

ONE-SIXTH OF BOND ISSUE IS NOW SPENT

According to Statement Made
By Councilman Stewart at Session Last Night

Haulers—Tom Black Champions
Cafe Liquor License.

"We must remember that $100,000 of the bond money has already been spent." This declaration was made by Councilman Stewart last night during the session of the council, the statement being made for the purpose of influencing the vote in the matter of apportioning the funds to be derived from the bond issue so as not to pay unnecessary interest.

Stewart's remark elicited a buzz of "equal to" "shut up," from members around him, and the eyes of Councilman Hall were seen to blink. All three morning papers heeded the admonition and printed not a word on the incident today.

"Unless you have figures to back that statement, you had better not press it," declared President At J. Davis, from the chair. Councilman O'Donnell responded that there was a well defined agreement that the bond issue should be used for specific future improvements and not to pay back interest, and discussion of the matter ended.

FERNSTROM'S MOTION.
The council voted, upon motion of Mr. Fernstrom, that $200,000 of the water bonds be converted into cash and made payable Oct. 1, $150,000 Jan. 1, the remaining $50,000 April 1. The amount of the sewer bonds is $150,000, to be available Oct. 1.

PLAYED FAVORITES.
The resolution authorizing advertising the bonds recommended that the advertisements appear for the required length of time in the Salt Lake Tribune, the Salt Lake Herald, the Deseret Evening News, the Utah Daily Bee, the Buyer of New York, the Tribune and Herald be patronized, and speaking is the motion said that some of the Salt Lake papers made a "dirty" light against the bond issue, and should be cut out of all patronage by the administration. The motion carried by a strictly party vote, and the daily papers to include all five of the daily papers was lost on a similar vote. The bid was to be opened Aug. 31, and a certified check for one per cent of the amount of the bonds must accompany the bids.

GARBAGE HAULING.
Dr. Stewart, chairman of the health department, was on hand, asking for an increase of pay for garbage haulers. At the present rate, 7 cents per hundred from the city proper and 19 cents from Sugar House, the men would make a considerable profit. A considerable discussion, it was decided to leave the present rate for city haulers until conditions in the character of garbage should change, and a 10-cent increase of 5 cents a hundred was made on the long hauls. In the discussion it was brought out that when the men haul garbage, they should not make wages, he said. They should haul ashes unless all the dirt were sifted out, claiming that the stuff was too heavy. Now they complain if the debris does not consist of dirt, but of rocks and other heavy material.

LIQUOR LICENSES.
On motion of Councilman Black the proprietor of the Loxley cafe will be permitted to file another application for a liquor license, and he heard in committee. Black asked that the city should be asked to render an opinion as to whether clubs, designated by him as "rich men's bars," should be permitted to dispense liquors on the Sabbath, while poor men could not get a drink. Mr. Fernstrom said that a motion that the attorney advise as to whether the license of restaurant keepers could not be revoked for infraction of the ordinance against the unlawful dispensing of liquors.

Jerold Letcher, clerk in the United States courts, never forgets a voice. He has come across old-time acquaintances he would never recognize if it might be for their voices. An old man walked into Mr. Letcher's office this morning and said he wanted to have his pension paid over, explaining the reason and all about it. Mr. Letcher caught himself staring at the old man because there was something about the caller's voice that made him stare. The visitor was a German and Mr. Letcher was as sure as anything that he knew him at one time. "I've known you, somewhere once upon a time," said Mr. Letcher, to get the man to say something so he could be sure.

"I knew you back in Illinois, as sure as I'm a foot high." "I don't know that I ever saw you before," said the old soldier, looking earnestly at the court attaché's face. "I knew you about twenty years ago," went on Mr. Letcher, as some old bits of life unfolded in his memory. "You lived in Marshall, Saline county, Illinois."

"I did," answered the old man almost excitedly. "Picture me with dark hair, instead of white," suggested Mr. Letcher, stroking his white locks. "Make me twenty years younger." "No use," said the old man; "you're too much for me."

Mr. Letcher and it all straightened out now, the kink in his memory, not his silver hair. "You're Martin Zimmerman and your farm was not far from ours." "And you?" "I'm Jerold Letcher," said the old man grasping the Salt Lake clerk's hand. "But who would have ever dreamed I'd meet into you like this. Why, what strange things happen. How on earth did you know me?" "By your voice," answered Mr. Letcher.

"I didn't see you do it I wouldn't have believed," answered the old man, and the two were deep in the exchange of reminiscences for the next half hour.

EIGHT HOUR DAY ONLY

Contractors on Public Works Accused
Of Violating the Statutes in This Connection.

