Washington, Nov. 24.—There is a decided opinion among Republican senators in the city as to the fate to be pursued at the next session with reference to the tariff that it is a considerable question whether a caucus will be held very early in the session to decide upon a line of action. Senator Chandler is in favor of a loan. Revenue and financial legislation will be enacted in an extra session of Congress.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The October session of the Senate has been a quiet one. The only important business of the session has been the passage of the Dingley bill. The bill was passed by a vote of 74 to 26. The bill is a tariff act which will take effect on January 1, 1897. The bill is a compromise between the protectionists and the free traders. It is a bill which will give the protectionists a victory, but it will also give the free traders a victory. The bill is a bill which will give the protectionists a victory, but it will also give the free traders a victory.
