

TARIFF DEBATE WAXING WARM

Discussion of Oil and Lumber
Schedules Was Like a Spark in a Tinder Box.

THE LUST FOR GAIN AND GOLD

Is What Protective Tariff Inspires,
Says Cox of Ohio—McKinley of California Urged Deliberation.

Washington, March 30.—The tariff debate waxed warm in the house today. A revival of the discussion of the oil and lumber schedules was like setting a match to both products, for the subjects proved of absorbing interest to the members, who entered generally into the debate. To Mr. Cleveland of New York was accorded the privilege of explaining the position of the independent refineries, who want the countervailing duty on crude petroleum retained, while Mr. McMillin of North Carolina, in an exhaustive treatment of the question, pleaded for free lumber.

At 4 o'clock the usual recess for two hours was taken.

FOREIGN TRADE.

Today's debate was opened by Mr. Cox of Ohio, who pleaded for a reduction in the duties on sewing machines. He argued that by reason of the favored nation clause Germany was enabled to manufacture and ship sewing machines and bicycles to Russia, France and other continental countries at about half the tariff imposed on the same articles of American manufacture. Because of this the American manufacturer was handicapped in extending his foreign trade. Unless the tariff was reduced, he said, the manufacturers of sewing machines and bicycles would be forced to build factories abroad, which would result in throwing out of employment in this country many skilled workmen. The maximum and minimum duties of the bill he declared to be not worth the paper it was written on. Referring to various witnesses before the ways and means committee, Mr. Cox said:

WHAT TARIFF INSPIRES.

"A protective tariff inspires such a lust for gain and gold that these men come here and swear their souls down to the gates of hell in order to get the government license to rob the people."

Mr. Cox said there was a large measure of public belief that President Taft would follow policies quite contrary to the Republican leaders. The action of the committee in removing the duty on hides was disapproved by Mr. Sterling of Illinois. Mr. Welles of Wisconsin replied that the 15 per cent duty so discriminated against the American tanner and leather manufacturer that they lose five dollars' worth of business on every hide and labor loss a dollar and one-half on a day's work. The bill does not remedy the situation, said Mr. Sterling. He charged that Mr. Welles's proposal was to open the flood gates and let in cheaper hides from South America and other countries, and cause the American tanner to suffer.

Mr. Hughes of Georgia contended that the history of tariff legislation showed the counterproductive performance of treasury for the farmers.

Mr. Bates of Pennsylvania spoke next.

OIL PRODUCERS.

Reiterating that he was partly responsible for retaining the countervailing duty on crude and refined petroleum, Mr. Vreeland of New York said that while to many people oil and Standard Oil seemed synonymous, there were 50,000 American citizens bringing to the surface every day nearly $500,000 worth of crude petroleum who had no more to do with the Standard Oil company than has the farmer who raises wheat and does with the miller to whom he sells it.

Mr. Vreeland said the schedule was based on hundreds of petitions from independent oil producers, and that removal of the countervailing duty would benefit the Standard Oil company, but would surely injure the business of the independents.

Mr. Vreeland said the countervailing duty had resulted in increased production of oil schedules of foreign countries, and that Russia was not an oil competitor of the United States. His remarks were interrupted by Speaker Cannon, who pointed out that in his (Cannon's) district and that of his colleague, Mr. Foster, there were 22 farmers, small shopkeepers and other owners of small trades, minimum receiving royalties on the production of their wells.

"Are the independents in greater need of protection from foreign competition or from the Standard Oil company's lawless methods?" inquired Mr. James of Kentucky.

Mr. Vreeland replied that until the Mexican field developed the American producer needed no protection from any spot on earth.

"The Democratic platform was right in demanding free lumber," said Mr. Kitchin of North Carolina, opposing the bill. The great beneficiaries of the tariff on lumber, he said, "are the big syndicates of stumpage holders in the northwest and on the Pacific coast."

SCARED BY LUMBER GHOSTS.

Mr. Kitchin accused those favoring a duty on lumber, including some of the Democratic leadership, of having been scared by Mexican, Canadian and Australian lumber ghosts. He declared that as a matter of fact each of these countries shipped to the United

The Harmony Of Home

Does Not Mingle With or Emanate
From the Table of Dyspepsia.

