

400 MEN STRIKE AT THE GERMANIA

Request an Advance in Wages
Averaging Thirty Per Cent.

THE ACTION WAS ORDERLY.

Only Two or Three Loud Talkers and
They Were Silenced—Working
Under Temporary Agreement.

Four hundred employees of the Germania smelter went out on strike yesterday afternoon for an increase of wages. Some time ago the men presented to the superintendent a request for an average raise of compensation of about 30 per cent. The men became impatient because of an absence of action in the matter and concluded to take some action to enforce recognition for their request. It was feared yesterday afternoon that some trouble might occur and Deputies Sheriff Dyer, Dowse and Cummock went down to Murray and joined Officer Goldman, who is stationed there; and Sheriff Howells went down early this morning. The men, however, were calm, orderly and peaceful, but two or three of them talking rather loudly, and they were silenced by the peaceable ones. There was no trouble whatever, outside of the mere quitting of work and this morning a committee from the men and company met with Superintendent Tucker and he and Mr. Jones agreed to lay the matter before the operating board in Denver, who will make reply a week from today. About 200 of the men went to work this morning upon the strength of this agreement. It is generally considered that an advance in pay will be allowed.

LATE LOCAL NEWS

The following marriage licenses were granted today: Samuel P. Smith of Sweet Lake, Arizna, aged 25, and Lulu J. Hatch, of Woodruff, Arizona, aged 23; Joseph V. Herkley of Idaho Falls, Idaho, and Amelia S. Newman of Prosser, Idaho, aged 24 and 21 respectively.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the Twentieth ward meeting house was filled with a sympathetic gathering which came to pay its last respects to the little child of Chief Hilton and wife, whose terrible death from fire took place on Monday. The services were presided over by Bishop Romney, and at the time the "News" reporter left Elder J. E. Talmage was delivering a most consoling address. Apostle Teasdale was present and was also expected to speak. The music was furnished by a quartet consisting of Messrs. Pyper, Whitney, Patrick and Ewing and the Twentieth ward choir. The floral offerings were most beautiful, the casket and pulpit being almost concealed by the flowers and plants.

On Thursday night the first of the series of lectures to be given under the auspices of the Utah Art Institute took place at the City and County building in the legislative hall. President H. L. A. Culmer, of the institute, delivered a lecture entitled "The Domain of Art." The subject will be illustrated with stereoscopic views, and promises to be a notable and interesting entertainment. There is no charge for admission and the public is cordially invited. The elevator will run for the convenience of the audience till after the close of the lecture.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Devil's Auction" company, 50 strong, holds the boards at the Theater tonight and the manager announces that every stitch of the scenery will be new for the present production. The Sionia troupe of eight English singers, dancers and musical specialists, have been recently imported by Manager Charles H. Yale, and added to the performance. The uncertainty of the theatrical business was never better illustrated than last night when West's big minstrel company played to a surprisingly light audience. It was expected that the hit the company made on its opening night would fill the house last night, and Mr. Pyper and Mr. West are both scratching their heads to know what the trouble was. No one, however, seems to be able to assign any good reason, and the show, excellent as it was, had to be content with very indifferent box office results.

At the Grand much the same condition prevailed. The Mikado, which beautifully staged and very well acted on the part of Mr. Felch, the Koko, and the three little maids, Miss Mortimer, Miss Emmett and Miss Ward, went to a poor house. Felch as usual carried off the principal honors. Miss Callard's Katisha could not be called a singing success. Tonight one of the company's strong features, "Said Pasha," will be the bill.

The sale for Paderewski will be opened at the Theater next Monday morning, two weeks in advance of the concert.

"Because She Loved Him So" by one of Frohman's crack New York companies appears tomorrow night. The list of players is headed by Mr. Dodson, the English comedian, and Miss Annie Irish, while Mr. Francis Carlisle, who once headed a "Held by the Enemy" company, has a prominent role.

TABERNACLE LECTURE.

Preparations for the illustrated lecture announced for Friday evening next at the Tabernacle are in course of preparation on a grand scale. The subject which is heretofore stated is "The Sun, Moon, and Stars," will be illustrated by a magnificent series of moving views in color, and other pictures projected by means of a powerful electric stereopticon. Dr. J. E. Talmage, who is the lecturer for the occasion, has formed a collection of superb views, many of them made for this particular lecture. The affair is under Deseret museum auspices, and a nominal admission fee of ten cents will be charged.

BIG COMBINATIONS ARE BEING MADE

Vanderbilt Railroad Interests Making Powerful Alliances.

WILL CONTROL COAL TRADE

Morgan Faction Is In on the Deal—
Small Roads to be Made to Help the Big Ones and Make All Pay.

