high prerogatives and great wisdom of those officials, to inquire into their intentions as to the main and the place of deposit.

However, the gentlemen of the complaces of business in the centre of mittee do not seem to have looked on the matter in this light, They have furnished a report, which has been published in full in this paper, containing their views and their recom mendations. The report shows that the subject has been considered with some care, and with a desire to devise the best possible plan for sewerage in the business part of the city.

It is a matter of regret that the report was not made when the people were first applied to for their decision as to the laying of the laterals. They would then have had time to investigate it and inquire into its details. Now, the date for their decision is but six days from the publication of the report. This is too short a period for up for meeting purposes, while the upper large foom, where the school of the Prophets was held in early days, and the Elders studied languages and the sciences, is only partly re-paired as yet. The five school rooms in the attic story have also been white-washed and cleaned, but not used for many years. Heating apparatus suffi-cient to heat up the whole building in a very short time has been furnished by the Reorganized Church, who has had possession of the building since 1889, when the court of common pleas, Denver system made an estimate for th's city. It is quite likely that the cost would be much more than the esimate, perhaps double the amount, the work was completed, as many contragencies would in all obability arise that are now un-It must be remembered that this 0,000, roughly estimated, is addi tional to the $83,000 for the laterals, 1880, when the court of common pleas,

And it must be borne in mind that while the taxpayers in District No. One have to pay for laterals and con-necting pipes, the whole body of tax-payers in the entire city will have to pay for the main sewer, which only commences at Second East Street on Fourth South, thence running west to some undetermined point on the Jor-dan and for the pumping and dimodel. Had the Saints been permitted to remain here in peace, Kirtland would no doubt today have been a flourishing city, instead of an unim-portant village, as it is now, with 250 inhabitants. We spent about three hours in the lower room of the Temple and felt deeply impressed when w effected upon what took place inside

The answer is, yes. A' report. Pullman, one of the places corporation, through its directors, mentioned, employs the deodorizing process spoken of several times in it sees fit, purchase, own and hold in these columns, so there is good reason why there is no offensive scent there from sewage.

Many of the towns mentioned in the report, if not most of them, are situated near streams of considerable volume and capable of carrying away sewage of vastly greater quantity than is ever likely to be created in this locality. Their facility for carrying away the waste matter are far in advance of ours. The cost at those places is not given, so that the public are not able to judge on that point, nor is the gradient for Salt Lake given so that we may be able to compare it with that of the places mentioned. The committee report in favor of carrying the sewrage over the Jordan to the alkali flats, which, though costly, seems to be quite feasible. It should be understood that this is not determined on by the Council as the method to be adopted in case the sewers shall be built. It is only the opinion of the committee. But it indicates that the scheme for turning the foul matter into the Jordan, which has been strongly supported, is not likely to prevail. The method now proposed will involve, as we stated, the pumping of the sewage

We do not refer to the "dry benchers," but to owners of lots who are lawfully entitled to water for irrigation, who can only obtain permission to use water for part of an hour once a week, and then get such a slim stream that it scarcely suffices to keep a few trees alive. The Temple and principal part of the village of Kirtland stand on high ground—it may be termed a bill as there are lower lands all around it—but a strip of high land lying beyond the Chariton River, between it and Wil-doughby, obscures it from view from the railway, and the first glimpse we had of the Temple yesterday was from the point where the road crosses this San Juan County, states that a sharebolder in a corporation organized there wishes to sell his shares to the corporation, and wants to know whether the corporation may lawfully purchase the point where the road crosses this ridge about a mile from the Temple. Our obliging guide having showed us all through the building, we took a walk around the village. Near the northeast corner of the Temple stands trustees, or executive officers, may, if its treasury, the shares of any stockholder; and it may again sell those a little square cottage which once was, the office of Oliver Cowdery, but is now occupied by J. THE following account of the recovery of a lost ring and its restoration to the owner by a "Mormon" girl, is contained in a special dispatch to the New York World: "Bosron, Sept. 29.-When B F. Whit-temore, of Woourn, Mass., was a resi-dent of South Carolina some years ago, he was presented with a magnificent enameled gold ring by his friend, Hardy Solomon. The ring was appro-priately inscribed and was dated "Columbus, S C., 1873." It was also Brigham Young's house once stood, opposite the street from the Temple; north, on the brow of the hill, is the village church yard, in which rest many faithful Saints awaiting the morning of the glorious resurrec-tion. Some years ago one of the good Christians of Kirtiand undertook to plow a certain part of the grave yard, leveling head boards, mounds andall, evidently from disrespect to the "Mormons." Later an attempt was from his finger. Last August his we stated, the pumping of the sewage from the place of reception near the river.
