PRINTING THE BOOK OF MORMON.

INTERESTING ITEMS AND TESTIMONY.

The following in relation to the stereotyping of the third edition of the Book of Mormon will be interesting to many of our readers. It is taken from an account furnished to the Saints' Herald, the organ of the Josephites, by Ebenezer Robinson, and is taken from its issue of December 11th:

The first edition (three thousand copies) of the Book of Mormon was printed by E. B. Grandin, in Palmyra, New York, in 1830. The second edition was printed in Kirtland, Ohio, in the church printing office, in the winter of 1836-7, on which I assisted in setting the type. This edition consisted also, I believe, of three thousand copies.

In 1837-8 a large majority of the church members removed from Kirtland to Caldwell and Daviess counties, Missouri. In the fall of 1838 the great persecution arose against the church, which resulted in Lilburn W. Boggs, governor of Missouri, issuing his famous exterminating order to General Clarke, commander of the militia of the State, to "expel the Mormons from the State, or exterminate them if necessary." Quite a number of the members of the church were killed (eighteen were massacred at one place, Haun's Mill), some sixty cast into prison, the writer being one of the number, and all were required to sign a deed of trust, conveying their property, both personal and real to the State, to, as they said, "defray the expenses of the war," and the entire church was driven from the State in the winter of 1838-9.

The writer, (having been liberated from prison by order of the court), walked from Far West, Caldwell County, Missouri, through the snow in the latter part of January, 1839, to Quincy, Illinois, where he arrived early in February with barely one dollar in his pocket, and his family, (wife), yet to be provided for her removal.

* * * *

The two editions of the Book of Mormon, spoken of above, had all been sold, so there were none to supply the demand which was being made for them. The question arose, how can means be devised to have an edition printed, as the church was in the depths of poverty, and many of its members just recovering from a severe and protracted sickness, brought on in a great measure, as is believed, in consequence of the terrible exposure to which they had been subject in being driven from their homes in Missouri, in the depths of winter; therefore the idea of having the Book of Mormon printed was given up as hopeless.

My health had so far recovered that I was able to walk back and forth from my house to the printing office; when, in the month of May, 1840, as I was walking from my house to the printing office, I received a manifestation from the Lord, such an one as I never received before or since. It seemed that a ball of fire came down from above and striking the top of my head passed down through into my heart, and told me, in plain, distinct language, what course to pursue and I could succeed in getting the Book of Mormon stereotyped and printed. I went into the printing office and in a few moments brother Joseph Smith, he who translated the Book of Mormon by the gift and power of God, as I verily know, stepped into the office, when I said to him, "Bro. Joseph, if you will furnish $200, and give us the privilege of printing two thousand copies of the Book of Mormon, Carlos [Don Carlos Smith] and I will get $200 more and we will get it stereotyped and give you the plates." He dropped his face into his hand for a minute or so, when he said, "I will do it." He asked how soon we would want the money. I replied, in two weeks.

Brother Carlos and I made an effort immediately to obtain our $200. We found a brother in the church who would let us have $120, until the next April, at thirty-five per cent. interest, the interest to be incorporated in the note, and all to draw six per cent. interest, if not paid when due. We consented to the terms, and got the money. A few days after the same brother brought us $25 more, on the same terms, making $145. I took the money and put it away. In a few days brother Joseph Smith came to the printing office and said, "Brother Robinson, if you and Carlos get the Book of Mormon stereotyped you will have to furnish the money, as I cannot get the $200." I replied, that if "he would give us the privilege of printing 4,000 copies we would do it." He said he "would do that." We then made strenuous efforts to raise more money, but signally failed, and did not succeed in raising another dollar for that purpose.

