

NATIONAL GUARDS ARE CHAMPIONS

Defeated the University Team by a Score of 11 to Nothing.

VARSITY'S POOR SHOWING.

Manager Margotta's Men Had All the Best of It from Beginning to End—Eastern Games.

Saturday afternoon marked the downfall of the U. of U. football team, the eleven that has been touted as the champions of Utah for the season of 1930. Their fall was brought about by Bert Margotta's National Guards, and great was the fall thereof. They were beaten at every stage of the game from the time the ball was first put in to play until the whistle blew at the last moment of play. If the Varsity team was crippled the same can be said of the Guards. The Varsity boys were superior in weight only. They lacked speed, did not work unitedly, and apparently had all the "ginger" taken out of them in the first minute's play. They undoubtedly made the poorest showing of the season and not once during the two 30-minute halves did they come anywhere near scoring. They were slow in snapping the ball, and as a result the opposing team knew where every play was coming and simply massed their men to meet the attack. There was some good individual work on the part of the Varsity men. Wade, Bonnell, Roberts, Brown and Higgins did good work in spots, but all of them lacked the stick-to-itiveness which makes good football possible. One of the prettiest plays of the game was up by Zinn. The Guards directed one of the plays directly at him. He met over half the team and not only held the man with the pig skin, but moved his bunch back and forth without making a foot out of his tracks.

The Guards played aggressively all the time. They worked as a team should work and some of the individual work was brilliant. Davis, Christy, Groesbeck and Chaffin were the stars of the day. The first three in making splendid gains, while Chaffin was exceptionally good in tackling and breaking up interference. He was in a position where his work did not show up to any great advantage unless particular notice was paid to him. But those who watched the game claim that in every mix-up Chaffin was there doing his part and frequently doing more than his share.

Groesbeck displayed rare judgment in throwing the plays where the opposition was weak. Davis and Christy made some beautiful runs. Christy's work was superb, and when it is taken into consideration that he was a sick man when he entered the game, his performance was simply wonderful. Nearly every time he secured the ball it was sure for a good gain. The same may be said of Davis whose end runs were remarkable. Christy was injured at the beginning of the second half and had to retire. His place was taken by Wilson, a man who probably understands the game better than any other. He should be ruled off the field unless he learns to behave. He seemed to be strong for a fight all the time and "hit down" before the teams and the crowd. Wilson went so far as to call the officials names and invite them to go to a warmer climate.

OGDEN TEAM WON.

Had an Easy Time Defeating the Logan Team.

The game at Logan Saturday between the Ogden high school team and the Logan eleven resulted in victory for the Junction city lads. The Logans were no match for the visitors who simply had a walk away. They played perfect ball while the Ogden boys lacked ginger and apparently did not know what team work meant. The game ended with a score of 17 to 0 in favor of the Ogden team. The eleven lined up as follows:

Ogden, 17.	Position.	Logan, 0.
Jones,	John Bance
Tracy,	Wm. H. Hyde

HOUSE BLOWN UP WITH DYNAMITE

Two Members of the Family Are Killed.

WAS A DEED OF REVENGE.

Man Charged With It Is Said to Have Been Rejected Suitor of Victim's Daughter.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—A dynamite bomb, the weapon of a deranged assassin, blew up the home of Joseph Kordeck in Chicago Heights today, killing two members of the family and injuring several others. The house was set on fire and burned, and that of a neighbor caught fire and was also destroyed.

DEAD.

Joseph Kordeck, arms and legs blown off.

Lucy Kordeck, aged two years, body blown to pieces.

INJURED.

Mrs. Lucy Kordeck, flesh blown off right side, injured internally, may die. Seven children who escaped were injured, but not seriously.

The explosion occurred while the family were asleep. The father and mother, with the daughter, Lucy, occupied a room in front of the cottage. On the other side were rooms occupied by the rest of the family. The cottage stood two feet from the ground, on wooden posts.

