Mrs. Emily I. Richards said that the Mrs. Emily I. Richards said that the views entertained by Miss Anthony concerning freedom, knew no sex; it pertained to all humanity. She could not be deterred, either by opposition or by ridicule. At the last session of the Woman's Suffrage convention, she knew full well her own weak condition, but she garnered her strength, and walked upon the arm of a friend. She leaned not upon him, but walked erect, not in pride, but in womanly in-dependence. At the celebration of her last highday, amid the congratulations

MRS. ALICE M. HORNE.

Mrs. Alice Merrill Horne spoke of having met Miss Anthony in Berlin, where an international council of wo-men was held. The speaker had from early childhood heard of the gifted woman, and pictured in mind that the Intter was large and stately and grand. At the meeting in the German city, Mrs. Horne beheld before her a frail little woman, the very opposite, physic-ally, of early dreams. But in the soul and mental characteristics of Miss Anthony there was no disappointment; she was all and more than Mrs. Horne had ever imagined her to be. Evidences of her greatness were manifest-ed throughout the meetings of that convention, participated in by pro-minent women of nearly all nations. A GREAT WOMAN.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cohen said that Miss Anthony was one of the greatest women of modern times, one who exem-plified in her life a single purpose in a cause that drew the storm of ridicule and abuse. She never faitered through and abuse. all the disheartening failures that were encountered. She had no predecessor in the line of work which she followed through life, but the speaker hoped there would be many successors. The State Council of Women, which is auxiliary to the National Suffrage associa-tion,heartily endorses, said Mrs. Cohen, the article which states that that organization knows no north, no south, no east, no west, no politics and no creed. The sole article of faith is, "Do you believe in the equality of women?" Miss Anthony always ex-acted a strict construction of this clause.

HON, JOHN T. CAINE.

Miss Judith Anderson rendered the solo, "Oh, Dry Those Tears," and Hon. John T. Caine next addressed the congregation. He said that the death of Miss Susan B. Anthony was a loss to the whole world. She was a philan⁴ thropist, a friend to all humanity, especially to those who were in any kind of bondage. While she had labored in the slavery, emancipation cause and other works of a humanitarian nature, the great labor of her life was for equal suffrage. In the interests of freedom for women. Miss Anthony traveled thousands of miles and visited nearly every state of the Union, and also went every state of the Union, and also went to foreign lands. DIDN'T MAKE GOOD.

Promised Fair Weather for St. Patrick's Day Failed to Come.

The predicted fair weather did not appear today, as the high barometric pressure from the north was switched to the eastward, and today the center is over southern Missouri, allowing the low barometric area to reascend from the south, and cover this section of the country; consequently there is snow flying today, in this valley, and more show is promised for tonight and tomorrow. When spring weather will come is something that no one seems able to tell. It is a record-breaking winter, having begun in October, and the end is not yet.

Low temperatures continue to obtain, particularly in Wyoming and Montana, the mercury remaining at 24 below zero tello this morning. In this city, the thermometer registered 22 degrees above zero early today, but rose with the sun, and the temperature is quite mild this afternoon. There was three inches of snow at Modena this morning, and southwest of there it was raining heavily, the fall at Los Angeles being half an inch.

PRESIDENT'S UNCLE ROBERT ILL AT HOME.

New York, March 17.—Robert B. Roosevelt, uncle of the president, is ill at his home here. Mr. Roosevelt's condition became known yesterday when members of the Hudson-Fulton commission of which Gen. Stewart L Woodford is president, met informally at Mr. Roosevelt's invitation to discuss plans for the celebration on Sept. 12. 1909, of the anniversaries of the covery of the Hudson river in 1609 and of Robert Fulton's exploits with and of Robert Fullon's exploits with the steamboat Claremont in 1809. It was said that Mr. Roosevelt was seized yesterday with some rheumatic complaint in the legs, the exact nature of which physicians did not immedi-ately determine. His doctors say that the outcome of his illness is uncertain as Mr. Roosevelt is 76 years old and how not much strength has not much strength. Mr. Roosevelt was admitted to the bar in 18551 but retired from practise 20 years later. He was a member of Congress during 1873-5 and United States minister to the Netherlands in 1888-90. He is the author of several vorks on fish and game.

NUMBER OF DEAD UNKNOWN.

Pueblo, Colo., March 17 .--- While the exact number of lives lost in the Adobe wreck near Florence on the Denver & Rio Grande railroad will never be known, it will undoubtedly take rank among the great disasters in the history of railroading. In other wrecks there has been greater loss of life, but none has been productive of greater horrors. Conservative estimates on the loss of life place the number of dead at 36. Seventeen charred, mangled utterly unrecognizable bodies lie in the Pueblo morgue, two others are in the morgue at Florence, several other persons are known to be dead and possibly a score of bodies were burned to ashes.

There was not a single entire body recovered from the wreckage, with the exception of the engine men, who, although horribly mangled, had not been reached by the florce flames which swept through the wrecked cars. Bits of charred flesh and piles of bones were all that indicated that a holocaust had occurred, but trained eyes picked out the pelvic bones from the charred masses, and from these it was seen that so far as the search had progressed no less than 26 human be-ings had perished.

ADDITIONAL DEAD.

Patrick Murphy, a Florence off well driller, sacrificed his life in the work of rescue. After escaping from a burnof rescue. After escaping from a burn-ing care and dragging two others out to safety, he dushed back in search of other unfortunates. Then followed a gas explosion in which he lost his own life and his body was incinerated.

OPERATOR LIVELY.

S. T. Lively, the operator, whose failtre to deliver a train order to the westbound train resulted in the disatrous collision, had been acting as station agent at Swallows about 10 days. He is said to have been an experienced man, and to have seen considerbale service at other points on the Rio Grande system. It is alleged that Lively, who is 25 years old, worked excessively for several days past and had been de-prived of a great deal of his natural prived of a great deal of his natural sleep. Sitting at his key, in the hours following midnight, listening to the rear of a fierce storm, it is thought that for a moment he dozed and while he slept the train passed his station unchecked. Whether this be true or not, the fact remains that the train did not receive the orders which would have averied the catastrophe and the have averted the catastrophe, and the management of the road, and the coroney as well, will make a searching inorder that the responsib the disaster may be accurately fixed

Operator Lively has not yet been arrested and probably no action against him will be begun until after the In-quest on the wreck victims has been concluded. His explanation of his fall-ure to deliver the order which would have averted the collision is comprised in the few words: "I was asleep. That's all." Further than this he declined to be
