EDUCATIONAL

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH.

Prof. Howell, Benner and Merrill have been appointed to edit the University annual for 1904 and 1905. They will also provide for its printing.

Today Prof. Marshall is conducting a teachers' institute at Heber City. Tomorrow evening he will deliver a public lecture in the Weber Stake academy at Ogden.

Next Friday the students and faculty of the University will celebrate Arbor day by turning out in a body to plant trees, lawns and flowers. Ivy plants are to be set out around each of the large buildings. This work will be done by the women students, assisted by Prof. Babcock and Howell and Miss May. The ground-occupying the space in the half circle between the buildings will be made into plots of grass. The men students will dig trenches for pipes to provide these plots with water. For some time Prof. Wilson has been surveying and laying out these grounds and this work will be done under his supervision. The heavy work of the day will be done by the men and the women will provide lunch for them, which will be served from the domestic science rooms. At a meeting of all the students on Wednesday, President Kingsbury announced the following Arbor day committee: Trees, Marshall, Roylance, Howard; grounds, Beckstrand, Wilson, Toronto; Ivy planting, Babcock, Howell, May.

On Wednesday the fourth year normals were excused from their training school and class work to visit the city schools to get practical points on teaching the young idea how to shoot.

Prof. Marshall will deliver the commencement address before the Eureka high school graduates in June.

Mr. Robert Dupont, representing the American branch of the Alliance Française is to lecture in French before the French classes of the University on Monday, April 18, at 4 p. m., in the lecture hall of the physical building. People in town who are interested may obtain tickets from Mr. Arnold or Mr. Arnoldson.

At the Unity club last Monday night Mr. Arnold gave a talk on Heinrich Heine, the great German poet.

Percy Goddard has returned to school after an absence of four weeks on account of sickness.

Prof. Stewart has received a letter from Supt. Ashton informing him that the Salt Lake county teachers, at their last session, voted to attend the summer normal institute to be held at the University in June.

Next Thursday Prof. Byron Cummings will go to southern Utah to deliver a series of public lectures. On Friday and Saturday evenings he will speak at Cedar City, and he will speak at St. George on the following Monday and Tuesday. His topics will be "Life of the Ancient Greeks," and "Greek Gods and Their Temples." The lectures will be illustrated.

Outdoor track work began this week. About 35 men were out each afternoon. Next Thursday the inter-class athletic meet will take place on Cummings' field. The business men of the city interested in athletics will give prizes to the winners.

John Hume, a former student of the university, now studying at Stanford, recently defeated the Berkley athlete in the 120 and 220 hurdle races and gained third place on the broad jump.

Coch Holmes has been appointed full professor of physical education at the University of Southern California at Los Angeles. In rank and salary he has here. In accepting this position he refuses an offer from North Dakota. The University of Southern California is an endowed institution and ranks third in the schools of that state.

The university has entertained a host of visitors during the week. On Monday Supt. Brown and the teachers of Utah county, with the training teachers of the U. Y. U. were shown through the buildings. Other visitors were Prof. John M. Mills, Prof. Mosiah Hall, Ezra Christiansen, Dr. C. Jensen, G. M. Mumford, Bert Eastman and Messrs. Lay Jones and Lunt of Cedar City. Yesterday the Ogden school board paid an official visit to the university. They were accompanied by Supt. Allison.

Next week President Kingsbury will send his recommendation for next year's appointments to the board of regents.

SALT LAKE CITY SCHOOLS.

That the entire corps of teachers is thoroughly interested in the moral as well as the intellectual welfare of the children of this city is demonstrated by the activity in their recent meetings. The present conditions under which teachers are laboring have presented the matter of remedial means for the regeneration of the so-called bad boy, formerly before the courts. It will be remembered that Principal Haddock in his talk before the principals, two weeks ago, made some disclosures in local conditions. The meeting of last Wednesday afternoon emphasized the fact that unsatisfactory conditions are existing, which must be changed. Upon this the lady supervisors, lady principals and grade teachers met last Thursday afternoon at the Bryant and listened to a very practical talk by Miss Quailrough on "Purity." The lady took up the subject from a lady teacher's standpoint. She called attention to present conditions, in particular remedial means were offered. The mothers who represented the several districts and teachers too discussed the subject freely.

Recommendations for next year have reached the superintendent's office. In about three weeks the teachers will be informed from the committee on teachers whether or not their services are desired for the coming year.

The liberal increase in Clerk Judd's salary seems to be interpreted by the teachers as a tribute to that gentleman's ability and moreover his courtesy.

Parents are notified that they are invited to attend Arbor day exercises, which will be given in every building in the city next Thursday. The hours will vary in the different schools, but appropriate programs will be rendered. On Monday evening, following Arbor day, each pupil in the grades will be asked to give an account of his work of the preceding Friday and Saturday with regard to his attempts to plant trees and beautify the grounds surrounding his home.

