

COACH MADDOCK ON NEW FOOTBALL

Wants Utah to Benefit by Mis-takes of Radical Re-formers.

NEW RULES TOO STRINGENT

And as a Consequence a Big Insurrection is Brewing in College
Circles of Middle West.

When Coach Joseph Maddock left Salt Lake for his old home in East Jordan, Mich., at the close of the school year at the University of Utah, the "News" requested him to furnish this department with his impressions of the Western Conference Track and Field meet, which he intended to attend, and of the athletic situation in the middle west, where the reform movement is at its height. He has responded with the following review of the present trouble over rules to govern the new football:

When I left Salt Lake City on May 25, I intended writing an article on the big conference meet held June 2 at Evanston, Ill., but the meet turned out to be such a walkaway for the University of Michigan, that I hardly thought it would be interesting to the people of Salt Lake City. However, I have compiled the article, a few lines with regard to the present conditions here in the middle west pertaining to the changing reform in athletics.

Of course we all hope for nothing but clean, pure, amateur athletics in our colleges and universities, but the most ardent admirers of amateurism cannot help admitting that the pedagogues who have been pushing the present reform campaign have far overreached themselves and it is openly admitted here in the middle-western states and by men whose reputations stand for something that the reform has gone entirely too far. The reform committee is being criticised most severely in their move abolishing the training table during football season, the rule forbidding more than three years of competing by any college man, barring graduate students from participation and the cutting of the gate receipts to 50 cents.

SOME NEW CHANGES.

It seems to be the general opinion, and it looks reasonable to me, that certain changes were needed; for instance, such changes as the rule calling for a man to be enrolled one year before being allowed on teams for the institution, that every man must be up in his studies, and perhaps limiting the number of games to be played during the season.

INSURRECTION BREWING.

The rule limiting a participant to three instead of four years was a hard blow to athletics in the middle west, especially now at a time when the west is beginning to compete with the far east. Next fall Michigan meets Pennsylvania on the gridiron while Chicago meets Cornell. The eastern institutions allow four years' competition for each man, so they have a decided advantage over the westerners. This rule was taken like "bad medicine" by the big nine colleges, but now that the news comes in from the last session of the committee that the three-year rule shall be retroactive it seems here that it is liable to cause an upheaval among the colleges of the big nine. It cuts Michigan and Chicago more than the other members of the big nine and these two institutions are already taking active steps toward leaving the present association and applying for admittance into the eastern inter-collegiate, where no such stringent rules exist.

BAD DOCTORING.

It seems in the making of these rules it was not taken into consideration, under the above named conditions that only sophomores and juniors would be eligible to compete next year. Still the lawmakers do not seem to be able to give a satisfactory reason why a college man who is eligible under every rule shall not be allowed to compete.

THE NARROW PATH.

One can easily see if the present state of affairs goes on that it will be but a few years until the college students will lose interest in college athletics and will turn their attention in some other direction. There is nothing, nor can there be anything substituted which keeps the student body in the straight and narrow path of good morals more than do athletic competitions. It is not merely the 11 men on the football team, the nine men on the baseball team or the eight men on the college crew who receive the benefit of athletic competition. It is more or less the whole student body, the members of the various teams merrily getting a good exercise for the admirers to follow, and it is safe to say, if we take athletics away from the students they are going to turn their attention to some other sport less respectful by far than our college athletics of to day.

In offering these few suggestions, I merely wish to put cold facts before the people of the far west and cause those of the Rocky mountain district who are interested in the welfare of future college sport to sit up and take notice that our districts may benefit by the experience of the middle west.

TRUST BUSTED.

Combination of Automobile Tire Makers is Abolished at Last.

After Sept. 1, the combination of automobile tire manufacturers, commonly termed the tire trust, will cease to exist. This was made certain by the public announcement a few days ago of the biggest concern in the combination that they would not renew the agreement which expires Sept. 1. There has been considerable friction in the association, and it is expected that with its dissolution there will be more active competition for the business.

LONG TENNESSEE FIGHT.

For twenty years W. L. Rawls, of Belle, Tenn., fought nasal catarrh. He writes: "The swelling and soreness inside my nose was fearful, till I began applying Buckle's Arnica Salve to the sore surface; this caused the soreness and swelling to disappear, never to return." of two very celebrated race horses, designed to improve the breed of horseflesh. Rock Sand and Adam, both recently purchased abroad, the former by August Belmont for $125,000, and the latter by Frank Bishop for $125,000. Both are now in their prime, expected to reach half of their time these lines are printed. Rock Sand comes from England and Adam from France.

The racing of these two just cele-brated racers is only a natural se-quence to the great popularity of the turf in this country, despite the fact that many difficulties have hampered the sponsors, founded to a great extent upon sheer ignorance of the real mean-ing of horse racing.