We were considerably in debt to different persons, and our creditors were repeatedly pressing us for money, so that after a little time we began to draw a few dollars from the $145. We knew that it would not do to be paying 35 per cent. interest for money to pay ordinary debts with, so Carlos said to me, one day in June, "Brother Robinson you take that money and go to Cincinnati and buy some type and paper, which we must have." I said "Yes, I will go, but I will not come home until the Book of Mormon is stereotyped," for it was as fire shut up in my bones, both day and night, that if I could only get to Cincinnati the work could be accomplished. He replied that "that was out of the question, as it could not be done with our limited means." Brother Hyrum Smith also said it could not be done, but brother Joseph Smith did not say it could not be done when I told him, but he said, "God bless you."

Brother Joseph and I immediately went to work and compared a copy of the Kirtland edition with the first edition, by reading them entirely through, and I took one of the Kirtland edition as a copy for the stereotype edition.

On the 18th of June, 1840, I took passage on board the steam packet Brazil, which made regular trips from Cincinnati, Ohio to Galena, Illinois, stopping at Nauvoo as she passed each way. At St. Louis, while the steamer was waiting for passengers and freight, I foolishly stepped into a mock auction store, when the auctioneer had up a fancy box filled with valuable articles, among which was a gold watch, or what the auctioneer claimed to be one. A young man present said he wanted an interest in the contents of the box, and if I would bid it off he would take half of it. I bid it up to $23, when of course I secured the prize, but just then I did not find my partner ready to take half. This took $23 from my already limited purse. I left that auction room, if not a better, I trust a wiser man. Since writing the above sentence, the thought has occurred to me that perhaps it was a good thing that it occurred, as it had a tendency to try my faith just that much more, and the sequel proved to me that the Lord is abundantly able and willing to provide means for the accomplishment of His purposes when we follow His directions.

After arriving at Cincinnati I purchased a quantity of paper and put on board the Brazil to take to Nauvoo on her return trip. After paying for the paper and paying my passage, I had $105.00¾ left. Now came the trial of my faith. I had not yet taken my trunk from the steamer. The adversary of all righteousness said to me, "Get more paper and some type and go home; it is folly to think of getting the Book of Mormon stereotyped; for you cannot do it." I replied that "I came for that purpose, and did not propose to return until it was done;" but I assure you he made the big drops of sweat roll from my face, but I did not give up to him for one instant, or swerve from my purpose, although I was there a stranger in a strange city, not knowing a single person there, except those who came with me on the steamer.

I took the Book of Mormon in my pocket and made enquiry for a stereotype foundry. I was informed there was one on Pearl Street. I found the place, and as I stepped into the office a feeling of horror came over me and it seemed as though I was in prison. A gentlemanly appearing man was there, and I asked him what they charged for stereotyping a book, giving him the size as near as I could without naming or showing him the book. He told me what they charged for 1,000 ems, a term which I understood. I then asked him if there was not another stereotype foundry in the city. He said, "Yes, one in Bank Alley, off Third Street owned by Gleason & Shepherd." I felt in an instant that that was the place for me to apply to, and bidding the gentleman "good day," left, breathing freer when I stepped into the street. I soon found the other foundry, and as I entered the office, I saw three gentlemen standing by the desk, in conversation. I asked if Messrs. Gleason and Shepherd were in. A gentleman stepped forward and said, "My name is Gleason." I said, "I have come to get the Book of Mormon stereotyped." Mr. Shepherd stepped forward and said, "When that book is stereotyped I am the man to stereotype it." I then handed him the book and told him what size type I wanted it done in. He took the book and went to a case of type the size I had named, and set up one line and counted the ems in the line, then counted the number of lines in the page and multiplied the two numbers together, and then counted the number of pages in the book, and multiplied the number of pages by the number of ems in a page, when he said the stereotyping would amount to five hundred and fifty dollars. I told him that I had one hundred dollars to pay in hand, and would pay two hundred and fifty dollars more in three months, or while he was doing the work, and the remaining two hundred dollars within three months after the work was done. He said he would do that, and sat down and immediately wrote out a contract accordingly, which we both signed, which contract I have to this day. I then told him I wished to see a book binder and contract for the binding of two thousand copies of the book. He said, I will go with you to a good book binder around on Main Street, and taking me by the arm, we went directly to the bookbinder, who said he would bind 2,000 copies in good leather for $350, which was twelve and a half cents apiece. I told him I would give him $80 while he would be doing the work, and the remainder within six weeks after the work was done. He agreed to that, and wrote out a contract to that effect, which we both signed. I told Mr. Shepherd I wanted to engage paper enough for the 2,000 books, when we went from the bindery to the paper warehouse where I had just purchased the paper I sent to Nauvoo; but the paper dealer, the proprietor, was not in, so we left word for him to come to Mr. Shepherd's foundry the next morning, which he did, when I engaged the paper from him, amounting to nearly two hundred and fifty dollars to be paid for in payments similar to the stereotyping and binding, but we did not write the contract. After we had concluded our bargain the paper dealer said, "Mr. Robinson, you are a stranger here, and it is customary to have city references in such cases when we deal with strangers." Mr. Shepherd stepped forward and said, "I am Mr. Robinson's backer, sir." "All right," said the paper dealer, "you can have the paper, Mr. Robinson." This was the only case where any reference or backing was required.

