The Huguenot Lover.

In the prologue of the romantic drama of "Rene," which is to be produced in the Theatre Friday and Saturday evenings, is realized the famous picture of Millals, entitled "The Huguenot Lover." The picture represents the Royalist malden tying the white scarf upon the arm of her Huguenot lover, an ideal episode of the massacre of St. Bartholomew, when the extermination of the Huguenots was ordered, and the scarf was used to designate the followers of the King, and keep them from harm in the indiscriminate slaughter of the Huguenots. he same in both.

ON SEWERAGE. A communication from the House The following report of the special forwarding II. F. 15, in relation to committee on sewerage was read and adopted: Adopted: Your special committee appointed to in-vestigate and report upon a plan of sewer-age for Salt Lake City, respectfully state that we have made a thorough examination of several systems, and are satisfied the most suitable for this city would be an im-proved form of the pipe system. As soon as this decision was arrived at, we imme-diately engaged the services of a competent and experienced firm of sanitary engineers, Messrs Lowrie & Aull, of Denver, under whose direction and supervision the suc-cessful Denver system of sewerage was constructed, and we now have pleasure in handing to the Council, plans, details and specifications of a system we recommend to this city. The first method is estimated to cost: sewer laterals $29,500, house connections, $131,000, total $160,500; and the secand, sewer lateral $15,700, house connections $51,300, total, $87,000. Both estimates, however, are exclusive of the main or intercepting sewer, which will cost an additional $25,000. The cost of this main, or intercepting sewer, is the only amount to be paid out of the city treasury, while the cost of the laterals and house connections will be borne by the property owners in each sewer district. The plans not only give the location of the main or intercepting sewer, later is and connections, together with es-timated cost of same, but they also show elevations at various points, and details of every part of the system. The specifications and estimates are very full, and we have reason to believe suffi-ciently accurate to give the maximum.cost of the work so far as projected. We are satisfied that the system, as detailed in the drawings and specifications accompanying this report and forming part hereof, is not only the most economical and practical but it is best adapted to the wants of our city. As to which of the methods, the exterior or interior laterals, shall be adopted, we make no recommendation at this time, believen that the matter should be largely deter-mined by the property owners, who are to bear the expense. Upon examination of the city charter, your committee are satisfied that the cor-poration has the power to levy a local dis-trict tax on the property to be benefitted, sufficient to defray the expenses of con-structing sewers and keeping them in re-part.