Contractors on public works are to be held strictly to the eight-hour law. Violations of the statutes of this have been frequent, and the matter was brought to a focus when certain items on the last monthly payroll of the city were objected to by Councilman Fernstrom on the ground that they were irregular. For instance, one inspector put in a bill for 34 days during the month of July. His friends in the council justified his actions on the ground that he had worked overtime to keep tally on Moran's men, who were working overtime. Payment for the extra time was deferred pending an investigation, and the investigation brought to light the fact that the statute is being constantly violated. The board of public works not only has cognizance of the breaking of the law in this regard, but it is a party thereto, inasmuch as it pays men for overtime. The statute referred to reads as follows:

Sec. 1236—Eight hours shall constitute a day's work on all works and undertakings carried on or aided by the state, county or municipal governments. Any officer of the state or of any county or municipal government, or any person, firm, corporation, contractor, agent, manager or foreman who shall require or contract with any persons to work upon such works and undertakings longer than eight hours in any calendar day, except in case of emergency, where life or property is in imminent danger, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

UNDERWRITERS MEET.

Discuss Plans for Entertainment of Eastbound Delegates.

F. L. Jones of Indianapolis, superintendent of western agencies of the Equitable Assurance company of New York is at the Knutsford, en route across the continent inspecting agencies. He was waited on at the hotel by representatives of the Utah Life Insurance Underwriters association, who paid him their respects.

Quite a number of the association met yesterday to discuss the entertainment of delegates to the national association at Los Angeles during the week of August 17, as they returned east via Salt Lake on the 26th inst., another meeting will be held shortly to consider this matter further.

CHIEF GLORE IN CHARGE

New Head of Fire Department Takes
The Reins and Gets Acquainted.

The new fire chief, W. H. Glore took charge, officially, of the department this morning bright and early. He was discovered in the office of the secretary industriously pouring over a copy of the revised ordinances of Salt Lake City and occasionally taking a peep at the statutes.

Chief Glore was asked who his assistant chief will be. He replied: "I have just been looking up the law a little bit and getting acquainted with the men. I can not say at this time who will be appointed assistant chief. I told Capt. Ayland to just go ahead as he has been and he is now in the capacity of acting chief. Of course we can not do things in a day. It takes time to get a thorough understanding of the workings of the department but that will come with experience. What we want is quick action and where improvements are needed we will try to make them."

There was a rumor about first headquarters that Chief Glore was in favor of establishing "tower bells" and he was asked if they were a fact. "Well yes, I have been thinking about it," he replied. "While it is true that the larger cities have done away with a tower bell some of the cities still retain them. I think it is a good idea to have a bell so the men can be called if there is a factory fire or any other big place is burning. If the men are out to lunch or happen to have a day off they can respond when the bell strikes. I understand that most of the alarms come in by telephone. If we have a tower bell it could be so situated that people on the busy streets would have ample warning to get out of the way of the fire department. We could perhaps wait a minute or so to give automobiles, street cars, buggies and pedestrians time enough to get out of the way so we would have a clear course and the right of way."

Chief Glore did not say definitely whether or not the tower bell, a relic of volunteer days in a small town, like Murray, or like Covington was in the spring of '76, would be established in the metropolis of the great State of Utah, but he is in favor of it.

If a man happened to be at his home during meal time, at 10th and East and Eighth South, near the Warm Springs or out to S and Fourth street, he would of course hear the fire bell and immediately jump into his automobile and dash directly to the location of the fire bell and from there rush to the fire, if it happened to be his day off, and he were with his family at Saltair or Lagoon, the sharp ring of the bell would be the signal for him to tear himself away from the bosom of his family and a cold bottle and beat it into the city without unnecessary loss of time.

Chief Glore was chief of the Covington department for many years and left the service about 19 years ago. He is an inventor of fire apparatus and is regarded as an expert on water systems. He is a typical Kentuckian and carries his 62 years and his 6 feet 2 or height with ease and grace. There was an alarm at 7:25 this morning but the new chief did not go to the scene. It came from the rear of 276 south Main street, where smoke from a range in a caddy shop caused someone to think the place was on fire. The apparatus from No. 1 responded. Had there been a tower bell on First South and Main street everybody could have seen the excitement. No damage was done.

Do it today, take a bath at Saltair.

PARK ENSIGN PEAK.

Lon Haddock, secretary of the M. & M. association spent yesterday in the hills near Ensign peak examining the country with a view of determining its feasibility for park purposes. He found that several springs in the vicinity could be developed to give sufficient water supply for a park, especially if trees were planted that require but a small amount of moisture such as the black locust. Mr. Haddock intends to invite members of the Salt Lake Riding club, the Salt Lake Automobile club, the driving club and other organizations to go with him to the site of the proposed park, and if the plan seems feasible, to appoint an "Ensign park day" when the people can come up in large numbers and examine the site.

HOLDS FIRST REHEARSAL.

Large Number of Singers Enroll in Elsteddoff Chorus.

The Salt Lake Elsteddoff chorus held its first meeting and rehearsal last night, on the stake of the Salt Lake Theater. Prof. McClellan, the conductor, explained what was to be done, and the hard work necessary to win the $1,000 prize. Manager Haddock also made a brief address in which he referred to the musical reputation Salt Lake had won, and how it was now in a measure staked on the success of the present venture. He called attention to the interest taken in the matter by local business men who are ready in every way possible to aid the chorus.

