File in Pleasant View Case Names Eighteen Hundred Defendants.

CITY CONTESTS THEIR RIGHTS

Action Seeks to Forever Determine Title to Waters Flowing from Parley's Canyon,

Following close upon the heels of the great Progress company suit, which involves the rights of Salt Lake City to the water flowing through the big conduct supplying a large portion of the aqua pura for the city's population will be the action of the city against the Pleasant View Ir-the city against the Pleasant View Irrigation company, and others, involving similar rights to the water flowing out of Parley's canyon.

In the Progress suit there were 251 defendants who employed something over 40 lawyers to plead their cause, which in that instance, was the cause of the city. About 60 days were consumed in submitting the Progress case, including five days' argument by the attorneys and the cost of the case up to the time of submission, was over $7,000. In the case of the city against the Pleasant View Irrigation company, between 1,700 and 1,800 other defendants are named, and it is estimated that ants are named, and it is estimated that probably six months will be required to hear the testimony and arguments before the court.

SOME ITEMS OF INTEREST.

As an instance of what the case will As an instance of what the case will cost, the first step in the trial of the case, that of summoning the defend-ants, is now in process of fulfilment. The alias summons, to be served upon each one the nearly 1,800 defendants, each one the nearly 1,800 defendants, is a pointed document containing nothing else than the names of the parties defendant to the action, covering 11 pages of legal cap paper closely printed in 11-point type 40 ems in width. The names are alphabetically arranged, each letter being represented except the letter x. The names under the letter x lead the list by a page and a half, while the smallest number of names occurs under the letter x only names occurs under the letter z, only two persons and two corporations whose appelations begin with the last letter in the alphabet being defendant in the suit.

The city is represented in the case by Ogden Hiles and F. S. Richards, who also conducted the Progress suit in the city's behalf. Judge Hiles, who was city attorney when the action was filed, is now retained as counsel for the city to assist Mr. Richards, the city council passing a resolution to that effect last Monday evening. The progress of the case through the courts will be watched with interest by the people of the city, so many of whom people of the city, so many of whom are parties defendant to the action.

ANOTHER SMOKE SUIT.

John F. Lennberg has filed a suit in the federal court against the Utah Con. asking for $2,415.65 for actual damages blamed by the plaintiff to smelter smoke and for $2,000 as punitive damages.

CHARGES MALPRACTISE.

Dr. E. S. Wright is being sued in Judge Lewis' court on a charge of malpractise brought by Daniel Cornelly. Plaintiff asks for damages of $10,000 based on the fact that one of his legs, which was broken in an accident at Alta, Sept. 5, 1905, and which was set by Dr. Wright, is shorter than his other leg and plaintiff claims this is due to the unskilful manner in which the limb was set. Several doctors have been summoned as witnesses to give expert testimony in the case. give expert testimony in the case.

ASSET WAS WORTHLESS.

David S. Murray is named as de-fendants by the Bank of Hardinsville & Trust company to recover $400 alleged to be due on a promissory note of date Nov. 6, 1906, and secured by stock in the Ontario Silver Mining company, Judgment was obtained in the district court and the stock nam-ed foreclosed upon, but upon sale the alleged asset proved valueless.

HOLMES WILL FILED.

The last will and testament of William Holmes, who died at his home in South Cottonwood Nov. 6, 1892, has been filed for probate in the Third dis-trict court. The will, which was exe-cuted Oct. 15, 1877, leaves the entire estate to his wife. Elizabeth Entwistle Holmes, at whose death the estate goes to the children of Mr. Holmes and the wife named in the will. The children by a former marriage, with the exception of Alfred Holmes, who was given considerable property at the time of executing the will, are entirely cut off.

CHRISTMAS WEDDING SEQUEL.

Ella S. Dean has filed suit in the Third district court for divorce from her husband, James M. Dean. She al-leges that Dean deserted her and their little boy on Jan. 26, 1907, and she asks for the custody of the child in addition to the decree of divorce. The were married at Prove on Christmas day, 1904.

SHURTLIFF WILL FILED.

Nellie Shurtliff, widow of the late Harrison T. Shurtliff of Mill Creek, has filed the will of her husband in the Third district court with a petition that it be admitted to probate. The estate consists of real esate yielding a rental of $200 per year and personal a rental of $200 per year and personal property amounting to $2,500. With the exception of a few small gifts, the widow is named as sole legatee.

ALSTOTT DISMISSED.