A new $20,000,000 trunk line system between Chicago, New York and Boston, with a net annual earning capacity of nearly $1,000,000, has been completed by the transfer of the stock of the Bennington and Rutland railway to Percival W. Clement, president of the Rutland railroad. Besides Mr. Clement, there were present at the meeting when the deal was agreed to, H. G. Smith, treasurer of the Rutland road, and Gen. J. G. McCullough and F. B. Jennings, representing the Trenor L. Park estate, which held a majority of the stock transferred.

The deal means that President Clement, working in harmony with the Vanderbilt interests, has completed a freight line between New York and Chicago, having a greater water and a shorter rail haul than any of its competitors.

"It will be in fact the differential line of the New York Central road between New York and the West. The freight charges are less than 100,000 annually. It is estimated that the capacity will be about five thousand tons per day.

Freight leaving Chicago for New York or Boston will be taken by Rutland transit boats (formerly Ogdenburg transportation) to Ogdenburg, thence by rail to Rouses Point over the Rutland-Canadian railroad (now being completed); thence to Rutland, Vt., over the Champlain division of the Rutland railroad, and thence to Troy over the Bennington and Rutland railway. From there to New York it will be sent over the New York Central.

The Boston freight will take the same route to Rutland, where it will be sent over the mountain division of the Rutland road to Bellows Falls and thence to its destination by the Boston and Maine or the Pittsburg line.

Mr. Clement and the Vanderbilts conceived the plan of the system when, in October, 1898, Mr. Clement, in connection with Dr. W. Seward Webb and others bought from the Delaware and Hudson railroad the Rutland road, running between Bellows Falls and Rutland, Vt. On December 31 of the same year Mr. Clement bought the Ogdenburg and Lake Champlain line, running between Ogdenburg and Rouses Point, giving his personal check for $1,000,000 to close the deal. He then immediately began the construction of the Rutland-Canadian railroad between Burlington and Rouses Point. This line is now nearing completion. The Rutland bought the property of the Ogdenburg Transportation company. The purchase of the Bennington and Rutland completed the route.

To Control Coal Trade.

According to statements made by Wall street interests in close touch with the Vanderbilt and Morgan factions, one of the first and most important results of the Vanderbilt-Morgan-Cassatt alliance for the joint control of eastern railroad systems, will be the cementing of a new coal combination which will include both the anthracite and bituminous companies and bind them together in a powerful trust that will have absolute control of the American coal trade. The first step toward the completion of this project was, it is said, the acquisition by the Pennsylvania railroad of sufficient Norfolk and Western stock to make it a factor in the management of that property.

Control of the Reading railroad has been acquired by the Vanderbilts, says the New York Times. Not only is the vast mileage, with the extraordinary coal land holdings of the Reading company, taken over by the Vanderbilts, but two other important railroads are incidentally absorbed. The Lehigh Valley and the Erie systems are to be merged into the Reading and the Reading, with those acquisitions, becomes the property of the Vanderbilts.

This assures the settlement of Anthracite coal trouble—the unification of anthracite coal mining and transportation interests. On this account alone the deal has tremendous consequences. In it, however, are other and even greater elements. By this transaction practically every disturbing factor is removed from the anthracite situation. Not only are competitive corporations brought into harmony but financial interests recently antagonistic, dangerously close to open warfare, are harmonized.

William K. Vanderbilt himself has directed this absorption deal. In some very high financial circles the theory prevails that his purpose has been to acquire the Reading, Lehigh Valley, and Erie in combination for the purpose of directly annexing them to the New York Central.

Mr. Vanderbilt does not have immediately to turn over to the New York Central all of the properties acquired by the interests he represents; but what can be relied upon is that in the new big comprehensive system of eastern railroads which Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Cassatt and Mr. Morgan are planning is the certainty that the lesser roads, the non-dividend paying properties, are to be brought directly into contact with and helped by relations with the New York Central and the Pennsylvania.

And thus, it can be counted upon to be sure that, in acquiring the Reading and Erie, and through options the Lehigh Valley, have both been virtually under the direction of J. P. Morgan.

What in Wall street is counted of importance is that Wm. K. Vanderbilt and J. P. Morgan are expected to meet in London today or tomorrow for a personal business conference. Mr. Morgan did not sail for Europe until very detail of this Reading deal was completed.

pleted. Mr. Vanderbilt had given him carte blanche.

RAILROAD NOTES.

J. T. Andrus, formerly chief clerk in the accounting department of the Oregon Short Line, has accepted a position with the Boston & Montana Consolidated Copper & Silver Mining company.

Auditor Hills of the Short Line will start for the East tomorrow.

A petition has been presented to the City Council for the removal of the Utah Central track to a route south of the city limits.

Mr. Welby of the Western is out on an inspection trip.