Authentic statistics of the exportation of thoroughbred horses and mares from Great Britain to other countries in the last few years have been re-cently made public. The list follows:

Stal-lions, Mares,	British North America	22	11
Bona Vista, Hungary	51	11
United States	142	58
Australia and New Zealand	32	25
Austria and Hungary	27	87

The actual number exported from England in the last few years is 3,244 head, of which 1,629 were mares, of which number France and Germany, both jealous of England's supremacy in horseflesh, have been the most ex-treme buyers.

Already France is selling to other countries and with it will serve to show very well where Tommy Burns' next match.

Tommy Burns, alleged heavyweight champion of the world, is going to get a chance pretty soon to prove how much of a champion he really is. Not that the men he is to meet are exceptionally good ones, by any means, but they are fair tryout timber and will serve to show very well where Tommy Burns' next match.

Tommy Burns' next match is to be held in the British Isles on July 2, against Mike Schreck at Terra Haute, Ind., and the fight is to be held on Aug. 27. The latter date will prove a very hard proposition, but the record at which Schreck has been going lately indicates that he will be an opponent for whom Tommy should train faithfully.

In his recent bout with Dave Hart, Mike showed a lot of speed of which the public generally had not given him credit. He gave Dave a thorough trouncing and showed such good form in doing it that many are picking him to defeat Burns, although the latter appears to be confident that he can win off by himself.

Reports from Burns' training quarters near Waukegan have been to the effect that he has not been in any too good health, although he is recovering nicely and should be in good condition when the time comes around for the Terra Haute entertainment. The men will be 10 pounds there, a long enough period to give each of them an opportunity to show what he can do. As they meet at what weight each should be off by his best.

The Schreck match was not made without considerable wrangling. Burns first took Ruhlin on for the Aug. date and Mike, who had been hot on Tommy's trail, claimed that the latter was sidetracking him. He even went so far as to charge that Burns had "cold feet," and this got a rise out of Tommy right away. For whatever Tommy may lack, it cannot be charged that he does not have confidence in his ability to trounce the whole row of heavies, beginning with Bob Fitzsimmons and ending with the newest newcomer.

Battling Nelson is still flirting with Kid Herman, and in the meantime the Kid's proposed match with Benny Yantzer is off. The Terra Haute club offered very nice inducements for this Yantzer-Herman match, but the latter was not at all amenable and that is to box Nelson out for the title. Therefore, Benny is left out in the cold, and Herman probably will get on with Nelson sooner or later.

The only place for these boys to box is California, and that is the only state in which a good purse will be paid for the show.

The fight will take place at McCay's Saloon in Los Angeles. Out there they still have an idea that Jimmy Britt is the goods, and want him to go on with the Dame. Nelson's manager, however, does not care much about giving Britt a chance, and as he is the chap in a position to dictate the terms, the coast promoters will come to his way of thinking out of necessity.

In the meantime there will be a lot of interest worked up in the Nelson-Herman meeting.

ANOTHER FAKIR CAUGHT.

Baseball Attendance Multiplier is Laid Low at Last.

Close students of baseball news all over the circuit are beginning to sit up and notice that out-of-town scores no longer mention the attendance at the yard. There's a reason. At one fell swoop this spring, The Associated Press dumped the magnates into the American class. In other words, the news bureaus refused to accept the additional figures given out by a few, and instead there is a melancholy blank space where attendance used to be.

In explaining the new move, the Associated Press takes the position that Three Matches of Considerable Importance and Interest Are On.

BIGGEST IS ATTELL-NEIL

Nelson and Herman Are to Fight in Los Angeles—Tommy Burns and Mike Schreck to Clash.

There are three boxing bouts of consider-able importance and interest scheduled to take place within the next month, and all of them are billed as championship affairs—heavyweight, lightweight and featherweight. In the order named they are Tommy Burns vs. Mike Schreck, Battling Nelson vs. Kid Herman, and Abe Attell vs. Frankie Neil. Each should be worth travelling some distance to witness.

What promises to be a most mem-orable encounter between little Bill Neil's and the Attell-Neil scrap. Both are champions in their respective class and will undoubtedly put up a slashing encounter when they get together at Los Angeles on the Fourth.

Neither of the men need any introduction to the devotees of the many art forms, for both have a practically clear record of victories back of them in the six years of their career in the ring, and the few decisions rendered against them have been of the hair-line variety and will not count.

Attell has had his share of the limelight, and when he meets Neil he will be the underdog, but his record is not bad.

Both men are in magnificent condition, and will be the equals in the ring, but the question is, will either be the victor?
