

EDITORIAL NOTES.

An aply is to be established by Americans on the Island of Cyprus in the Mediterranean, to raise queen bees for American bee-keepers.

Curiously as many people think the world is made, it is nevertheless true that in the long run simple honesty has a better chance than craft and cunning.

The favorite song of Gen. Grant and those who expect a government but if it is elected, it is said to be, "It may be four years and it may be for ever."

Since the walking mania has been so prevalent it has been stated that the reason why Samson carried away the gates of Gaza was because the Philistines refused to give him the "gate money."

And now it is Miss Bessie Turner who proves how unsafe it is to trust to unauthorized newspaper reports; the young lady says emphatically she is not married. We presume she is still open to a good offer.

Hayden, the Methodist preacher, who escaped conviction for murder by the disagreement of the jury, has gone into the lecture field, which seems to be open in this country to all notorious people regardless of the color or previous reputation.

Although there may not be much true religious feeling in England, questions of theology seem to attract considerable attention. There were no less than 775 new theological works published in that country last year while the new novels, numbered but 67. Thus fiction was beaten by theology in 1879.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE AND THE DARIEN CANAL.

The project supported by M. Lesseps, of Suez Canal fame, for building a canal under French auspices across the Isthmus of Darien, has met with considerable opposition in this country, through the jealousy that is felt at seeing an important undertaking controlled by foreign capital, and effected by foreign enterprise. An attempt is being made to arouse American influence against the scheme by the cry that it is hostile to the Monroe doctrine. A series of joint resolutions with an appropriate preamble, affirming this, were presented to Congress on Thursday by Mr. Warner, and referred to the inter-oceanic canal committee. As some of our readers may not be fully acquainted with the principles of the Monroe doctrine, we sit down to explain a little for their benefit.

This doctrine forms no part of the national constitution; it is not a feature of any international code and it is not embodied in any congressional law. But, on the 2nd of December, 1823, President James Monroe, in his message to Congress, enunciated the doctrine, which has been ever since accepted as sound by the people of the United States, that the American continents are not to be considered as subjects for colonization by any European power.

In the discussions to which this interest has given rise and in the arrangements in which they may terminate, the occasion has been judged proper for asserting as a principle in which the rights and interests of the United States are involved, that the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintained, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for colonization by any European power.

A bill had been recently passed in Congress by which the South American republics—formerly dependencies of European monarchies—were recognized as free and sovereign nations, and in relation to them and the Powers which had previously held them in subjection, President Monroe remarked:

"In the wars of the European powers, in matters relating to themselves, we have never taken any part, nor does it comport with our policy so to do. It is only when our rights are invaded or seriously menaced, that we resent injuries, or make preparations for our defense. With the movements in this hemisphere we are of necessity more immediately connected, and by causes which must be obvious to all eyes, we have been drawn into the political system of the allied powers, which is essentially different in this respect from that of Europe. A difference of principle from that which exists in their respective governments. And to the defense of our own, which has been achieved by the loss of so much blood and treasure, and matured by the wisdom of our most enlightened citizens, and under which we have enjoyed an unexampled felicity, the whole nation is devoted. We owe it, therefore, to candor and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and these powers, to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. With existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have no intermeddling and shall not interfere. But with the governments who have declared their independence, and maintained it, we have no intermeddling and we have no objection to their free and independent action. We could not view any intermeddling for the purpose of oppressing them, or controlling in any other manner their destinies, by any European power, in any other light than as a manifestation of very unfriendly disposition toward the United States. In the war between these new governments and Spain we declared our neutrality at the time of their recognition, and to this we have adhered, and we shall continue to adhere, provided no change shall occur which, in the judgment of this government, shall make a corresponding change on the part of the United States indispensable to their security."

It will be perceived that this declaration of a principle does not aim at preventing the establishment of colonies from Europe, nor at interfering like every commander of an army to account for the results. If ever in my life, at any time, I have done injustice to any person whatever, which I deny, I will cheerfully submit to the nation and to mankind by his judgment. I have made this proposition again and again, and will renew it publicly at my next annual meeting. These meetings are composed of the very men who knew and felt the causes referred to and composed the right tribunal for the settlement of the matter. I have no objection to the right of H. V. Boynton, or any citizen, to refer these or any charges, and that I am always amenable to a court of honor, and I am glad to be called on to make a public statement of his complaints to a tangible form. He has no right, however, to impose upon the United States the heavy cost of a military trial, of witnesses from a distance and necessary attorneys fees. I regard his premature publication of these matters of such a nature as to the line of his profession, and that he meant purposely to avoid the vital question which is right and proper, viz., in one of the civil tribunals, which exist in the District of Columbia for this very purpose.

I beg, therefore, that you will understand that I am not desirous to answer before any court; that when a month ago this Boynton publicly threatened me with a suit, employed as my attorney, the Hon. Matt. Carpenter, is ready to answer in my name at any and all times.