C. E. Alstott, charged with burglary in the second degree, was discharged from custody this morning by Judge Diehl, on motion of Atty, William Newton, counsel for defense. Alstott was accused of stealing a harness from W. H. Kingdon on April 3, but the prosecution was unable to make a case against the man. The prosecution case against the man. The prosecut-

"American" Invasion Into G. A. R. Called to Halt by Commander.

The long effort that has been made to make it appear that the G. A. R. veterans of Utah are different in their patriotism to the majority of Utah's patriotism to the majority of Utah's citizens found an outlet yesterday in a circular naming an inveterate "Mormon-eater," Ogden Hiles, as the most available candidate for department commander, and commending him to the G. A. R. veterans of the state. Of the same class have been arguments advanced by men of his fellowship that one of the principal objects of securing the next G. A. R. encampment for Salt Lake was to "teach the Mormons a lesson in patriotism."

Today comes the natural sequence to lesson in patriotism."

Today comes the natural sequence to the "American" party activity, in the form of a public statement by Alfred Kent, department commander, discrediting as a piece of electioneering, the circular of yesterday, and setting forth the facts concerning the G. A. R. election and the candidates for positions. The statement which follows calls attention to the gross breach of etiquette shown in the attempt to electioneer: electioneer:

"To all members of the Grand Army of the Republic of Utah. Be it known that any and all publications in the public press to the effect that a 'clr-cular letter' purporting to eminate from G. A. R. headquarters, recommending the election of certain persons named therein for offices in the order at the forthcoming state convention of the order, is without any kind or character of authority so far as the headquarters of the G. A. R. is concerned.

"The letter is probably prompted by a desire on the part of some individual members to indulge in electioneering schemes to the end of boosting the ambitions of candidates for office in the order.

ambitions of candidates for office in the order.

"Such schemes are absolutely contrary to the rules and regulations of our order. It is regretted that such means should be attempted, as delegates to the convention will be guided solely upon the merits of nominees when properly presented for consideration in convention assembled.

NO FEAR OF POLICE.

Thieves Rob Room Across the Street From Headquarters.

How little fear of the police thieves operating in this city have is frequently shown when robberies are committed within a stone's throw of the police station. Burglars very recently robbed a laundry across the street from the headquarters. Other instances have been numerous. Last night a burglar entered the room of N. A. Porter in the Raleigh rooming house, again just across the street from the stationhouse. The man secured a gold watch for his trouble and along with it $5 in coin. The stolen property belonged to J. Witherspoon. As is quite usual, no arrests have been made.

George S. Klontz, Former Salt Laker, Shoots and Seriously Wounds Girl.

In a telegraphic news dispatch from Tacoma, the story of an attempted uxorcide on the part of George S. Klontz, formerly of this city, is given. The dispatch containing the tragic news is as follows:

news is as follows:

George S. Klontz, a former resident of Salt Lake City, aged 22 years, shot and probably fatally wounded his girl wife while the two were wheeling their 8-months-old baby along the street this afternoon, and then turning the weapon upon himself, placed the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth and fired a shot, intended for his brain. The shooting followed a violent quarrel which occurred about two hours before. The woman is only 17 years of age, and since the couple's marriage, about a year ago, quarrels have been numerous and Klontz was last December fined heavily for assaulting his wife.

THE GREAT CAMPAIGN.

The first number of "The Great Campaign" for this year has made its appearance. This paper has issued reguarly for 13 years and proves to be a factor of some importance in political circles. In the editorial announcement, the paper's purpose is set forth in the statement that it is "a paper of politics and piety, with a little business and fun thrown in." Its "lead" story in the first issue of this year is entitled "Political Retrospection," and is a history of politics in Utah from the beginning. Among the contributors to the number are: Gov. John C. Cutler, William H. King, Col. George B. Squires, R. W. Sloan, William D. Lavingston, A. J. Weber, Judge George G. Armstrong and Arthur L. Thomas, S. A. ASSOCIATION KEEPS BUSY.

State Papers Tell of Sales, What's Going On At Corrals and Other Interesting News.

President E. H. Callister of the Utah Woolgrowers' association continues to receive encouraging letters from representatives of the association in the east. These representatives were sen east to arrange for the storing of wool in Boston, St. Louis and other markets until prices become higher. Western raisers are far from satisfied with anything below 15 cents. This is one side of the story.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Marcus Harris, a buyer and others, who have been out through the state smile mysteriously and say they are buying wool. Local railroad offices say cars are going east loaded with wool consigned to eastern firms. Buyers are also relievating that growers are accepting present prices, 10 to 13 cents. This is the other side of the story.

