OGDEN, UTAH, - MARCH 22, 1902.

SUIT ON GAMBLING DEBT.

Other Business Heard by Judge Rolapp Yesterday - Suits Filed.

Death of George Kaiser and Mrs. Nellie B. Preshaw - Briefs and Personal.

The case of E. M. Gutteridge vs. Joseph Streng, which was appealed from Justice Judge Rolapp's court, came on before Judge Rolapp and a jury yesterday. The action was brought by the plaintiff to recover $150 alleged to be due on a gambling debt. The evidence introduced by the prosecution went to show that the plaintiff and defendant met at Elko, Nev., at the plaintiff's gambling house, and engaged in a game of "poker." The plaintiff won from the defendant all of his ready cash, and Streng, overzealous to win some of the money back, gave him a check to the amount of $150, for which the plaintiff paid him the cash and then won claim of it back, but when he presented the check for payment at the bank it was refused, and Gutteridge brought the suit to recover the amount. The defendant put in evidence to show that the two men did gamble together and the plaintiff won from Streng, the latter giving him a check for $150, but did not receive any check in payment for the check only "poker" chips, and that when he left Elko he was compelled to pawn his diamond for money to leave town. The court in changing the jury in the case of a gambling debt and the law would not protect the loser or winner in such a game.

The jury after being out only a short time brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $27. In the lower court the plaintiff was given judgment against Streng in the sum of $150 and costs.

The case of Ables vs. Bennett, was dismissed on motion of the plaintiff, without costs.

The case of J. S. Lewis vs. Howe was heard before the court and a jury. The suit was brought by the plaintiff to recover $25 alleged to be due from the defendant for rent. The testimony of a number of witnesses was taken and the jury after due consideration brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $15.

In the matter of the estate of Sedell M. Johansen, the hearing on motion for an order granting sale of personal property was continued to March 25.

The case of J. S. Lewis vs. Howe was heard before the court and a jury. The suit was brought by the plaintiff to recover $25 alleged to be due from the defendant for rent. The testimony of a number of witnesses was taken and the jury after due consideration brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $15.

In the matter of the estate of E. D. Hamilton, permission was granted to correct the decree of distribution.

Judge A. Powers was excused for the term.

Forty Years a Resident of Weber County—Returning Missionaries.

North Ogden, Weber Co., March 21.—We are again called upon to mourn the departure of one of our most highly respected citizens, sister Harriet Ward, wife of our beloved Bishop James Ward. She died at the family residence in North Ogden yesterday of typhoid pneumonia in her 63rd year, after an illness of one week, leaving a husband, nine children and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn her departure.

Deceased was born at Leamington, England, Oct. 5, 1833; daughter of John and Sarah Mundy Brown. Baptized in 1849; was married March 16, 1861, to James Ward and April 13 of the same year set sail for America by the ship Underwriter in a company of 644 Saints, under the presidency of Milo Andrus, Homer Duncan and C. W. Penrose. They arrived in Utah the same year. They first lived at Mount Fort, but in 1864 came to North Ogden. HENEFER.

GOOD NEWS FOR IRRIGATORS.

Welcome Storers - Advantages of Early Irrigation to Save Waste.

Special Correspondence.

Henefer, Summit Co., March 21.—Henefer is where the pioneers reared the Sunday before entering Salt Lake valley, and where the pioneers reared their animals. This is the only town at present located on their trail.

There is good news for the farmers of the lower counties. Another big fall of snow came last night. The roads are almost impassable, axle deep in mud.

Another meeting of irrigators was held last night. It appears as if people do not take kindly to the idea proposed by the Utah Ogden convention to form one grand water company, extending from head to foot of the Weber river. It is most likely that some good will result from these water discussions. It is acknowledged that a third of our hay crop in the meadow was lost last summer through not getting out the water earlier in the spring.

