few great ones are on long leases.

A tender hearted father swearing the Peace Marshal to his three sons, concluded

thus: "The only one of my children who shows me any real filial affection is my youngest son Ichabod, for he never strikes me when I'm down."

It has cost the State of Wisconsin so much for boyery on wolves' traps that the law has been repealed, and the wolves can help themselves to mutton.

An Irish soldier, who now and then indulged in a drop of whisky, was thus accosted by his reviewing General:

"What makes your nose so red?"

"Please your honor," replied Pat. "I always blosch when I speak to a General officer."

Pat always defines a matrimonially engaged man as a bachelor who has become possessed of one idea—buttons on his shirt!

New York pays something in the neighborhood of forty millions annually for "cocktails," "eye-openers," "smash-ers," and other bibbles.

A young actress in Boston has dress ed from a window-swing bench, was put out with a wet blanket, and returned to Indian her performance after an exchange of costume.

The Bangor Whig inquires, "Isn't

there an absent-minded gentleman in our city, who, on his return in the street the other day, stuck beside with him, inspired after his health, and then asked when the master was expected home."

Courage is a matter of mind, as much as of muscle. Stout heroes are often very timid little men. The most fiery and plucky women are little old maidens, sinews and bones.

Globular, rosy, oily people are good-natured, but not commonly forcible.

Flesh, nevertheless, has its value,

though it often looks upon as an emblem of strength. True heroism, however, is oftenest applied to lantern jaws, slab sides and whale-like appearance generally.
