

GONE OVER TILL MONDAY.

Temporary Cessation of Testimony in the Parsons Case.

ENSL. BANKS UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION.

The Witness Stands by Her Testimony and Makes Some Confessions to Mr. Varian.

The cross-examination of the witness Ensl. Banks, by Presenting Attorney Varian, in the Parsons investigation, was proceeding yesterday afternoon when the State's report closed at 2:30, and half an hour later the defense applied for a continuance. To this request Commonwealth's Attorney said no cause, and the inquiry was adjourned till Monday morning, next, at ten o'clock.

Following is the cross-examination of Miss Banks during the remainder of Friday afternoon's session:

Witness and the late Louis of the conversation between Dr. Pringle and Parsons, when Parsons came to the office with him, she told him "the girls were going down the way against the minister. She told me one of the latter brother Louis until we raised it to Mr. Stevenson. If they ever entered the room, it must have been Stevenson. And so I had some time to tell Mr. Stevenson.

Witness replied:—Well, then, the guard took me to the parlor. Mr. Stevenson was there, and when his fingers were cut off at the gate yesterday, and if I know of anything wrong on the part of the guards, I then called him up and told him of his conduct.

Mr. Varian:—How you and Louis have together in the corridor——In your office?

Miss Banks:—And was your "hand" in the door?"

Mr. Varian:—No.

Q.—And he could come in 200, or 300 feet from the day before?

A.—Yes.

Q.—And at night?

A.—No.

Q.—Doesn't it tell Mr. Stevenson that you are in?"

A.—No, sir. (Laughter.)

Q.—You were giving away the information now, why didn't you tell Mr. Stevenson that you had your confidante? Because they knew what you and Louis were doing, that you wanted to get them?"

Mr. Varian:—How many, increased close in the witness and shaking his finger as he was seated in a silent lecture room, "I am telling you, Mrs. Parsons, that you are a bad mother." Mr. Stevenson never, to that call at all on that morning, you went down to the grand jury?"

Mr. Stevenson:—Yes, I think so.

Q.—You think so. Don't you know that he was?"

A.—No.

Q.—Do you say he was there?

A.—Yes.

Q.—You didn't like the Asia Prindle?

A.—Well, I have nothing against her.

Witness who said that she saw Prindle and Guard Field together in the warren's house one evening, but it didn't shock her much. (Laughter.)

J. W. Wadsworth, of the Salt Lake Herald, said in effect at the marshal's office on the afternoon of the day Miss Prindle was sentenced. On the first occasion she was sitting in the office of the marshal, and at about the next time he saw Miss Prindle who was walking in the corridor. The marshal's is a public office, so it was natural for her to walk in there.

The office was always accessible to us as we knew.

Court then adjourned until Monday morning.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

“FIRE CHIEF” was the attraction last night at the Salt Lake Theatre, and its performance by the students of the Deseret Academy was succeeded by Doctor Ladd's comedy. This play found its way to incident in Illinois Island at the time of the civil war. The first act represents a family group gathered by love and radiated with peace and happiness. But the war has broken out, and the husband, Tom Hawley, is drafted for service. He bravely resigns to go and to sacrifice everything in the interest of the country, but the news easily breaks the heart of his aged father, Dad Hawley, and his beloved wife. His brother, Jim, then goes as substitute. In the second act, the man is entranced to Tom by Wilford Wilson, a friend of the family, that Jim has deserted. To retrieve the disgrace, Tom goes to war. Eighteen months pass and nothing is heard from the boy. The third act is left to the care of Jim's wife, who promises Tom that her husband is dead and retains her son to marry her. In the third act the supposedly dead boy returns, having been a drummer boy in the army for three years. Tom now goes to war.

Young men, consider this question carefully. Weigh the prospect of a happy, useful, prosperous life without tobacco, and an unhappy, useless and unprofitable existence with it.

Smoking Evolving Lecture.

Do not neglect the lesson to Mr. Parsons in the “Mormon” lecture, and on the “Mormons” continuing Miss Kate Price.

It is something that every “Mormon” ought to hear, and every “Mormon” should consider it seriously.

CHERRYL SMOKING.

At this view an enormous amount of tobacco is eaten—“Hayvan Smoking.” It is an extremely strong, impulsive, energetic, and invigorating tobacco, containing chlorophyll, iodine, and bromine, and having a lot of tobacco oil. The leaves are very large, and the taste is in the leaves themselves. They are elegantly written and size. Leaves make the figure of the demand. The fourth act is striking example of whatness can be done in a short time. A sharp and forcible division. The intent of the author at the end of this act received half a dozen.

“THE NEW ENGLAND AUCTION.”

This production will appear at the theatre for three nights and Wednesday evening, December 12. It is unique in its originality and ingenuity. To this request Commonwealth's Play of the week, and the inquiry was that the audience should be pleased to witness the picture of the Charles of 1848, and “The Capture of 1865.” Our audience also enjoyed sweet music.

Personal.

Opposition Anderson and wife, who have been spending the last two months in the East, will return home this evening.

James W. Sommerville of Washington, D. C., is at the White House.

George O. Banks of London is at the Chateau.

James P. Lovell, representative of the Standard Oil Company, is in town.

Charles A. G. Glazebrook is registered at the Hotel Utah.

John E. Evans of San Francisco, is staying at the White House.

Prashat Court.

The following evidence was transacted in the Prashat court yesterday afternoon:

In the estate of Henry C. Cannon, hearing and examination of several accountants latter approved.

One of these, Abner H. Smith, hearing of his right to sue for $100,000, Cannon, and cause continued to December 16.

Abner H. Smith, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

Prashat Court.

The following trial of the High-temperament held a session to the independent, rich business. The investigation of the hearing was suspended, and the trial was adjourned to December 16.

Abner H. Smith, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an illustrated book of 340 pages published by the King Publishing company of San Francisco, which is being advertised for by Brother John W. Phelan. It is intended to inform the reader of the nature and extent of the exhibition, and to give a general idea of the various departments.

Brother John W. Phelan, attorney, moved to December 16.

Joseph W. Parsons, attorney,

and the court adjourned to December 16.

The World's Fair.

The World's Fair is the title of an