It may be the case that lower down in the valleys early irrigation will save later disputes and conserve the water. It would be a wise move to turn out the water during the winter and early spring months on land that would stand it. Land so treated would require less watering later on, and it would save much of the water that is so often wantonly wasted in early spring.

By this method the California irrigators avoid all waste of water, soaking the land to a good depth, and then by frequent surface cultivation keep the soil moist all summer with little irrigation.

HOOPER.

MEETING HOUSE IMPROVED.

Great Need of Railway Connection in "The Basin."

Special Correspondence.

Hooper, Weber Co., March 20.—Under the inspiration of progress Hooper is assuming in its ecclesiastical status an air of importance. The meeting house has been renovated, its interior is now refreshing and even beautiful, the windows have been repainted and lined, the interior walls oil-painted and frescoed, the choir stand raised and graced with a fine new organ, and the speaker's stand made attractive and comfortable, while the two aisles of the old time have been made one by the removal of the central aisle. The new building has been installed, which in the evening makes the auditorium as attractive as it is in the day light.

Quite a few returned young men from the mission are now showing up in the city. The new Sabbath school, the Mutual, the general services and in quorum of Seventies newly organized.

The best interest is an important one in Hooper, though some miles from the city, there is a dream that may soon become a reality, viz: a spur from the Oregon Short Line.

The shipment of cheese, tomatoes, cranberries, beans, potatoes, grain, salt, fruit, with the milk and cream, and coal, etc., would make a remunerative business. If the route was via Syracuse it would benefit some five settlements now located in what is known as "the basin."

GROWD CHEERED THE DECISION.

Bean Fouled Jack Christie and Lost The Bout.

A FAST BOXING CONTEST.

After Being Warned Twice by the Referee, Bean Hit the Clinch and Lost.

Willard Bean of Provo lost to Jack Christie of Salt Lake last night in their boxing contest for the middleweight championship of the state, in the twelfth round, for a breach of the rules in hitting Christie in a clinch. Bean had previously struck the local man with his head below the belt, and was twice warned by the referee, Tom Bennett, in all probability, the blow that lost the fight was the result of carelessness on the part of Bean, in his anxiety to finish Christie, who was helpless from the head blows referred to above. When Referee Bennett forced Bean to his corner and awarded the contest to the local man, the crowd sang a chorus of "Go home, Bean, and get your head fixed."

Bean's friends were greatly disappointed that he should so far forget himself as to foul his opponent when he could easily have knocked him out had he used a little cool judgment. Christie was tired from the terrific pace he set in the eleventh round when he had been almost out from a hard right swing on the jaw, up to that time there were no signs of fatigue, and no damage done was concerned.

In the last half of the round, Bean rallied and went after Christie hammer and tongs and both swung wildly, rushing each other back and forth over the ring. Had either man gone down and out in this round, the crowd would not have been in least surprised. Bean's remarkable defensive work saved him from a knockout in this round. He ducked a blow and side-stepped until Christie was well exhausted from his efforts to win the lucky punch, when the Provo man turned the tables and had Christie going at the bell.

In the last round Christie led with a left to Bean's jaw and at once followed it up with a hot mixup. A clinch followed and while Bean held Christie around the neck with his left, he shot a right upward to the head, as his side-stepped until Christie was well exhausted from his efforts to win the lucky punch, when the Provo man turned the tables and had Christie going at the bell.

Christie's decision was expressed in the clinches, and this man (Bean) has been warned twice for fouling, and I can do nothing but give this contest to Mr. Christie.

From a standpoint, the contest was undoubtedly the best ever seen in this city, and a number of prominent citizens who attended it "to see what it was like" pronounced it a good exhibition.

It demonstrated the facts that Bean is stronger than Christie and can endure more punishment, but that Christie is more clever than the Provo man. That he was drawn into a fine in his training was evident to all, as his punches lacked steam enough to knock Bean down.

The crowd was the largest that has yet assembled at the club, and fully 300 persons came up to the ring and adjoining towns. The hall was packed to its utmost capacity. Following is the fight by rounds:

Round 2.—A clinch followed and left and right swings that would have caused trouble had they landed. An exchange of lefts to face came as the bell rang.

