SILK FROCK WITH BRAIDED BODICE.

Inexpensive striped silk and braided net are combined here to form a delightful summer afternoon frock, which has the merit of being at once dressy and low in price. The skirt shows simple lines with a waistline at the normal position, an extension of the skirt over the left side of the bodice adding length and emphasizing the one-piece effect of the costume. The bodice is of white net braided with soutache in the color of the striped silk—in this instance a dark heliotrope. The hat is trimmed with lavender velvet, and under the brim are little flower clusters combining pale pink roses and purple heliotrope.