In the home, meal time should be a time of harmony. A peculiar harmony of joy which will make for the home the abiding place of intellect and happiness.

If this harmony is lacking, the table is out of sorts, its influence is felt and the harmony is lacking. Contentment and mirth are absent. Devoicing thoughts assail the diners and silence prevails.

"At the Dyspepsia Table Omnipresent, Quiet and Gloom Crowds Out Mirth."

All physicians agree that mirth and joy at the meal time does much toward digestion. Mirth tingles the whole nervous organism of man, the cells wherein are stored valuable digestive juices, empty their contents under the nerve stimulation and produce the highest degree of digestion. If gloom and discomfort prevail at the table there verse action obtains and meals become necessities, not antipathetic joys.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are little storehouses of digestions which mix with the stomach juices, digest food, retinge the mucous membrane and its nerve centers, give the blood a great wealth of digestive fluids, promote digestion and stays by the stomach until all its duties are complete.

If dyspepsia sits at tables it makes the dinner room a place of awe; these tablets should be taken after meals and dyspepsia of a consequence flees.

No need for diet or fasting. The dyspepsia who will use them religiously will find no sense of nausea in the sight of generous meals or in the odor of rich cooking.

It matters not what the condition of the stomach Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will improve the juices and bring quiet to the whole digestive canal, of which the stomach is the center.

Forty thousand physicians use these tablets in their practice and every druggist sells them. Print five and send your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

States a little over a million feet of lumber a year, while the exports to Mexico by the United States reached a total of 130,000,000 feet a year, and to Australia, 100,000,000 feet. "And yet," he said, "you let these ghosts appear before your eyes and you say, gentlemen, we demand protection."

PRESIDENT'S THEORY.

Dwelling on the theory that President Taft would not be intensely partisan on the tariff, Mr. Cox of Ohio declared that in the future public opinion based on the results of the tariff bill would either be confirmatory of that theory, or the view would gain ground that the administration, with Theodore Roosevelt far away, "has resumed the old beaten paths of the Republican party."

In adopting the amendments suggested by him, Mr. Cox declared that Congress would show due consideration for the great working masses of our people, who have had neither the means nor opportunity to maintain lobbies here, to give lavish banquets and conduct a systematic and expensive propaganda in their interest.

A spirited discussion among Messrs. Kitchin (Texas), Graham and Burke (Pennsylvania), came next. The Texas member accused Kitchin of being a free trader, which brought the retort that those Democrats who were asking protection for their sections on the plea that it was for revenue only should come forward and admit that the Republican party had been right and the Democratic party wrong.

Mr. Kitchin said that under Cleveland's policy, only 5,000,000 worth of lumber had been shipped to the United States but 5,000,000 more feet of lumber than came in under the McKinley law.

"They did not have the money to buy it," interjected Mr. Graham. Democratic applause greeted a reply of Mr. Kitchin that only a year ago even bankers and trust companies had no money. He mentioned in particular Pittsburgh, "that citadel of protection." He declared that Pittsburgh sent to Congress representatives who would vote for special interests.

FINAL TARIFF BILL.

Mr. Kitchin declared that the final tariff bill would be made for four men, two in the house and two in the senate. "You know who they are," he exclaimed, facing the Republicans. "That is the bill you are going to swallow," he said, "and for that reason they have no feelings in the Republican platform to place those western Republicans, and they are going to take it off in the senate, so you can go before your people and say, 'Well, now, we have done the best we could. We passed it in the house, and that dog-goned senate just simply ripped it up.'"

Taking up the question of oriental lumber employed in the lumber mills, Mr. Kitchin declared that the duties on lumber to the contrary of Mr. Humphrey of Washington, there were more orientals employed in the lumber industry in Washington state than in British Columbia, and that the wages in the latter country were about as high as in Washington.

DELIBERATION ADVISED.

At the night session Mr. McKinley of California advocated deliberation in removing duties from articles involving possible oriental competition.