I have the honor to be, Sir, your obedient servant,
W. T. SHERMAN,
 General.
 A Day's Bloodshed.
 CHICAGO, Kansas, 26.—For a long time past leading men in the Indian Territory have made strenuous efforts to prevent reports of murders being circulated through the papers of the country. Consequently not half the crimes committed there gain publicity. Reliable persons just from the Territory report two men murdered a few days ago near Carris Ferry, over an affair growing out of the father and son quarrel, accusing the mother of the other man of stealing horses; also that a short time ago two men were murdered near Oklahoma and Fort Gibson. One white man and a colored man. One white man and a colored man. One white man and a colored man.

THE NEW YORK CONVENTION.

A Doubtful Victory for Grant.

CHICAGO, 26.—The Times considers the Chicago Convention as the least creditable and least flattering act of his life. His sole argument was the strong man plan, which is ridiculous on its face, as no patriot who runs in the Presidential race has any duty before he takes his place in the chair at the White House. It is not to be expected that Mr. Conkling, even though he sees that the strength of Mr. Blaine is so great that it has almost wrested from him the control of his own destiny, would recognize a convention of men whom he claims as all his own. It is not for him to confess that the peculiarly aggressive strength of Blaine is so great that it promises to dispense with all occasion of a violent inauguration. That political blunder, which the nurses of the republican party infant are trying to frighten it into swallowing a very bitter dose. The Tribune's editorial on the Chicago Convention says the motion to instruct the delegation for Grant, and the narrow escape from defeat which Cameron had in the Pennsylvania Convention, and the Chicago Convention meets, and the Congressional district delegations, though strongly opposed to his nomination will obey the instructions of the State Convention and vote as a unit.

Cincinnati, 26.—The Enquirer says the result in New York shows that Grant's strength was all his friends have claimed, and the approval of the candidacy of Grant was too unanimous to go unheeded. The Commercial says: The Grant element is behaving in a tyrannical manner toward the republican party, a party composed of elements which will not endure such a course, and the result will be that the party will throw off a sufficient portion of the restraint placed upon it to defeat the object in view by the leaders of the Grant movement.

The Gazette. The resolutions of the Chicago Convention that the vote of the New York delegation shall be cast for Gen. Grant, represent, as in the case of Pennsylvania, the rule of one man rather than the voice of the republican voters. This rule was exercised in the New York State Convention at the risk of losing the election of the nominee for the accident of the John Kelly rebellion against the democratic party. But such a rebellion cannot be depended upon to save the ticket again.

St. Louis, 26.—The Republican regards the endorsement of Grant by Pennsylvania and New York as nearly assuring his success as a candidate for the Presidency. The prospect that no other republican has so vulnerable a reputation. The Tribune says: It is a substantial and confident of the result at Chicago and the polls.

Boston, 26.—The Advertiser, which has heretofore leaned toward Grant, says: The result of the election will be a command to command unqualified approval. The safety of the nation is not imperiled as asserted. It is not true that the vote of New York is to decide the fate of the President. In more respects than one the praise lavished on Grant is gratuitous. All the week knows his record, and those who wish to know more of it will not go to Utah to learn it.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean considers the question of the success of Grant at Chicago fully assured, and regards the republicans as fortunate at having reached so wise a decision. Sherman's Bold Reply to Boynton.
 WASHINGTON, 26.—This charges presented by Gen. Boynton against Gen. Sherman were endorsed from the War Department to the President, who directed them referred to Gen. Sherman for his answer. He may deem necessary. Gen. Sherman endorses the document, saying he now sees it for the first time. He deems it an insult to his office, to his record and to a name which has stood 60 years without a single impeachment on his honor or integrity. He declares the first two specifications have no basis in fact. "The vicious office of War Department," he says, "under the short letter written him under date of January 10th, 1889, every word of which is true, and which I am prepared to justify."

"As to the third specification, I have never heard that Gen. Grant or Thomas, or Logan, or Blair, or any great man whom he assumes to denigrate, have ever impeached Gen. Boynton as their attorney. To the living and to the friends of the dead I am ever responsible for every word spoken or written. I yield to no man in my love and devotion to my comrades, and have been for 15 years on all suitable occasions their defender. All men have these good qualities, and their names which, and in accounting for actual events of a terrible civil war, I was forced to make laws and to rule decent communities. There is already talk of reviving the old vigilante committees. Lamentable as such a desperate and revolutionary experiment would be, it is a pity which is certainly old enough and well organized enough to govern itself by legal methods. The substantial citizens approving the scheme if the excesses of the Sand Lot ruffian are carried much further, but we believe there is a simpler means of restoring order. Kearney and his followers have obtained their power only by the cowardice of the more respectable classes.

San Francisco, 26.—Last night was exceptionally quiet. The workingmen held no meetings except a few minor ward club gatherings, as is customary, and the papers this morning are almost bare of news in connection with the agitation, although abounding in editorial on the subject, the general tenor of which is expressive of confidence in the preservation of peace.
