Of course the bird is nor entirely friendless. Many noble individuals stand out for it and the Society of the American Humane Education in m ways adds to the pleasure and stability of its existence. Largely through the efforts of the society, Audubon societies have been organized throughout the country, whose purpose it is to protect and care for the interests of the fenthered songsters. Through its efforts, also, humane ducation is beginning to receive consideration in our public schools. Also the organizing of bunds of mercy which is now only the begin-ning of the work here where the children are being taught to believe with the great Buddha that "all life is linked and kin;" that all life is sacred and that no creation of God has been made idly or in vala. Giadually society is be-ginning to recognize these truths; grad-ually public epinion is changing our laws and our legislatures have proven this. And what come often reading this. ## CURIOSITY

The Motive That Leads to Knowledge.

They say curiosity once killed a cat but if it were not for curiosity little progress would be made. A Texan tells the following good story about his curiosity and what he learned about food: "One day down at the store I noticed a yellow package with a curious name, 'Grape-Nuts.' The name fascinated me and aroused my curiosity. I didn't like to display my ignorance by asking so bought a package and took it home where I read all about it. When wife and I tried it we thought it delightrul
