Harbormaster Edward M. Rutledge died at his home in Bureka, Cal., Tuesday, after a short illness. He was taken suddenly by a stroke of apoplexy. Everything possible was done to save his life, but without avail. Rutledge was a native of New York, and was married and has a wife and a widow and three children.

A large dam of the Ohio State Mining company on the San Joaquin river, twenty miles from Bureka, California, broke Wednesday. It was intended to drive the San Joaquin a point four miles in length, and to contain a million gallons of water. The dam was built twice last year and the reports were that the dam had been built away again. The dam was built to impound the waters of the San Joaquin, which is supposed to be rich in gold in certain parts of the river.

Ed. M. Logan, head sweeper at Columbia, California, was killed Tuesday afternoon. Two iron pipes, which were used for sweeping, fell on his head from an elevated position. Logan's position was directly in front of the pipes, and he was the only man in the mine. His right leg and right arm were horribly mangled, and he died in about an hour without regaining consciousness. A widow and one child survive him.

A shocking accident occurred at Yuba, Cal., on the night of May 10, when Frank Green, aged 17 years, son of William Green, a painter, fell from a scaffold. He was about 100 feet high when he fell, and he was killed. His father was with him at the time, and he was thrown on the ground. Young Green was a piece of board over, and he was killed. The board struck Green on the right eye, severing the ball.

The statement was made by Professor Lawson in a lecture on "The Flooding of the Western States" delivered Wednesday before the Western Association of the Pacific. According to the professor, the most serious of the water trouble is the one which is now being experienced in the extreme north-west. The water is now being experienced in the extreme north-west. The water is now being experienced in the extreme north-west. The water is now being experienced in the extreme north-west.

There are times when the variation of a pulse beat tells the practiced physician whether the scale will go down and mean death or up and mean life. But suppose the medicine he prescribes is not the medicine which your child is taking, but something the druggist thought would do just as well! Who is going to regulate the balance then? A druggist who will offer you something else when you ask for Scott's Emulsion will do the same thing with his prescriptions. Get what you ask for!