Asst. Manager Giles said a number of good Salt Lake singers who could not be present last evening, had phoned him they intended to join the chorus. The singers enrolled last night were: Soprano—Miss Katharine Gabholt, Miss Roberta Sprawl, Miss Sarah Rasmussen, Miss Stella Johnson, Miss Maud Kenner, Miss Lottie Brain, Miss Edith Davis, Miss Katharine Kinsley, Miss Alder, Miss Laurinda Poulton, Miss Beate Smith, Mrs. Nuttall, Miss Margaret M. "There's a Reason"

EXCITEMENT IN COURT

Prisoner Before Judge Diehl Drops to Floor Suffering From a Severe Hemorrhage.

There was some excitement in Judge Diehl's court room this morning shortly before 9 o'clock when the prisoners were brought in and placed on the mourners' bench. Among the offenders was one George Durke, a saloon "swampy," arrested at 11:30 yesterday morning by officer Carlson. While waiting for the judge to take the bench, Durke suddenly toppled over and had a most severe hemorrhage. Blood in great quantity flowed from his nose and mouth over the floor until the room looked like a slaughterhouse. The unfortunate man was taken to the emergency hospital where he received treatment. The case against him was dismissed and he was later released from custody.

Charles Appleton, colored, admitted that he was guilty of vagrancy by begging on the streets. He explained, however, that he had had an abscess on the ear and an operation left his face on the right paralyzed. He asked for a chance to leave the city. "Will you go?" asked Judge Diehl.

"Yes, yes, yes, yes," replied Appleton. "I will get out by 6 o'clock." He was given the chance and judging from the speed he displayed in the start he beat the record.

The case of L. D. Martin, "American" councilman, charged with using abusive language toward Charles Crane, was again continued. A demurrer to the complaint has been filed by Atty. Patriot Lippman and the matter will be argued when convenient for counsel and court.

Parley Anderson, tried yesterday morning on the charge of battery upon a boy named Leonard Brenton, was found not guilty and discharged. Judge Diehl was of the opinion that Anderson did right in ejecting the youngster from the Utah Ice plant. "The defendant saved the boy from probable loss of life or limb," said the court, "and I think the boy was injured in spirit more than physically."

The case against Lizzie Voss, the colored woman who has established a reputation as a fighter, but who got the worst of a mix-up with Henry Page a few days ago, was discharged from custody. She was charged with disturbing the peace. The Voss woman was badly beaten and got a black eye because she learned that Page and her daughter were living together and asking Page if they were married. Page resented the question and the pair engaged in a fight, Page winning in a round.

JUDGMENT AGAINST "BOB."

In the civil division of the city court a judgment was filed yesterday against "Bob" Fitzsimmons, the prizefighter, for the sum of $509. Charles E. Birkshaw was the plaintiff, and the judgment was secured as damages for injuries received by plaintiff's son, who was bitten by Fitzsimmons' lion at Lagoon in 1905. Fitzsimmons at the time was training for his fight with Schaeck, and carried the young lion about with him. The animal became enraged and attacked the child, inflicting serious injuries.

SUITS AGAINST CITY.

Two damage suits were filed against the city yesterday for change of grade. In one case Sophia and Alice Daniels are the plaintiffs, and they ask $2,000 for the dangerous condition of their property on Second avenue between Canyon road and A street by reason of the city lowering the sidewalk and street. The amount demanded by L. A. Blackner is $3,000, and his property is on the same street as above.

THREATENED TO SHOOT HIM.

M. V. Chays has filed a cross-complaint in the district court asking for a divorce from his wife, Della Chays. He claims that recently she has threatened to kill him, having a revolver in her hand at the time. This was on July 29, when he went to his wife's home to get her to sign the papers. The Chays couple have been in the courts, one against the other, since 1901. Recently Mrs. Chays secured a judgment for separate maintenance from her husband, being allowed $40 a month. Chays agrees to pay her a reasonable alimony, provided he be allowed a divorce.

ROLAPP NOT CANDIDATE

Eminent Ogden Jurist Says He Would Not Accept Democratic Nomination for Governor.

(Special to the "News.")

Ogden, Aug. 7.—The many friends of Judge Henry H. Rolapp in Ogden as well as Salt Lake have been mentioning his name frequently for the nomination of governor on the Democratic ticket. While the eminent jurist has not given out any statement in regard to the nomination, he has been seen by the "News" representative, and in answer to the question whether he would accept the nomination for governor, he replied: "Absolutely, NO!"

Judge Rolapp stated that his business would not permit him to consider the nomination at all. Within the past year the business of the Associated Sugar company of which Judge Rolapp is secretary has multiplied to such an extent that his time is almost fully occupied in the work.

Some of the close friends of Judge Rolapp in this city are firm in their belief that if the nomination was tendered him and it came as the unanimous choice of the party, that the judge would weaken and would accept it.
