

DOINGS ON THE FOOTBALL FIELD.

Two Interesting Contests on for This Afternoon at Walker's And Campus.

THE BIG BATTLE IS COMING.

University Boys Will Work Hard to Get Ready for the Contest With The Denver University.

There are two football contests on for this afternoon that ought to prove interesting to lovers of the sport. One will take place at Walker's field between the team from All Hallows College and the Fort Douglas Soldiers, and the other will be fought out at the university campus between the "Varsity Preps" and the Ogden High School. The teams are pretty evenly matched, and it is the general opinion among footballists that the result of both battles will be close.

But a great deal of interest is being worked up in the game, billed for a week from today between the University of Utah and the University of Denver. Both teams are working hard to get in perfect shape for the big contest and that something will be done all the time during the game goes without saying. Coach Holmes of the local team is putting the boys through some lively practice work every day and although he realizes that the Denver eleven is a hard opponent to beat, he has confidence that his team will be in the reckoning at the finish. That the Denver 11 is capable of putting up a hard fight is evident from the following account of a contest last Saturday between that team and the East Denver High School eleven. One of the Denver papers says:

The game on Saturday with the East Denver High School showed several things that the Denver university players. In the first place the much vaunted High School that was not only going to score but probably win, was thoroughly routed and sent back home to the tune of 23 points to nothing. The two chief faults of the university men were that they did not get started till the second half and that they furnished too often. During the first half D. U. carried the ball down the field time and again only to lose it on a fumble. It was during the last few minutes of play that the college finally scored. In the intermission the coaches gave the men a severe talk which appeared to wake them up and in the second half they went at their opponents ferociously and sent them off the field for two touchdowns. Then Stuart, the famous full-back, dropped a goal from the 35 yard line. He is unusually accurate in field goals but has fallen off a good deal late in putting. During the second half Capt. Veatch, who has been playing all fall at quarter was put in at halfback and really made a remarkable showing. If he continues to improve he will be the best back on the team before the season is over. His only drawback is the fact that he is so very light.

From now on the team will give all its time to working up a fast offense for the first intercollegiate game with Colorado College at Colorado Springs next Saturday.

"PREPS" VS HIGH SCHOOL.

"The teams are pretty evenly matched and we expect a hard struggle with the Ogden boys. The local team has been organized for about three years; they play together and are pretty fast. I would not be surprised if the game ended nothing to nothing. Our team will not let the other side get a chance. A great many tickets have been sold and the attendance will no doubt be large."

The above is Coach Holmes' estimate of this coming game between the University "Preps" and the Ogden High School. The game was called at the "Varsity campus" at 3 p. m., the local team lining up as follows: Hatcher, R. E.; Dawson, R. T.; Judd, R. S.; Thompson, L. G.; Stroebel, L. T.; Davis, L. E.; James, G. H.; Lawrence, E. B.; Burmeister, L. H.; Forbes, R. M.; Reed, E. G. (goalkeeper); and Sam Porter, referee. Dr. Plummer, timekeeper; Sam Porter, line-man.

ALL HALLOWS VS SOLDIERS.

The All Hallows College and Fort Douglas football teams are engaged in a struggle for supremacy on Walker's field this afternoon and a close game is looked for. The game was called at 3 o'clock. Bert Margates was chosen as referee and Nick Magness as umpire. The Fort Douglas band is furnishing the music for the occasion. The teams are evenly matched and both feel confident of victory. The line-up follows:

NOTHING GIVEN OUT.

National Association in Secret Session at St. Louis—Held Late Session.
St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 23.—The greatest secrecy is maintained at the meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. At 1:15 this morning the meeting was still in session. At 3 o'clock Secretary Farrell was seen and said that there was nothing that could be given out as nothing had been accomplished so far. He said the convention was engrossed in the consideration of the drafting system and matters pertaining to that. Each class in the association was fighting for the best drafting price it could get and the drafting of the matter was a tedious process. He said the association would finish this point before adjourning, but he did not know how long it would take to accomplish the matter.

Rumors were life about the corridors of troubles between the American association and eastern league. The rumors were to the effect that the two organizations would join and form a rival to the major league. While this is not considered a probable outcome, the American association is admitted to be causing worry by its tactics. Secretary Farrell would not deny that he had heard the rumors, but said that the matter would not be brought officially to the notice of the league and consequently he had no official knowledge of the matter. Both the American association and eastern league representatives left the meeting Thursday as individuals and they did not return today, but held meetings about the hotel. The matter will come up for settlement tomorrow and some interesting developments are expected.