C. D. Moore, former chief engineer of the "Hill" road in Idaho, has accepted a place with the Burlington.

General Superintendent J. J. Dickey of the Western Union Telegraph company, is here from Omaha and stopping at the Knottford. His visit here is occasioned by the formalities attendant upon the transfer of the Deseret Telegraph system to his company.

Clarence H. Howard has been appointed vice president of the Shickie, Harrison & Howard iron company.

Chief Engineer Jos. A. West of the Utah & Pacific, is on his way to Uvada.

Conference rates from the southern part of the State are in vogue today.

For the month of February the gross earnings of the Oregon Short Line were $558,375.29, an increase of $66,651.15. For the eight months ending February 28th, $3,623,587.73, an increase of $447,738.35. This is a remarkable showing, as February, 1899, was thought to be a hummer.

Irwine Tiers, traveling passenger agent for the New York Central, is in town.

Geo. H. Crosby, general freight agent for the Burlington, left here last night for Omaha. He will go by way of Montana.

Dr. F. J. Bancroft, formerly surgeon for the Denver and Rio Grande railway, is in town and stopping at the Culion hotel. The doctor is accompanied by his daughter, May.

A. C. Rulofson of Baker & Hamilton, hardware dealers, said before the Interstate commerce commission at San Francisco yesterday that the firm to which he belonged was a party to no agreement restricting it to a certain territory. In the last five years freight rates between here and the East have decreased the selling territory of his firm. Westbound rates are lower than eastbound rates. There is no pooling of business or profits in the hardware business or any other business that Rulofson knows of among the jobbers in this territory. Prices on the Pacific coast are made by adding carload prices to freight rates. Allowance is made for a fair profit in the jobber's endeavor to maintain prices when fixed by the manufacturers. There was nothing in the methods prior to June, 1888, when the Milwaukee tariff was adopted, different from existing methods. The only effect of the tariff has been that instead of adding 60 cents to the Pittsburg price the local jobbers now add 75 cents.

The case of Albert Shaw, W. A. Sidney and Fraix & Atwood against the Albion Mining company was then taken up for hearing. The case involves a two-thirds interest in the Utah Volunteer and Utah mining claims, forming a part of the ground now held by Albion Mining company in Little Cottonwood mining district. The plaintiffs claim that Joseph J. Burnswood located the two claims under the understanding that a part of the same would be given by the plaintiffs, he would hold the claims in trust for them. It appears that afterwards Burnswood transferred the whole interest in the claims to the owners of the Albion mining claim, lying between the Utah Volunteer and Utah claims, and the three were incorporated into the Albion mine. The case will occupy the entire day.

DOCTORS ARE NOT AGREED.

Witcher Says Rand Was Discharged
Entirely Too Soon.

HAD CASE OF SMALLPOX.

Said to be Still "Shedding Scales" and a Danger to the Community—Health Board Notified.

The city board of health received a communication today from Dr. J. S. Witcher that clearly demonstrates the difficulty of lay-folk arriving at a satisfactory conclusion when "doctors disagree."

Doctor Witcher was doubtless anxious that his letter should receive prompt attention, as it bore the admission, "this is official."

The communication was the result of a difference of opinion between Dr. Witcher and Dr. Mayo, the latter the quarantine physician of the city, now in special charge of the isolation hospital for smallpox patients. Dr. Witcher, it appears, this morning ran across John Rand, the colored man released from the hospital yesterday on the order of Dr. Mayo. The meeting occurred in a down town drug store and Dr. Witcher having charge of the case before the man was ordered sent to the hospital, naturally fell into a conversation with him. On examining him he came to the conclusion that he had been discharged too soon and immediately returned to his office and wrote a letter to the health board notifying them of his apprehension.

Dr. King and Dr. Mayo, promised an investigation. The latter, when interviewed by a "News" man this afternoon, said:

"Doctor King and I both agree that the man is all right and fully recovered from the disease. I am sure there is no further danger. Dr. Witcher, of course, has a right to his opinion, but he has to make. People sometimes suffer but the man has all 'scabbled off' and I repeat, I think there is no danger."

"Tomorrow we will discharge Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and four children. They have been at the hospital two weeks and some of the neighbors where they live on No. 722 west First South street are objecting to their return home, but we can't help that either. They must be taken some where and of course have a right to go to their own home."

Dr. Mayo was asked if nothing would be done regarding the colored man Rand. He replied he did not see what could be done, and when asked what he would do if others contracted the disease from him, his answer was:

"Why, we will have to take them to the hospital, as I certainly cannot take him there again."

Dr. Witcher seemed anxious to avoid a controversy with the city health board, and said:

"I notified the board, because I think—nay, I know that Rand is a danger to the community, and I would not touch him for anything. Having apprised the board, the responsibility for a spread of the disease will now rest with it."