Mr. Parratt had a drawing meeting with the Third grade teachers last Thursday. Mr. Parratt has some very artistic specimens on the walls of his room at the city and county building. His work of the present year has given him ample opportunity to bring out much of his native talent in sloyd and crayon work.

The grounds of the county jail had a unique set of visitors last week through the kindness of Mrs. Sheriff Emery, the Third grade teachers and students of the Fremont, a part of the garden plot near the jail, and planted their first flower seeds. The little gardeners were watched by a curious crowd of passers by.

Pupils of the Normal Training department of the U. of U. besieged the city two days last week. They will report on their observations on their return to school.

L. S. D. UNIVERSITY.

Salt Lake City—School reopened on Thursday of this week after the spring vacation of five days.

A preliminary track meeting was held this morning on the high school campus for a try-out preparatory to the coming spring meet.

The night school closed its work last week and enjoyed a select party in the gymnasium on Thursday evening.

During the week the following named students of the business college were placed in positions by the department: Lewis R. Lauritzen, with the Giles Mercantile company; Dora M. Olsen, attorney's office, Keith-O'Brien building; and Charles B. Hahn, with the Burlington railroad.

The graduating class will meet next week to choose a tree to be planted with appropriate ceremonies on Friday next on the school grounds, as a reminder and memento of their four years in the institution. The tree chosen, it was stated by President Paul, should be an evergreen, and the following list of available species was read in their order of popular preference: The Colorado silver spruce, the Colorado fir, the native yellow or silver cedar, the red cedar, the native balsam, the Norway spruce, the Austrian pine, the Scotch pine, the native red pine, the Irish juniper, the Japan arbor vitae, the China arbor vitae, the American arbor vitae, and the ornamental cypress. Each graduating class will add a tree to the group, so that the tallest tree will represent the earliest class.

The '04's met on Friday and selected a spot in which to plant their flower-embellish, the white rose; the '05's will meet next Monday to select a place.

for their favorite, the moss rose; on Tuesday; the '06's will select a rose for the American beauty rose, their flower emblem; on Wednesday the '07's will choose a spot for their rosebush; and on Thursday the preparatories will designate the abiding place of their wild rose. The commercials will meet early next week to select their flower; and the Columbian girls will plant columbines and other flowers in the garden of their choice. This is in preparation for the observation of Arbor day.

The commercial class held a meeting on March 31. The chairman stated the business to be the reading of President Hick's resignation. Edward Day was elected. The secretary then read the resignation of Charles H. Sprague, as vice president, and Miss Ethel Snow was unanimously chosen for that position. Thomas C. Hair was elected treasurer over his opponent, W. C. Winder.

Professor Ezra Christiansen of the Bible academy at Rexburg, was a visitor on Thursday, and spoke before the general assembly.

The school enjoyed a rare treat on re-assembling Thursday morning after the conference vacation. By special invitation of the president, Professor A. C. Lund of the Brigham Young university, and wife of his pupils, Messrs. Willard Anderson and Joseph McAllister, and Miss Florence Jepperson, came to sing at devotional exercises.

Prof. A. C. Lund made a few choice remarks to the students on the occasion of his recent visit.

WEBER STAKE ACADEMY.

Stoppel, Ernest L. Ford, Maynard E. Nelson, Fred Williams and Angus T. Lochhead, the latter three are from the high school.

The ladies basketball team from the

B. Y. college of Logan is with us, accompanied by many of the students from that institution. The game between them and our girls is now on.

The academy gave another successful ball Friday evening in honor of the visiting ladies' basketball team from Logan. The dance was a very pleasant affair and successful in every particular.

The game in Logan last week between the girls of the two institutions resulted in a victory for the academy. The score was 6 to 0. Our juniors, however, met defeat at the hands of the B. Y. College Juniors. The score stood 25 to 18.

Our attendance is larger than it has ever been before at this season of the year. The regular students are doing excellent work.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Student Life came out Thursday. This issue has a number of half-tones and an extensive notice of "As You Like It."

The University of Wyoming and the Agricultural College of Montana have written the college authorities here to secure assistants in agriculture.

The college council is at work on the matter for the new catalogue.

Prof. Hutt went to Brigham Wednesday to arrange for the mission and rooming to be carried on by the college in conjunction with the department of agriculture at Washington.

Miss Camilla Lee, a former student, is employed as a temporary stenographer at the station.

Prof. Clark, accompanied by his class of 30 in animal husbandry, spent last Monday at Collinston visiting Mr. W. S. Hanson's famous sheep farm.

The plans of work and the various varieties of seeds have been sent to the different dry farms. Some seedling has been done on those in the southern part of the state.