Round 3.—They rushed to a clinch. Christie landed left and right to jaw and a clinch followed. Christie followed to a clinch and left swing that would have caused trouble had they landed. An exchange of lefts to face came as the bell rang.

Round 6.—A clinch followed and blocking characterized this round. Bean avoided a right and planted left to Jack's jaw. Christie cleverly shot right to wind, got away and shot left to the same place with no return, the crowd cheering his effort. Christie then hit Christie in the back and was again warned by Bennett.

Round 7.—The round was tame, neither man landing a hard blow. After a clinch Christie got right and left to jaw, scoring of no account.

Round 8.—Christie shot two lefts in quick succession to Bean's body without return. Bean landed right to jaw which Christie returned in the mixup. Bean struck Christie low but offered no hand in apology. Christie accepted. As the round closed Christie got two rights to face and right to jaw cleverly avoiding a right swing in return.

Round 9.—An exchange of lefts started it off, and a clinch followed. In a hot mixup Bean had the better of it. Jack got left to jaw and Bean right to body. Bean followed it up with a left to body and right to face.

Round 11.—In the first part of the round Christie had Bean groggy and going fast. Christie then landed left blows on the Provo man without return but seemed unable to knock him out. Bean rushed matters towards the last and Christie was very tired from his exertions. In this round Christie received the second head blow which distressed him.

The preliminaries were furnished by Phil Green and Abe Brenen, and Kid Thomas and Ray Barney. Kid Flynn, Ted Golden and Eugene Thompson were in Christie's corner, while Bean's seconds were Roy Condie and Tom Gahagan. Mike Fitzgerald was official timekeeper, and Tom Bennett referee.

The B. Y. A. basketball team of Provo played well against the championship L. D. S. U. team at the latter's gymnasium yesterday afternoon, but were outclassed from start to finish and lost by a score of 49 to 27.

MAY GET HIS LICENSE.

Tod Sloan Now Entertains Hope in That Direction.

New York, March 22.—Tod Sloan hopes to get his license for the Jersey club renewed next season by pursuing a blameless course as a trainer and rider at trials, says a dispatch to the World from London.

The king of the Duke of Devonshire and Earl Cadogan are said to have backed Sloan's petition for a renewal of the license, but Lord Durham, a steward for this year, threatened to resign if the license were granted.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Meeting Called for Next Week in New York.

New York, March 22.—That the national league club owners will have a meeting in this city next week is no longer being denied by the various magnates, says the World.

Two semi-official announcements have been made to the effect that the magnates will be in town on Monday and meet Tuesday, and also that a schedule will be promulgated before next Saturday.

The magnates have been bothered about the legal way to call their meeting, but Col. Rogers of Philadelphia claims he has surmounted the difficulty. The plan is to have the representatives who attend the meeting into a committee of the whole. The dates will be discussed in open meeting and a sub-committee appointed to get out the schedule.

ERNE WINS FROM GARDNER.

Given the Decision After Punching Gus All Over the Ring.

Chicago, March 21.—Frank Erne was given the decision over Gus Gardner of Philadelphia at the end of six rounds tonight. The fight was Erne's first start, and the issue was never in doubt. On the strength of his recent victory over George McFadden, Gardner was thought to have a great chance with Erne, but he put up a very poor fight, and was thoroughly outclassed. Erne was undoubtedly the best ever seen in this city, and a number of prominent citizens who attended it "to see what it was like" pronounced it a good exhibition.

It demonstrated the facts that Erne is stronger than Christie and can endure more punishment, but that Christie is more clever than the Provo man. That he was drawn into a fine in his training was evident to all, as his punches lacked steam enough to knock Bean down.

The crowd was the largest that has yet assembled at the club, and fully 300 persons came up to the ring and adjoining towns. The hall was packed to its utmost capacity. Following is the fight by rounds:
