AMERICAN FORK. MRS. ANN ROWLEY DEAD.

Respected and Honored Veteran of 77 Goes to WIII Deserved Reward.

American Fork, Utah County, Sept. -- Impressive funeral services were held Sept. 6, over the remains of Mrs. Ann Rowley in Science hall. Deceased was one of the oldest and most esteemed veterans of this city, having lived here since 1860, and her demise s felt by the entire community, as she has been intimately associated with the sading church auxiliary organizations for 40 years. Mister Rowley has acted as teacher and member of that noble organization, the Relief Society from the time of her arrival to her death; was an active member of the old hoir; a live energetic teacher in the Sunday school for 20 years; an officer of the Y, L. Association for many ears, and president of the Primary as ociation from first organization in the ward to the time of the organization of the Alpine stake, when she was re-leased on account of ill health. It can be truly said she was an educator, her personality was strong as evidenced by her influence with the youth and children. During her admin-istration in the Primary, she took all of the children into the grain fields after harvest and gleaned to obtain means to purchase books.

She has been an agent for many years for the Deseret News-and Juvenile Instructor, placing in the homes of the Saints the periodicals that diected the Saints in paths of virtue and truth. She was truly a work-ing bee in the hive of Deseret, whole-souled, generous to a fault, lovng, kind, earnest, faithful, true-a Saint in very deed.

Sister Ann Rowley was born at Huddersfield, Yorkshire, England, March 22, 1827, and married Geo. Rowley, when both were 17, in the year 1844. They heard the Gospel in their native land, and joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in 1847. Elder Rowley left England, Dec. 1854 to prepare the way for his family to come to Zion. He remained in Utah until 1857, when he was called on a mission England. In 1859 he returned with his family, consisting of wife and three sons. They crossed the plains in a hand cart company, Brother Rowley holding the position of Captain of the They came to American company Fork in 1860.

None will miss her more than her life companion of 60 years, who for the past 30 years has been blind and dependent upon her for guidance.

KANOSH.

Blight Ruins Tomato Crop - Bountiful liarvest of Hay and Grain.

Special Correspondence.

Kanosh, Millard Co., Sept. 9.-For several months Kanosh has been vexed with a display of yellow flags, as nec essary precautions against the spread of a mild form of smallpox. It was brought here by a young man returning from Idaho, quite unconscious of the nature of the eruption upon his person. Consequently he associated with his family and the public without thought of contagion, the result being that several persons contracted the disease here, and took the same to Kimberley Piute county, where it again spread, and necessitated the closing of one boarding house and the establishment a "pest house" there. The disease also spread in other directions, causing much trouble and expense to many persons. In our own town, through official watchfullness and isolation, the disease is about stamped out.

The farmers are generaly satisfied with the results of their harvests of hay and grain. Some few, notably Bishop Christensen and others who own lower lands, have good prospects for ucern seed, but the summer has been much too dry to mature that crop upon the uplands. The fruit crop has been a good average. Tomatoes are a fall-The blight is a mystery to us all The plants commence to die from the time they are a foot high; here and there they will turn yellow and die.

This continued all through the season up to the present, when some of the fruit is ripe. Mr. Orson Whitaker has about 10 plants alive from a patch of 400 plants. In the writer's garden from 250 plants four are alive. Where the plants are shaded by trees they look fresh and green, but of course bear very little fruit.

THE CARE OF FOWLS.

Let me cite a case that came under my presonal observation. A friend of mine, living near me in the suburbs of Chicago, had to spend some time in the country last fall. He left his flock of Rhode Island Reds in care of his brother, who gave them very poor care. They were fine, big, strong, healthy fowls, with a splendid record for laying. But they didn't lay an egg. In previous years they had always laid abundantly at this time of the year. I had a pen of Reds, and mine were laying. But G,'s did not. By and by the big brother returned. Within one the hens began to lay. Why? Simply because he gave them proper care. Possomeone would like to know what this intelligent care consisted of. It did not consist of any patent medicine or nostrum. It did not consist merely of chucking a lot of corn into the pen once in awhile when he happened to think of it. It did not consist of forgetting to give fresh water. It did not consisit of letting the fowls haif freeze to death. The above is what treatment did not consist of, What he did-and what any intelligent and careful man would do in a similar case-was to clean out the place the first thing. He dusted the hens and kerosened the roosts. He aired out the place and saw to it that the birds had fresh air. He thawed out the drinking troughs and gave them fresh, drinkable water twice

ARTISTS WITHOUT HANDS.

Among men who pursue their art under difficulties a very high place, in-deed should be awarded to Bartram Hiles, who produces the most remarkable paintings with his mouth. As a boy of eight he was run over by a Bristol streetcar, and lost both his arms, but such was the boy's pluck and love of art that he set to work to model to draw and to reall with to model, to draw, and to paint with his mouth. Within two years he had von a first-class certifiate for freehand drawing.

Charles Felu, the Flemish artist, was born without arms, and yet, holding his brushes between his teeth, he was able to paint pictures of surpassing merit and James Carter, whose arms had been rendered useless by paralysis produced canvases which won the en-thusiastic admiration of Landreer himseif .- London Answers.

THE DOG IN PARLIAMENT.

Only one dog has ever had the auda city to enter the English parliament during the proceedings. A hundred years ago the lords were thrown into consternation by a dog's entry. Lord North was addressing the house and the dog promptly proceeded to bark furiously at him. Lord North, considerably upset, moved that the member who was interrupting him should be suspended. Thereupon the dog was driven out and suspended in such a manner that he never interrupted again .-- London Answers.
