THE EVENING NEWS.

GEORGE Q. CANNON, BUITOR AND PUBLISHER.

THE sad accident yesterday by snow slide in Little Cottonwood kanyon refinds us that the season of danger by that cause has come around again. Formerly the travel and traffic in the a little wood hauling being the prin-cipal. But with the opening of the The weather is intensely cold. mines the case is different. In some kanyons the travel and traffic now are considerable, summer and winter, and consequently the liability to danger from avalanches is very much increased. To keep the mines working during the winter and spring seasons the kanyons must be kept open and teams must pass up and down. Can nothing be done, then, to prevent or moderate the results of such painful casualties as that of yesterday? Not much, it is to be feared. But those who value their lives would do well to take such precautions as are practicable. It appears that in this instance a number of teams were passing each other at the fatal spot at the fatal moment. An aggregation of teams at a dangerous point of the kanyon at the time when ferson will make his re-appearance on cations denote danger or are favorable as permanently restored.

No such snowfrom other teams. Then, in case of accident, the damage would certainly be less. A precautionary policy of this kind, combined with one of not passing such points at all when the conditions are dangerous, would do much to prevent accident, or to mitigate it when it might occur.