Mr. Borland of Missouri characterized the Payne bill as a "manifestation" of "meanness" exclusively. He demanded on honest revision of the tariff downward on behalf of the great army of producers and consumers in the middle west. He said they had lost since even fired of the old Payne law. He declared the bill "not only picks the pockets of the American consumers, but it snatches the American producers."

Mr. Byrd of Mississippi delayed the free admission of lumber.

SOME DANGER OF DELAY.

There is imminent danger that the Payne tariff bill may be seriously delayed in its consideration by the house. President Taft conferred today with Speaker Cannon, Representative Payne and Delah.

While nothing could be learned as to the determination reached, it is understood that the house leaders impressed the chief executive with the unfavorable situation regarding the tariff bill, and difficulty of getting the Republican members in line to vote for a rule which would expedite the passage of the measure.

It was conceded tonight by several Republican leaders that it would be impossible to pass a rule restricting amendments to the bill until some time next week, and then only by granting the demands made by a number of members that certain important schedules be opened to amendment.

Those members who oppose a caucus do so on the ground that it would attract the attention of the country to the fact that the members of the majority in the house are at odds regarding the bill. As a means of settling the differences that exist and securing general support to a rule restricting amendments entirely to those which the ways and means committee will offer, they propose that the committee should recommend changes that would take the countervailing duty on coffee out of the bill and strike out the tariff on tea.

The Republican whips are making a canvass of the majority members to learn whether a great number favor or oppose the holding of a caucus.

CHARGED WITH KILLING WHALE'S BOAT STEERER

San Francisco, March 31.—Joseph E. Gardiner, son of a wealthy planter of Saylorville, Ky., and a nephew of King Edward C. Crear, chief justice of the Kentucky court of appeals, and a possible candidate for governor of his state, faced a jury here in the United States circuit court of appeals on a murder charge. He is accused of killing Joseph Corns, a colored boat steerer on the whaler Bowhead, on which young Gardiner shipped as before-the-mast hand, sailing from this port in 1908.

The prisoner was represented by Atty. W. M. A. Young and Henry R. Prentiss, both of Kentucky, sent out by Gardiner's family, and by Atty. Parke S. Mardux of this city, who has prepared the case of the defendant and befriended Gardiner since his arrest.

The fight which resulted in the death of Corns took place in the northern seas, according to witnesses testifying yesterday. Alex. Peterson, a member of the Bowhead's crew, stated that Gardiner refused to obey an order given by Corns, and after hot words, struck the boat steerer with a fist. Corns knocked the youth down and beat and kicked him as he lay on the deck. They were separated, but a few minutes later Gardiner came up behind Corns and struck him over the head with a heavy stick, inflicting injuries which caused death some hours later. Other witnesses confirmed the story of the encounter, but said that Corns appeared well in the road to recovery that night and did not die until next day. One witness said the blow was delivered from the side, not from behind.

PADEREWESKI SAYS HE MAY NEVER RETURN

New York, March 31.—Fear that the stroke of "piano player's cramp" which had caused him to cut short his concert tour in this country, might disable him for the remainder of his life, was expressed by Ignace Jan Paderewski, the noted pianist at the time of his departure for Europe yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse.

"I may never return to America," said Mr. Paderewski sadly. "At any rate I shall probably not play for the next two years. During that time I shall try to console myself by composing an opera."

WHOLE FAMILY APPENDIXES.

New York, March 31.—By submitting to an operation for the removal of his vermiform appendix, Honey S. Halsey, village trustee of South Orange, N. Y., achieved for himself and family the novel distinction of being collectively appendixless. Within the last year Mr. Halsey's wife and both his daughters have undergone the same operation.

WOMEN PROTEST AGAINST TARIFF ON GLOVES

Chicago, March 31.—Have the members of the North End Woman's club agreed to do nothing of wool and lace as a protest against the tariff on gloves or has somebody mistaken the expressed sentiment of the latest meeting? This is the question now agitating the ranks of the organization.

Mrs. L. Bracken Bishop made the suggestion.

"How many women in this club," she asked, "will agree to stop wearing gloves until the matter is settled?"

Oris sent gloves white kid gloves were cast hurriedly aside and scores of gloveless hands were raised. No one dissented.