The track meet is scheduled for April 15. The competition will be between the different schools of the college for the magnificent cup now on exhibition in the windows of Dunbar, Robinson & Co., the donors. Mr. Preston Petersen has been selected as manager of the track team, and Mr. Frederickson, of the baseball team.

The basketball game last Saturday evening was pronounced one of the best played in Logan this season. While the final score was 14 to 11 in favor of Weber state, the goals from the field were evenly divided.

The senior engineers are investigating the question of a new water supply for Logan as a class exercise.

The third year manual training girls in groups of two or three have been preparing and serving six course dinners in the college dining room during the past two weeks. The tables are usually set for eight. The dinners are usually engaged in advance by some of the ladies of the faculty, who have their invited guests. Occasionally the students are permitted to entertain their own guests. Among the persons who have entertained in this way recently were Messdames Mangham, Willard Langston, Earl Ogden and Whitsoe and Messrs. Grace Fisher and Nebecker.

Prof. Catey delighted her class in household economics on Wednesday with a look at some very rare specimens of copper and brass kettles from England and Mexico, which she has in her own collection; one of these is a genuine Queen Anne Jubilee Kettle of fine workmanship and graceful shape.

Ancient Mansion of English Washingtons

There is one place in England to which every American citizen, proud of his country and his race, goes when the opportunity occurs—the ancestral home of the Washingtons. There have been many researches into the history of George Washington's family. This writer, with the assistance of one whose family is closely associated with that of Washington's, has pursued those researches farther than they have been carried before, and has perused authenticated documents not hitherto investigated, says E. Leuty Collins in the London News. The statements can be verified in every detail, and are of much historical interest.

The Washingtons were lords of the Manor of Sulgrave, which is situated in one of the most beautiful rural districts in England. The railway takes tourists within a short walking or driving distance of the very house in which they were born and spent their lives.

John Washington of Warton in Lancashire, and Margaret, daughter of Robert Kilson, were the parents of Laurence Washington, twice mayor of Northampton. He obtained the Manor of Sulgrave in the year 1539. It had before belonged to the Priory of St. Andrew, Northampton. In the family of this Laurence Washington the manor house and the land, some 210 acres, remained for 120 years. Laurence had a son Robert and a grandson Laurence. The estate descended to Robert, but his son Laurence sold it to Laurence Makepeace of Lincoln's Inn, a nephew of Robert. His son Laurence sold it out of the Washington family in 1559.

Robert and Laurence, having sold their estate, went to Brington in Northamptonshire. Laurence had several sons; one Sir Richard Washington, and another Laurence, a clergyman, who lost his life in the time of Cromwell. It is especially interesting to remember this, for most of the old books on the subject confuse the Laurence Washingtons. Two of the clergyman's sons emigrated to America and one of these was the great-grandfather of the great George Washington. This George Washington was the great-great-great-grandson of Laurence Washington who obtained the Manor of Sulgrave in 1539. It is said that Queen Elizabeth passed a night at Sulgrave manor, and declined to play "hide and seek," hiding her august person in a large oak closet still to be seen at the manor house. The Washington arms, the origin of the "Stars and Stripes," are to be seen on the wall of the manor house at Sulgrave and on the banner of that mighty nation, the United States, should be taken from the coat of arms of an English gentleman. The manor house was formerly much larger than it is now. Laurence Washington and his wife and son were buried in Sulgrave church, and several UNNECESSARY.

Miss Eisel Porter, the daughter of Gen. Horace Porter, the American ambassador to France, is very popular in Paris, and therefore the Parisians have welcomed enthusiastically a story that was recently told them about this beautiful young girl.

When she was six or seven, the story goes, Miss Porter was visiting some little cousin in the country. On a certain morning, an announcement was made to these little cousins:

"Children," said their nurse, "you have a new sister—a new baby sister."

Little Miss Porter, laughing and clapping her hands, congratulated the children heartily on this news.

"Oh," she cried, "run and tell your mamma!"

The Good of Medicine

People insisting that medicine does no good, have one stubborn fact to contend with, that is, the people who do believe are greatly in the majority. We have been so fortunate during the past twenty years as to convince thousands of sufferers with weak watery blood, who had all the symptoms of a general breaking down of the system, that one medicine at least does good. Nervous and unsteady people, weak, fleshless people, plump, pale or sallow people can have strong steady nerves, and solid healthy flesh by the use of Dr. Gunn's Blood and Nerve Tonic. A tablet to take at meal time. It turns the food you eat into rich, red blood, making solid flesh at the rate of 1 to 3 pounds per week. Sold by all druggists for 75c. per box, or 3 boxes for $2. This medicine saves doctor bills and insures health, giving the very best treatment possible. For sale by Z. C. M. I. Drug Department.