The bomb was placed under the room occupied by the parents, but the impact of the explosion tore a hole in the floor, blew the bed to pieces, dismembered Kordeck and scattered into fragments the body of Lucy, who was sleeping with her parents. Pieces of flesh the size of a man's hand were blown from the cottage. Kordeck's body, torn to shreds, was found in the debris after the fire.

Charles Smith, a former boarder at the Kordeck house who was paying at first, finally saw two men run from the scene during the explosion. Smith, who was charged with the crime, the Kordeck girl was to have been married to another man next week. Smith declared he was innocent, but neighbors declare that he made threats if the girl refused to be his wife, he would blow up the entire family with dynamite. Smith was absent from his room at the time of the explosion. Thomas Koblinki, his roommate, claims that Smith returned to his room greatly excited shortly after the explosion.

FLATHEAD INDIAN ROBBED.

Robbers Took Twenty-two Thousand Dollars in Cash.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 2.—A special to the Miner from Missoula says that one of the most sensational robberies that has ever occurred in the history of western Montana was enacted at Plains yesterday, news of which has just reached this place.

A wealthy Flathead Indian named Matchell was robbed Saturday night of $22,000 in cash money consisting of $100 bills and $20 gold pieces. Saturday night and during his absence at about 9 o'clock at night a man dressed as a squaw visited his home on Camas prairie and engaged in conversation with Matchell's squaw. Mrs. Matchell stated that the visitor was not an Indian squaw, but a white man, as he could not talk good English, but she did not suspect anything wrong at first. Finally she saw two men run from an outbuilding carrying something with them. Then it was that her suspicions were aroused, as the wealth had been stored in that building.

The robbers jumped on their horses, which were near by, and the one that had been talking to her joined them and the three hurried away. As soon as Matchell reached his home he learned of the robbery. He has since been in the hospital with the news several of the white citizens of that place accompanied Matchell to his home to find if the story was true. He was taken to the hospital on Thursday. A score of young Indians stepped out to try to locate the robbers, but no clue has been discovered.

Matchell is the wealthiest full blood Indian on the reservation. He has large herds of cattle and horses, and was always known to have money, but few people knew he kept it at home. It develops, however, that the Indian was afraid to trust his money in a bank and kept it in an old trunk in an outbuilding at his home.

INSTRUCTIONS TO CONCHA.

Residents of Isthmus Indignant at Colombia's Action.

New York, Nov. 2.—There is said to be great indignation among the residents of the Isthmus owing to the Colombian government's instructions to Minister Concha, at Washington, to suspend indefinitely the canal treaty negotiations, cables the Kingston Jamaica, correspondent of the Herald.

It is even reported that the authorities in Bogota are determined to break off the negotiations altogether because of the United States' recent policy restraining the transportation of Colombian troops on the Panama railroad in order to uphold strictly the treaty obligations.

The United States marines, it is asserted, have not hampered the Colombian government. On the contrary, the Americans, by protecting bananas on the Isthmus, are declared to have hindered them.

TRADE OF GERMANY.

Consul Mason at Berlin Makes an Interesting Report on It.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Frank H. Mason, consul general of the United States at Berlin, has just received a report on the trade of Germany for the year 1930, together with a review of the financial depression in that country. He says:

"The period of industrial reaction and financial depression in Germany which began during the summer of 1930 has met with varying and often sudden fluctuating changes and conditions throughout 1930, and down to the date of the present report. It is true that certain branches of manufacture, notably that of the textile industry, have during the past eight months shown encouraging signs of recovery, and there were apparently at the close of 1930 various indications that the worst of the crisis had passed and that their recovery, however slow it may prove, had been definitely begun. Since then, however, these favorable prognostications have only been measurably confirmed, and but for an active, well sustained foreign trade it is difficult to say wherein the general economic system of this country is improved since the early autumn of 1930. It is not too much to say that the steady increase in exports from year to year, especially the strong and sustained demand for German manufactures in the market of the United States, now form the brightest spot on the commercial horizon of the fatherland."

