The District of Columbia bill came up and Bayard's motion to have the two commissioners in civil life to give $50,000 bonds was agreed to. Also Edmunds' amendment forbidding officers of the district to become surety on any bond. trict to become surety on any bond given in the district.

The third section provides that the commissioners may borrow, in anticipation of a collection of revenue, for the first fiscal year not over $200,000 and not over 5 per cent, interest is payable out of the Bayard moved to amend by reducing the rate of taxation on real estate from $2 to $1.50 on each $100 of real estate. Agreed to.

Bargent moved to amend the second part of Bayard's amendment so that the tax on personal property on each $100, cash valuation thereof, shall be $1.50 instead of $100, agreed to. Adjourned.

being frequently interrupted, de-claring Sherman's letter a vile ca-lumny. There was conspiracy in those parishes and he believed John Sherman was connected with it.

The House went into committee of the whole on the army appropriation bill, the pending amendment being to fix the strength at 25,000. Cox (N. Y.) offered an amend-ment reducing the army to 18,000— rejected; also Dibbrell's amend-ment making it 23,000. Throckmorton's amendment, fix-ing it at 25,000

EVENING SESSION. The House went into committee or the whole, Springer in the chair, on the army appropriation bill, resuming its consideration at the second section, which reduces the number of cavalry regiments to fifteen and requires the consolidation of regiments and companies for that purpose.

Hale made the point of order that the section was new legislation and was net in order on the appropriation bill. After a long discomion, the point of order was

Hewett moved to amend the section by making the number of cav-airy regiments eight and the num-ber of infantry regiments to 18, so as to make the section conform to the total force of 25,000 men, re-serving, however, the right, if the House should determine to reduce the force to 20,000, to restore the sections of the bill as originally re-Townsend (Ills.), attributed what he called extravigant legislation to the fact that so many chairs on the semocratic side of the chamber rere vacant. Hewett's amendment was agreed Hewett moved to amend the fourth section, which limits the cavalry companies to 100 privates, by making the limitation 125. Agreed to.

Foster (Oblo) moved to strike out the seventh section recognizing the AdjutantGeneral's department. Agreed to—94 to 79.

The eighth section was stricken out and the democrats tried to force an adjournment, but the republicans, flushed with triumph, refused to adjourn for some time, but finally yielded, and the House adjourned.

destructive tornado occurred here about 5 o'clock. A large stone brewery and several other buildings were demolished — about a dozen in all. John Sponsely's fine family residence was destroyed while a family reunion was in progress, and Mrs. Waller was instantly killed. The rest miracuously escaped. The restriction of Judge Cothesp was struck by the storm in and his aged mother killed. The tornado passed through the heart of the town and did great damage. It the wires from Mineral point have falled, and further damage is feared.

BY TELEGRAPH.

The reports of army officers on this case have been singularly full and clear, sometimes accompanied by maps showing the exact position as to reservations, camps, etc. They have all the while testified to the dangerous temper in which the ludied up the bill for the service of process in case of interpleader in the United States courts. Passed.

Davis (W. Va.) called up his resolution to allow the committee investigating the treasury books, to continue the investigation and sit during recess.

On motion of Allison the words "and sit" were stricken out and the resolution agreed to.

The dill passed authorizing the secondary was appointed to investigate the months in inquiring into abuses which, from present aspects, may at any moment, result in an Indian war in Colorado and New Mexico. The Utes are a powerful nation, there being over 2,000 in Colorado and some 2,000 in New Mexico. Washington, 23. — Robertson, rising to a personal explanation, said charges had been made against the citizens of East and West Felliciana, which, if true, would compel him to retire in shame from his seat. He had read Sherman's letter to the Poster committee.

The Speaker ruled that if was not a personal question, unless he could state that the letter reflected upon him.

Robertson went on to speak, being frequently interrupted, de-

Coming Round.

Count Andrassy and his colleagues have gradually come round to England's views about the terms OPPOSITE WALKER HOUSE on which the congress should meet as well as many other points. Germany is distrusted. Prince Bismarck, whose influence here was once omnipotent, now frequently tenders unheeded advice.