"This question of a tariff on gloves and hosiery," said Mrs. Bishop, "is going to do more than anything else to interest women in the cause of suffrage, because it is making them realize how easy it is for men to legislate against their best interests, and how helpless they are in the matter."

Now a question arises as to whether the club action is to be considered binding.

The women all held up their hands when Mrs. Bishop asked them. "But that was an informal acquiescence. No resolution of the kind was adopted. I think the women thought it would be a little impractical, going about without gloves."

"I am perfectly willing to go without gloves myself," declared Mrs. Bishop, "if it would do any good, or if there was any chance of its doing any good, but perhaps I'm not as conservative as most women. Still that's what they all agreed to do. They all held up their hands."

ONE WEAK SPOT IN THE AMERICAN NAVY

Seattle, Wash., March 31.—Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans lectured at the Moore theater last night in the course of his talk on how he brought the fleet "from Hampton Roads to San Francisco," he stated the following:

"The one weak spot in the American navy is the lack of ships. There should be a fleet of 24 first class battleships on the Pacific coast all of the time, 16 in commission and eight in reserve with all of the lesser craft and trimmings that make up a fleet."

You have one more naval station. You have one the navy yard at Puget sound, and one at Mare Island. The trouble at Mare Island is that the bottom is too near the top and the gov-

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

Dr. Ainsworth, the Prominent Physician, says:

"I can truly say that I consider Dr. Richter's only reliable preparation on the market for the removal of superfluous hair. I have used many preparations for that purpose, but none gave me satisfaction until I used Dr. Richter's. It is a preparation that will do all that is claimed for it by the manufacturer, and I have no hesitancy in recommending it to all who desire satisfaction in all cases."

Dr. Richter's hair remover does not destroy the hair free from treatment. Remember Dr. Richter's is the only method in the world which is endorsed by physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and prominent magazines.

Indefatigable mailed, sealed in plain wrapper for $1.00. You should have a question (no red tape) if it fails to do all that is claimed for it. Dr. Richter's hair remover is sold by Dr. Richter & Co., 100 Park Ave., New York, or by Dr. Richter & Co., 27 South Main, Salt Lake City, and all good stores.

A WARNING.

The feet tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is another. Don't say the latter is laziness—it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It's a warning, too—and sufferers should begin taking Hood's at once. Buy a bottle today.

SHEPHERD GOES GUNNING.

Shoots Up Some Roystering Dogs and Law Suit Now Threatened.

Jack Browning, artist de luxe at the Hill Drug store soda fountain, proposes to sue George H. Shepherd, a neighbor, for shooting his valuable Irish setter, Shepherd did not mean to needlessly harrow Mr. Browning's feelings, but his own feelings were rudely disturbed Monday evening, by a herd of dogs in the street in front of his house. Now Mr. Shepherd does not approve of dogs being out after dark in the streets making disturbances to vex the peaceful reflections of honest citizens, so he sallied forth with a gun whose contents he distributed with entire impartiality among the wild and assorted variety of dogs which were making the calm night air hideous. It chanced that Mr. Browning's Irish setter was one of the canine roysters, and the bullet took him "where the chicken got the axe." A veterinary surgeon was called in to attend the sufferer whose life was with difficulty saved; but the surgeon says the setter will be an invalid for the remainder of his born days, and will have to be wheeled around in a chair. Mr. Browning thinks for exemplary damages.

night, in Eagles hall, with a choice banquet.

George Hagen presided as toastmaster. Austin Davis welcomed the guests and George T. Hansen explained the aims of the organization. The committee arranging the organization, meeting was held at the home of Mrs. E. C. Goodmann, George Burkess.

The officers elected for the auxiliary were: Mrs. A. Thompson, president; Mrs. O. P. Ball, vice president; Mr. Harris McElroy, secretary; executive committee, Mrs. A. P. Goodmann, Mrs. A. The "members" did all of the honors of the evening, including the cooking. History does not relate how many forms were used in setting the tables, or how many tons of metal were used in the cooking, or how much damage was done by the stereotyping outfit in the country. The lady waiters were the proof readers who staked salley after salley on the boys.