Both sides offer their statements with all seriousness and with numerous declarations of their truthfulness. Each is as different from the other as black is from white Perhaps the sales. black is from white. Perhaps the sales reported by the buyers are, as the as-sociation members say, the exceptions, rather than the ather than the rule.

OMAHA CHIPS IN.

Men interested in the fight of west-ern woolgrowers for a better market were greatly interested in an article printed by the Omaha Bee a few days printed by the Omaha Bee a few days ago. Omaha capitalists have conferred and are conferring with western woolgrowers in an effort to get the latter to store their product in Omaha. The scheme has met with great favor there, the banks of the river city having announced their ability and willingness to loan any amount of money necessary for warehouse certificates. Omaha has agreed with the growers that they would be foolish to take May and June prices when storing until fall would bring almost twice as much. The city says it sees money in the scheme, would bring almost twice as much. The city says it sees money in the scheme, for growers and itself, and is more then anxious to rent its warehouses. It is argued that Omaha is an attractive point even with expenses of unloading and reloading midday between con-signing point and destination figured in

In.

By many Omaha is figured as the central point for the west and as 68 per cent of the United States entire sheep is raised west of the Missouri river, the west should be able to dictate in wool and mutton matters. Evidently it intends to do so from this time on A significant feature is the fact that Utah has been in the lead in developments.

SHEEP NOTES.

A band of 25,000 sheep, which came from Colorado to Utah to be sheared, has yielded its contribution to the season's crop. The immense band will return to Colorado about the first of May, Special freight trains are being arranged for this movement by the Rio Grande.

Luther Tuttle will ship the first car of wool this week from the 12-mile shearing corral, through the Central Utah Wool company to Bos-ton, says the Manti Messenger.

Solomon and Cohn and James Clinton of Boston were in Milford this week and bought 14 carloads of wool at $11 to $12.70 per hundred, says the Milford times.

Eight carloads were purchased at

There are 30 shearers busy at the corrals near Minersville.

D. J. Williams, the well known sheep owner, was in town Friday.

Sheep Commissioner Sharp says that the cold spell just passing away is not having any unfavorable effect on the sheep as the air is dry and cold. It is only when it is wet and cold that he shorn animals suffer.

Thirty sheep shearers have been busy for the past 25 days at Clsco, separating the wool from about 80, 000 head. This wool is being shipped away to eastern markets. Aiready 20 cars of the clip have gone to Denver, and some 10 or 15 will follow. The wool from these sheep has all, or very near all, been sold to Denver firms at 18 cents, which is considered a very fair price at the present time.—Eastern Utah Advocate.

"We have had troubles with you before this," said Judge Diehl, "and I don't want to keep you in jail but you must stand up."

"I am conscious of no wrong," replied O'Donnell, "and as for taking off my lat or standing up, it is against my religion and I will not do it. I will not take off my hat or stand up in the presence of any mers man. I will do that only in the presence of any mers man. I will do that only in the presence of my Maker."

Judge Diehl had the old man in his office and kindly explained to him that it was a rule of the court to stand up when being arraigned and also to remove ones hat, but O'Donnell could not see it that way and positively retused to comply with the rules of the court. He did not seem to think there was anything wrong in getting drunk. was anything wrong in getting drunk, on Sunday or any other day, but that it would be a great sin to stand in the presence of the court or to remove his hat. Policeman Who Shot Escaping Prisoner Held to Be Blameless by Coroner's Jury.

A jury composed of B. B. Quinn, W M. Wooley and C. A. Standred, it Justice of the Peace Dana T. Smith's dourt late yesterday afternoon, exonerated Police Officer George Harris from blame in the killing , who tried to escape from the gang Monday afternoon. The found that Aaron came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by Officer Harris while in the dis-sharge of his duty, and that he was ustified in the act.

Nothing new as to the facts of the killing was brought out. Officer Harris testified that he ordered Aaron three times to halt before he fired and then he shot at the men's less border. then he shot at the man's legs hoping to "wing" him and make him return to the chain gang. Thomas McLaugh-lin and C. McCarthy, two prisoners who were on the gang and who witnessed the flight of Aaron and the shooting, corroborated Officer Harris and Officer Kast. The latter described how Aaron Kast. The latter described how Aaron got away from his gang. One of the jurors asked Chief Pitt if the guards were instructed to kill a prisoner who attempts to escape. Chief Pitt replied that the guard were not instructed to kill but were under orders to watch the prisoners and prevent their escape, and to shoot if necessary to "wing" them, but not to kill.

The body of Aaron is still at O'Donnell's and will remain there until word is received from the dead man's relatives at Montreal.