A NOTE CASE.

It Occupies the Attention of Judge
Cherry and Jury.

In Judge Cherry's court the case of Utah Commercial and Savings Bank against Little, Roundy & Company and A. Roundy, Juliette L. Roundy, L. Roundy, Luna C. Gardiner, Claire Clawson, H. B. Clawson, Jr., F. C. Little and Nettie L. Rensimar as indorsers of a promissory note for the sum of $2,750, was up before a jury. The action was taken by the bank to collect from the indorsers of the note after Little, Roundy & Company had made an assignment. The defense is that there was a second note made, which it is claimed carried the original. The case will occupy the entire day.

Probate Matters.

The hearing on petition in the matter of the guardianship of Gary L. Ball, a minor, came up for hearing and Jennie L. Ball was appointed guardian, the bond being fixed at $500.

In the matter of the guardianship of Albert H. Moulton, an order was made discharging the guardian and the final settlement of the estate.

The hearing on petition for admitting the will of the late Sarah Jane Woodmansee to probate came up for hearing and was set upon the regular calendar.

An order was made dismissing the petition for letters of administration in the estate of Joseph Branburg.

The hearing on the final account in the estate of John Field was had and an order made for final settlement.

Equity Court Matters.

The case of S. M. Covey against C. F. Linberg was up for hearing before Judge Miles. The case was brought to retain the right of redemption on a piece of property in Albert Place, Salt Lake City. It seems that Dr. Roy's mortgaged the property to the defendant. The doctor abandoned his wife, leaving for South Dakota, where he applied for divorce, which has not yet been granted, the deeds having been given to one Thompson to hold in trust until such time as the divorce was granted, when he was to turn the deeds over to Mrs. Roy. In the meantime the property was sold under foreclosure and Mrs. Roy wished to return the money which was received by defendant under protest. The case was submitted on briefs.

The case of Albert Shaw, W. A. Sidney and Fraix & Atwood against the Albion Mining company was then taken up for hearing. The case involves a two-thirds interest in the Utah Volunteer and Utah mining claims, forming a part of the ground now held by Albion Mining company in Little Cottonwood mining district. The plaintiffs claim that Joseph J. Burnswood located the two claims under the understanding that a part of the same would be given by the plaintiffs, he would hold the claims in trust for them. It appears that afterwards Burnswood transferred the whole interest in the claims to the owners of the Albion mining claim, lying between the Utah Volunteer and Utah claims, and the three were incorporated into the Albion mine. The case will occupy the entire day.

REAL ESTATE.

A deed was filed in the office of the county recorder today which for the sum of $2,500 transfers a piece of land on block two, plat B, Salt Lake City, from Edwin D. Klotz, Claitor to Cora J. Francis.

JUDGE TIMMONY'S COURT.

James Hagel, John Lallin and James McTernan each pleaded guilty to the charge of selling liquor on election day. The last named was fined $35 for his folly and the former were assessed $35 each.

The court wishes to say to you people, said Judge Timmony, "that you ought to be willing to close up on election day. There are 365 days in a year and you ought to be willing to keep your places closed on election days." Lallin remarked that he did not know where to go to keep the places closed on this particular day. "Then the officer who says he notified you to close your places lied. At any rate you know there is a law against it," replied the court.

Chris Smelter said he was not drunk yesterday. Officers Williams and Johnston told a different story, however, and Chris was fined $2.

George Bright was also accused of drunkenness. "Well," began Bright, "I came down town and drank too much for my own and other people's good, but when I get out of this I will never touch another drop."

"With that understanding and the promise that you will remain away from here, I will let you go. The promise was given and Bright departed.

Joseph Carson was accused of vagrancy. Officers Simpson and Davies testified that they had frequently seen the defendant wandering around on the outskirts of town.

Carson assured the court that he was a hard working man and that he worked at least four days each week. "You look like an able-bodied man," remarked the court.

"Yes, I'm healthy except I'm a dyspeptic," replied Carson.

The judge concluded that the evidence against him was insufficient and he was discharged.

Barry Thig, John Jones, John Erickson and Angus Pollis each paid $3 for becoming intoxicated yesterday.

The case against Chas. Harten, accused of peddling without a license, was continued until tomorrow to give the prosecution time to collect evidence against the defendant. Harten pleaded guilty to selling some formula without a license, for cleaning clothing and other things, but asked the judge to "pass over" this time.

"Didn't know I was doing wrong," said he. "If you will give me permission, judge, I will bring a bottle of my stuff here—your honor, you have a silk tie on and I can take every spot off'n it with my celebrated"—but the court cut him short in his aerial architecture with the remark that the case would go over until tomorrow.
