MURRAY.

SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL.

Holidays Will Bring Happiness to Dr. And Mrs. Bird.

Murray, Dec. 21.—At this week's session of the city council the petition of the residents and taxpayers on Sixteenth South street to have lights installed from the railroad crossing on the west to the city limits on the east, was granted.

Lights and a stove were ordered put in the new fire station building, that the fire men might have a comfortable place in which to meet.

A resolution of condolence in respect to Marshal Maus in the death of his father was read and a copy ordered transmitted to Mr. Maus.

Complaint has been made to the effect that it is not safe to pass under the railroad crossing on Winchester street, owing to the fact of coal dropped there which falls between the ties. Some slight injuries have been reported. The matter was referred to the mayor to communicate with the company in regard to the affair.

An order was given that all street and road work is to stop until the first of the year, with the exception of poll tax.

HAPPY MRS. BIRD.

Generally speaking the holiday season brings its happy features to all. Probably to no home in Murray does this more fondly than to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Bird. Mrs. Bird is the busiest little woman in the city these days, making little dresses, little quilts and every little thing needed, to complete the rich wardrobe of the little dearie who, by adoption, will become the love of the good lady's life. She leaves Jan. 1 for Seattle, where the object of her solicitude has been cared for since its birth, Dec. 8, to bring home little Helen Kasey as the child has already been named. The reason the little daughter has not been brought home before is because Mrs. Bird has been at the Murray hospital ill with pneumonia.

The doctor's wife was traveling through the western states and along the coast during the summer when she learned of the circumstances of the family of whom she adopted the child. The father, Mr. Allen Owen, was a contractor and builder of Seattle and while working upon a building last June, it collapsed, and the man lost his life and his fortune. The mother was left in a destitute condition and with four little children to provide for, and with the prospect of one more being added in the near future. Mrs. Bird visited the family under trying circumstances, when the mother agreed to give her child away when born, knowing that it was going into the hands of good people and that it would be well cared for.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

John P. Wright, a despondent bartender, who sent a bullet through his head Monday night with a .24-caliber, was buried Wednesday from Banks' undertaking parlors in the South Cottonwood cemetery.

The child of William G. Luck that died of pneumonia was buried yesterday. The funeral was held from the residence.

Mr. and Mrs. John Parker of Mill Creek lost their little child last week.

NEWS BRIEFS.

"The Oak Farm" was presented last evening in the new amusement hall and met with great approval. The house was filled to its capacity. The play went off without a hitch with exception that Ray Cahoon received a dispatch to come to California immediately, but his part was readily filled by another member of the home company.

Monday evening, Dec. 23, at the Taylorville ward house, an exceptionally good program will be rendered of talent of unusually attainments.

School has closed for two weeks and the children are rejoicing over their vacation.

The weather at present favors good coasting which together with the amusement furnished will give plenty of recreation.

Another social will be given this evening in the Third ward hall in honor of Isaac A. Jensen, who leaves in a few days for the Scandinavian mission. This is Mr. Jensen's second mission; he spent two years in the Indian Territory about 10 years ago.

DISTRICT COURT.

In the case of the State of Utah vs. Leo Larsen, which has held the attention of the district court the last five days, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty and Judge Maughan sentenced Larsen to six months in the county jail.