Intercollegiate Golf.

Garden City, L. I., Oct. 23.—At the conclusion of today's play in the intercollegiate annual tournament on the Garden City links, two of the 23 collegial clubs who started in the contest for the individual championship were left in the race. The survivors of the contest were the Reinhardt of Princeton, and W. C. Chick of Harvard, and they will meet tomorrow in the final round which will determine who shall have the honor which was won last year by H. Chandler Egan.

The latter was prominent all through the present tournament, but was defeated by another Harvard player, W. C. Chick, in the final round this afternoon.

Man Suspended from Russian Turf for Alleged "Doping" Returns.

Keene was accused of using a mysterious decoction to make his horses win, and because of jealousy among owners he was told to lay off. He carried his case to the highest authorities and was told he would sail for Russia in November. He will spend a few months in Kentucky and will sail for Russia in February. His record of 115 winning races is the best ever known of in Europe.

GEO. P. CAMPBELL DEFENDS "AGGIES."

Claims that University Football Team Was Shown Proper Attention.

HE BLAMES COACH HOLMES.

And Says That Logan Players Were Taunted Publicly with Inefficiency—Feeling Was Not Bitter.

The following communication has received by the "News" from George P. Campbell, director of athletics of the Agricultural College at Logan:

In view of all the information which has been furnished the readers of the Salt Lake papers since the football contest last Saturday, it seems high time for the Agricultural college to give an official account of her conduct on that occasion. On one point at least there is no contention. The game was won fairly and decisively, by as wholesome an exhibition of clean, consistent football as Utah has ever witnessed. Even the objections to the playing of Capt. Jardine have been silenced, since a substitute replaced him after the first touchdown and the score continued to grow. The mass of adverse criticism which has accumulated since the game seems to center around two points: First, that the management of the Agricultural College team failed to show the visitors proper attention and courtesies; second, that the A. C. students, in the joy of victory, carried their jubilation beyond the bounds of propriety. Various reports and interviews have taken especial delight in applying the word "unsportsmanlike" to the representatives of the Agricultural College, leaving the public to read into it as exaggerated a meaning as they will. It is the intention of this article to give an accurate account of all the proceedings beyond the preliminary arrangements to the conclusion of the day's excitement, so far as they have a bearing on the case.

For a number of years the University of Utah and the Agricultural College have been recognized rivals in the game of football, and the annual contest between these two teams has been the leading event in the amateur athletics of the state. It is true that for several years the university has succeeded in winning these contests, though never by such a score as to remove the element of uncertainty from the preliminary arrangements to the conclusion of the day's excitement, so far as they have a bearing on the case.

The Agricultural College management, though they recognized the absurdity of playing an important contest so early in the season, were forced to accept the date rather than lose the opportunity of meeting their rivals. Then arose the controversy over Capt. Jardine, who is a bona fide student of the Agricultural College, a regular senior carrying 15 hours a week of college work. In addition to his studies, Mr. Jardine performs the duties of student assistant in agronomy, his compensation arising largely from work done during the summer in connection with the experiment station.

In insisting on playing Captain Jardine, the Agricultural college attempted no concealment or evasion, claiming only the right of playing a student in good standing who is doing a student's quota of work. There was no professional back of the claim and no excuse for the insinuations contained in the first contract, which Mr. Holmes sent to Logan, but which was never signed.

No teacher shall be allowed to compete.

No assistant or employee of either school receiving above 25 cents an hour or more than $150 a year shall play.

If evidence can be produced proving a person a professional, this person shall not play.

All players in contests must be doing work amounting to 19 hours credit per week.

If evidence can be produced that a player of collegiate sport for one rival to be compelled to clean up another's character before meeting him in a friendly contest.

The contract as formulated by the A. C. management, and finally signed by both parties, reads thus:

1. Only students who are undergraduates and who are regularly registered and carrying at least 10 hours a week recitation work shall be permitted to participate in either contest.

2. Any person who has received or is receiving compensation for work in athletics, or for rendering personal services of any kind to any athletic organization, shall not be eligible to membership on either team.

This Jardine controversy soon found its way into the newspapers, and a week before the game Mr. Holmes felt called upon to publish a signed statement. In this he refers to the "first agreement" made in September between the two schools. As already noted, this "first agreement" was drafted by Mr. Holmes himself and signed by him alone. The whole statement could hardly be called complimentary to a traditionally recognized rival, as is evidenced by the following quotation: "In regard to a game between the two schools, it is of mutual benefit, as it is the only university game the Agricultural college has and is one of our best practices." The statement was followed by certain purported "interviews" in the Salt Lake papers, no less inflammatory to the minds of the A. C. contingent. The students remembered countless slights and jibes from previous visits to Salt Lake, and the insinuations which look so strange above a professor's signature only served to strengthen the already intense interest in the approaching conflict. Logan farmers have feelings as well as does the "only university" they are privileged to meet, and when a man high in authority takes occasion to taunt them publicly with inefficiency, it is little wonder if they resent such treatment.

