Christensen had direct reference to the plan of keeping the schools open for another month by means of the tuition plan. Continuing, he said: "It was expected that the work of compiling the return from parents would have been completed some time today; but that is not possible. Woman in Brown-Bradley Case Takes Till Monday to Plead.

MR. BROWN ALSO IN COURT.

Pleads Not Guilty and Asks That Both Cases be Set for Hearing For Thursday Next.

Mrs. Annie Bradley was arraigned before Judge Diehl this morning on the usual charge, with ex-Senator Arthur Brown. The complaint alleges that the offense was committed on the night of April 18. Mrs. Bradley appeared in the court room unattended. She looked pale and nervous, and was attired in a brown costume and wore a light spring hat. During the reading of the complaint she gazed steadily at the floor, and when asked if she desired to plead, her answer was almost inaudible. "Do you wish to consult counsel before you plead?" asked Judge Diehl. "I presumed they would be here," she answered faintly. The case was then continued until Monday morning, at which time a plea will be entered. Judge Diehl fixed her bond at $750, and Mrs. Bradley retired to another room. The complaint against Mr. Brown was not filed until this morning. Judge Diehl at once issued a warrant for his arrest, and it was placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Cummock for service. Cummock went in search of the ex-senator, but while he was out, Mr. Brown, accompanied by James Farrell, walked into the court room and demanded to know the amount of Mrs. Bradley's bail. Being informed, he and Mrs. Bradley signed the bond, and Mrs. Bradley was released. By this time Cummock returned and placed Brown under arrest. "Oh, that's all right," remarked Brown, "the warrant was produced. You see I am here. I don't care anything about hearing the complaint read, and I will plead not guilty anyway. You may fix the bond and I will go out with an officer and secure the bondsman."

CAPT. CHAMBERLAIN'S TRIAL.

Charged with Smuggling Silks and Curio Into Manila.

Washington, April 18.—Capt. Harry B. Chamberlain of the quartermaster's department is on trial in Manila on a charge of smuggling silks and curio into Manila. When the army transport Seward returned to Manila from Hongkong March 19, Collector of Customs Shuster, having been informed by a seaman that there would be a quantity of goods on the transport not declared, made an investigation, and it is alleged he found some articles in what appeared to be a false locker about the smokestack and in the pantry. Some of the boxes, it is said, were addressed to Capt. Chamberlain, the remainder being addressed to the wife of an army officer on duty in Manila. Collector Shuster had Capt. Chamberlain taken before the court of customs appeals, trial being set for March 22, the result of which has not been learned here. Capt. Chamberlain was relieved from duty. It is stated that the goods alleged to have been brought on the Seward, which were discovered by the customs officials were intended for the private use of army officers and not for the purpose of sale.

What's the Matter With Germany?

Press is Violently Hostile Because U. S.'s European Squadron Has Been Ordered to Marseilles to Do Honors To French President on His Return From Algeria—Some Very Slighting References to American Navy.

Berlin, April 18.—The German press does not distinguish between the visit of the United States' European squadron to Marseilles and the program planned for the United States' North Atlantic squadron, on behalf of which the American government declined an invitation to visit Kiel during the coming regatta there. Therefore some wonder is expressed as to why "Special honors" are shown the French president by the American navy, immediately following the refusal of the German emperor's request. One or two papers express themselves bitterly on the subject and say the Germans "do not miss much in not having a sight of the American ships."

MINERS DOWN AGRICULTURISTS

Fight Over Coal-Bearing Lands Develops Sensations.

ANOTHER UTAH INDUSTRY.

Kaolin Fire Clay Locators at Lehi Also Upheld in Their Claims By Uncle Sam.

Owing to the absence of H. V. A. Ferguson, special agent for the department of the interior, the matter of the selection of various areas of alleged coal bearing lands for grazing purposes has been postponed until June 5. The matter is creating considerable interest and threatens at this time to culminate in a scandal of enormous proportions and to result in the suspension of thousands of acres until the matter is definitely decided. In the motion on which the continuance was granted Special Agent Ferguson set forth the following:

First—That the order directing said hearing is ambiguous, in this, to-wit: that it does not clearly appear therefrom whether the hearing involves the right of the State of Utah to make Agricultural college selection No. 72, in toto, or only in cases where coal declaratory statements are in conflict with the State of Utah's right in the premises.

Second—That it is of great importance to the plaintiff to have the scope of said order determined, and without such determination no proper determination can be had.

Third—That the special agent cannot attend upon the land office in Salt Lake City on the 16th day of April, 1903, by reason of a special assignment to duty at Vancouver, in the state of Washington.

Fourth—That the special agent has peculiar knowledge of the facts involved in this proceeding, and that no other person can adequately protect the plaintiff's rights in the premises without special preparation.

The subjoined allegations which are embraced in an order from Washington addressed to the Register and Receiver at Salt Lake City, are such as to plan for the manufacture of firebrick and other commodities that can be manufactured out of this particular clay.

These kaolin lands were originally located by John Beck as mineral lands, and were later on sold to the state by John McCloskey attempted to acquire them as agricultural lands under a state selection. The matter was carried before the local land office, which upheld the claim of the state. This ruling was, however, reversed by the authorities at Washington.

The storm made it impossible for John Beck as mineral land, and were later on sold to the state by John McCloskey attempted to acquire them as agricultural lands under a state selection. The matter was carried before the local land office, which upheld the claim of the state. This ruling was, however, reversed by the authorities at Washington.

David City, Neb., April 18.—Mrs. Lena Liddle, convicted of the murder last October of her husband, a grain broker, was today denied a new trial by Judge Gould. Evidence was offered by the attorney for the defense that tended to prove perjury on the part of two jurors. The jury recommended life imprisonment.