"The total foreign trade of the empire for the year given as $2,338,832, which, notwithstanding the depression is an increase over all previous years."

INHUMAN FATHER KILLS HIS SON.

Knocks Him Down With a Stone, Then Kicks Him to Death.

THREATENS HIS DAUGHTERS

With Like Fate If They Told-The Fiend Now in Jail and May Be Lashed.

Inez, Ky., Nov. 2.—Pleasant Spreading, held for the killing of his 4-year-old son and his 15-year-old daughter, is threatened with lynching. Spreading's family consisted of a wife, three daughters and a son. With his daughters and boy the father was herding sheep last Friday. The boy was unable to keep up with the others. The father placed him on a stone beside a spring, telling him to wait until his return.

The boy, becoming tired of sitting still, began to peel the loose bark of a tree that overhung the spring, and noticing the bark on the ground asked the boy who had done it. The boy replied that he had.

"I would rather have you dead than raise you to destroy everything on the farm," is the reply the father is said to have made, and then, it is charged, he picked up a stone and struck the boy on the head, knocking him down.

Then, it is alleged, he kicked the prostrate boy in the head until he had killed him, and turning to his daughters, threatened them with a like fate if they ever told what had occurred. After he went home and said the boy while chasing sheep had run against a tree and killed himself.

Becoming alarmed he took his eldest daughter and went to the mountains. His wife hired neighbors to bury the body of the child, and then went to the home of Judge E. Hensley. She told him of the death of her son, and he declared that her husband, who told her he was going into the mountain woods to hunt squirrels, and added that at different times he had threatened to kill the whole family.

The judge took her with her two younger daughters to his home and presented the case to the grand jury. One of the little girls told the jury that her father had kicked the boy to death. Shortly afterward a sheriff's posse captured Spreading in the mountains, but his eldest daughter is not with him.

Spreading's missing daughter turned up today, barefooted and ragged after her escape from her father in the mountains. She was immediately taken before the grand jury and testified to how her father killed the boy, threatened her life and that of her mother. She testified that he would have brained them had he not been frightened by neighbors. Judge Hensley has the jail so strongly guarded that there is no longer any danger of lynching. Spreading will be given a speedy trial.

of table food should be given a child before it is one year old," says Dr. Holt. What substitute then? Borden's Eagle Brand Condensed Milk is absolutely the safest and best infant food obtainable. Avoid unknown brands. Send for "Baby's Diary."

In respect to the origin of the merchandise imported into Germany last year, the United States again heads the list with a total, according to German statistics, of $248,000,000, or 13 per cent of the entire bulk of imports, as against $242,950,400, or 17 per cent in 1929.

On the other hand, German exports to our country reached a total valuation for 1930 of $91,820,000, leaving the formidable balance of $156,180,000 in favor of the United States. It is to be remarked, however, that the foregoing import figures include the vast amount of American merchandise landed at Hamburg for Russia, Austria, Hungary and Switzerland, which did not, therefore, belong to Germany at all. But with these deducted the balance was still largely in favor of this country.

It will be ready for occupancy May 1, 1931.

Victim of a New York Holdup.

New York, Nov. 2.—If a true story has been told by Eugene Steagmann, ten years old, who is in the King's County hospital in Brooklyn, in a serious condition, he was the victim of a hold-up in true frontier style, in a clump of woods near his home.

Young Steagmann is the son of a wealthy electrical manufacturer. He was gathering mineral specimens in the woods at the rear of his home, according to his story, when he was seized by two boys, carrying small rifles. Pointing their guns at him, Steagmann says, the boys threatened to "blow his head off" if he did not leave the neighborhood.

Before he could utter a word or get out of the thicket were two reports. A bullet whizzed by Steagmann's cheek and a second bullet lodged in his left shoulder. The boy fell to the ground with a groan and the two boys responsible for the injury fled.

Steagmann was found by a passer-by and carried home, where it was found a bullet had penetrated his left lung and that his side torso was injured. The police were notified and arrested the two boys who declare they were shooting at a target.
