MRS. CORWIN'S JEWELS AGAIN DISAPPEAR.

The disappearance of $50,000 worth of jewels, the property of Mrs. Halsey Corwin, of New York, promises to yield a sensation of international dimensions. The jewels which were stolen once before were recovered. It is said, by a man whose name is known in every civilized community.

In the mysterious case he has figured as "Col. Jack." He is described as a leader in that circle known as the "400," and is said to have been the donor of the gems for the recovery of which it is alleged he paid $25,000. Mystery is added to the affair by a statement made by one of those involved in it to the effect that "Col. Jack," fearing to be named as a correspondent has offered $25,000 to have his name kept out of the divorce proceedings which Mrs. Corwin's husband has announced he will bring against her.

HAT AND NECK RUCHE IN MALINETTE.

Malinette neck ruches are the most fascinating neck coverings of the season, and are more often than not worn with smart little hats made of lace or tulle and trimmed with ruche that matches in color and design the neck ruche. Some milliners are furnishing the hat and ruche in sets. The illustration shows one such, the ruche of pale blue dotted with tiny pink roses, and tied with long, blue velvet streamers. The hat, of pale blue chip, is trimmed with blue, rose dotted malinette, and is chic with a sweeping blue paradise aigrette with the ends curled in the latest fashion.