Mr. Shepherd purchased a font of new type the day we made the contract, and put three compositors (type setters) immediately at work on the book, and I was to remain and assist in reading the proof, so as to be sure it was done according to copy. I was to have twenty-five cents an hour for what time I would be engaged at that, or any other service for Mr. Shepherd, to be applied on the contract.

I engaged board with Mr. S. W. A. Oliver, who was in Mr. Shepherd's employ as moulder and finisher of his stereotype plates, and paid him the five dollars I had left, after paying Mr. Shepherd the one hundred on his contract, leaving me only 6¼ cents (an old fashioned Spanish sixpence) on hand. The five dollars was soon boarded out, and there I was, a stranger in a strange city, with contracts on hand amounting to over one thousand dollars on which only one hundred had been paid, and board bill due and nothing to pay with. I confess that for a time, viewed from a worldly standpoint, it looked quite gloomy, but I never for a moment lost faith in the final success or literal fulfillment of the previous promise of the Lord made to me in Nauvoo, that I should live to see the 2,000 books printed and the printed sheets were in the hands of the book binder being folded, so that soon after this last form was printed the book binder had several hundred copies bound, ready for me to deliver to those who had advanced their money for the books. This was strictly in accordance with the instruction I received in the first manifestation made to me in Nauvoo.

Thus the work was accomplished, and all paid for before the time specified in the contracts, and I had nearly one thousand copies of the book left. The work was finished in October.

I then purchased from Mr. Shepherd and other parties several fonts of type, and material for a stereotype foundry and book-bindery, and a winter's supply of news and book paper, and took to Nauvoo, a considerable portion of which I paid for down, and got credited for the balance. Mr. Shepherd endorsed one note for me of four hundred dollars, payable in four months, which money I sent him before it became due.

In June, 1844, I went to Cincinnati and settled all up with Mr. Shepherd, and paid him what was due him, (his bills altogether amounting to about $1,000), when he arose and said, "Mr. Robinson, do you want to know what made me do as I did when you came here last summer; it was no business way, it was not what I saw upon, but it was what I felt here," putting his hand upon his heart.

This voluntary statement of Mr. Shepherd's afforded me great pleasure, as it was a practical illustration of the ease with which the Lord can move upon the hearts of the children of men to assist in the accomplishment of His work and purposes; and to our Heavenly Father be all the praise and glory, now and ever, Amen.

From the foregoing experience, together with many other evidences which I have received of the truth of the divine origin of the Book of Mormon, I bear record that it is true, and that the promises and prophecies contained therein are being and will be fulfilled to the letter. May the Lord help us to walk according to its holy precepts, that we may be able to stand in the day of his visitation and power, which is coming as a whirlwind upon the nations, and that we may be worthy to enter into his rest, is the desire of your brother,

E. ROBINSON.