The University team came here on the same terms as those given the Agricultural college last year in Salt Lake. They received $200 and paid their own expenses. Manager Swendsen and a committee met the team at the station and offered them all the assistance possible. There were conveyances in plenty at the train, but Mr. Holmes, apparently desiring to save as much as possible of the $200, headed his team in a one-mile tramp to the hotel. Members of last year's A. C. team have no recollection of even a committee at the Salt Lake station.

No one has spoken of the conduct of the Agricultural college during the game with anything but terms of praise. The quote from one paper: "Every one connected with the Agricultural college displayed as much college patriotism as was ever demonstrated on any college campus by an equal number of enthusiasts." It was a big-hearted, good-humored, leather-lunged crowd that thronged the stand and overpowered to the side-lines, and the cheers and songs throughout were absolutely unobjectionable. Feeling was high but not bitter, and the joy of victory only brought out more clearly the absurdity of the University's previous boasts. It is no wonder that the crowd rejoiced and went wild and swept up the street carrying everything before them. The town was thronged with people, and the other in contributing material for the bonfire.

Then came the grievous offense of the day, according to our critics. A band of the oldest students, the "four-man" of the Agricultural college, carrying a coffin. Something was dead, they were sure. It would be wrong if they thought it university concern? Whatever it was, it seemed to be a coffin. The "four-man" of the Agricultural college, carrying a coffin. Something was dead, they were sure. It would be wrong if they thought it university concern? Whatever it was, it seemed to be a coffin.

The "four-man" of the Agricultural college, carrying a coffin. Something was dead, they were sure. It would be wrong if they thought it university concern? Whatever it was, it seemed to be a coffin. The "four-man" of the Agricultural college, carrying a coffin. Something was dead, they were sure. It would be wrong if they thought it university concern? Whatever it was, it seemed to be a coffin.

This is the story of the part played by the Agricultural college in the encounter. It needs no palliation or defense. In the excitement attendant on athletic contests, especially where there is so much at stake, it would not be surprising if some should forget themselves. But the aim of the students in this institution is to be gentlemen, first, last, and always.

NIGHT SESSION OVER.

Openly Stated that Very Little Has Been Accomplished—Meet Today.

St. Louis, Oct. 24.—Delegates attending the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues collected in little groups about the corridors of the Southern hotel at 3 o'clock this morning, the long night session having adjourned, and talked among themselves of the night's work. It was only stated that the very little actually been accomplished, the discussion of amendments to the constitution and the election of officers had occupied most of the session. President Powers and Secretary Farrell had retired immediately upon adjournment of the session and after talking together for some little time the members of the different groups went to their rooms, still in effect having maintained secrecy.

The meeting was scheduled to be resumed at 9:30 today.

BIG HUNTING CLUB.

G. W. Vanderbilt's Vast Estate in North Carolina for Use of Sportsmen.

New York, Oct. 24.—A large portion of George W. Vanderbilt's vast estate in the wilds of North Carolina, known as Biltmore, is about to be converted into an exclusive hunting and fishing club, which will include in its domain some of the most prominent clubmen of the land. A proposition has recently been submitted to a group of sportsmen, for the purpose of organizing a hunting and fishing club, which will include in its domain some of the most prominent clubmen of the land.

The waters of Biltmore are well supplied with fish. In the forest many quail and grouse, and wild turkeys, pheasants, deer and even black bear roam. A feature of the new club now being formed by Mr. Vanderbilt is the provision of camps and camps which will be provided for the use of members throughout the various sections of the forest.

"I expect to organize a sportsman's club of from 75 to 100 members," said Mr. Moore, and the club will include in its domain some of the most prominent clubmen in the country, devotees of the red and gun.

(Signed) M. VAN BUREN."

MRS. SARAH AUSTIN, Deweyville.

LOTTIE PLYER, Ogden, Utah.

Shores' treatment just a month, and today I feel perfectly well and cured."

IN DISEASES OF MEN.

Drs. Shores & Shores stand alone as the Specialists who believe in their treatment so much that they boldly say to men suffering with Private troubles—"PAY OUR FEE WHEN CURED."
