Special per Deseret Telegraph.

Richfield, Sevier County, Feb. 2 .-About 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the dead body of Mr. H. P. Larsen was found hanging by the neck from a rafter of a small cabin in the north part of town. Deceased left the home of his sister, Mrs. H.P. Miller, Tuesday morning, stating that he was going to his nephew's farm in the north field, so no anxiety was felt about him until his nephew came to town yesterday and stated that he has seen nothing of his A search being instituted resulted as stated, in finding the bothe cabin on a piece of land rented by deceased. It was a determined case of suicide as the knees were bent in order to suspend the body, the roof of the cabin being too low to allow the body to swing clear when extended. CLOSE OF A GRAND CAREER. Funeral of George W. Johnson, Sr .-

His Pioneer Life and Labors. Special Correspondence.

Moab, Grand Co., Jan. 25.-Yesterday the citizens of this quiet town turned I am sure Electric Bitters saved his out en masse to attend the funeral services over the remains of George W. Johnson Sr., who departed this life at 11 o'clock a.m. Jan. 22, 1900, after an illness of four or five days; the cause of death was an attack of Bright's disease. Deceased was born in the town of Pomfret, Chatauqua Co., New York, Feb. 19, 1823, and was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints on the 9th day of April, 1836, by Elder Samuel Bent and was confirmed by the Prophet Joseph Smith, with whom he was intimately acquainted. He shared in the mobbings and drivings, and the pioneer work of the Church, from that day until the present. He was a member of Zion's camp. In 1839 he helped to found the place called Perkins' settlement, afterwards called Ramus and later named Macedonia, at which place he was married to Maria J. Johnston on April 14, 1844. While at this place he assisted in the erection of the Nauvoo Temple, and was present at the dedication. Here he was ordained an Elder under the hands of Brigham Young, and one year later at Nauvoo was ordained a seventy and set apart as a member of the Twenty-fifth quorum under the hands of Elder Moses Martin, In the summer of 1848 he, together with his brother-in-law, D. T. LeBaron, remained at Nauvoo after the exodus of the Church exhibiting the Temple to strangers until it was burned on the night of Nov. 19, 1848. He started westward in 1850, and stopped at Kanesville, Iowa, where he began the study and practice of medicine, and during the great epidemic of cholera took an active part in its suppression. On the 13th day of June, 1851, he started westward for the valley of the Great Salt Lake, suffering many privations and losses on the way. When about fifteen miles north of the Platte river crossing, a child was born to them on the 31st day of July, 1851. On the 1st of October. 1851, he arrived in Salt Lake City, where he married Eveline Burdick. tion with his nephew, Nephi Johnson, he compiled and published a dictionary of the language in pamphlet form, and did a good work among the Indians, and explored the then unknown mountains of southern Utah. He was then back and settled at Payson, where he remained one year; this was the noted grasshopper year. He then returned to Iron county for the winter. In the spring of 1856, he returned to Summit creek. In 1857 was appointed counselor to Bishop James S. Holman and acted as clerk of the ward and as postmaster, which positions he held un-til the fall of 1859, when he was called to build a settlement at Uintah springs in Sanpete county, where he laid out the town of Fountain Green. At that place he was set apart as Bishop and appointed postmaster. Here he re-mained until 1863, when he removed to Spring Lake vilia. In 1866 he was called to go on a mission to help to settle up the south, but on account of sickness in the family he spent the winter in Foun-tain Green. In the spring of 1867 he went to Mona, Juab county, where he built a home and during the summer he was appointed postmaster, which office he held until January, 1883. The winter of 1870-1 he spent in St. George, and afterwards helped to establish the town of Johnson, in Kane county, where the family made calculations to colonize. On returning to Mona he established a trunk factory at that place. In 1883 he moved to Huntington, Emery county, where he built a home, set out an or-chard, and nursery. On the 14th day of November, 1888, he was married to Clarissa Roberson. Some time in that year he wrote and published a series of poems called "Jottings by the Way." In 1894 he removed to Moab, Grand county, where he resided until his de-

THE TRAVELER'S TREE.

The traveler's tree is a plant of remarkable appearance. It belongs to the same natural family of plants as the banana and the canna, but it shows a striking pecularity in producing its leaves or leaf-stems all in one plane, making it distinct from every plant. The botanical name is Ravenala Madagascarensis. The plant in its wild state is found only on the Island of Madagascar, but it has been distributed throughout tropical countries, being cultivated as an ornamental plant. The specimen from which the photograph was taken for the present illustration was growing on private grounds at Singapore. The name traveler's tree has been applied to it, so it is said, because water from rain and due collects and is held in the channels of the leaf-stems. where the thirsty traveler may obtain it. It is true that water does so collect, but that the plant is ever of any special benefit to the traveller in the manner stated is extremely improbable, for the by the edges of marshes and water courses, where there would be no difficulty in procuring water in abundance. The origin of the name, we can only think, therefore, is the result of a pleasant concelt, similar to those that have given rise to many other popular plant

Major Bailile, of the Morning Post, had just left the shelter when a shell from the 100-pounder struck Weil's stores, not fifty yards distant. I rushed up, fearing Baillie had been hurt, and I was just in time to see a native come tumbling down the step leading to Mr. Ben Well's underground office, in which he transacted the business incidental to his government contracts. Rushing to the boy's assistance a ghastly sight met me. The native was lying on the step, down which his life blood was trickling in a dull, red stream. His right leg was ripped and mashed from the groin to the knee, and the femoral artery, pumping blood, was severed too high up to admit of the application of a tourniquet. As I examined the wound the poor fellow watched me with pathetic eagerness, and as he read in my face that nothing could be done he turned his own down with a low moan of despair. He was taken to the hos-pital, and died there today."

Western Men Want to Have These Lands Released.

DESIRE NATIONAL PARKS

Strong Sentiment in Several States for More of Them-Humorous Campaign Experiences.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, D. C., January 26 .-The western men are fighting the various propositions to increase the number of forest reservations and want some of those already made decreased. These forest reservations can be created simply by an order of the President. Wherever there is public land-and there are vast quantities of unsettled lands in the west-he may establish a forest reservation, and once the order is issued there can be no settlement Morgan Richards, Jr., State, and upon the lands embraced in the reservation. More than 50,000,000 acres are now reserved. Of course this includes much land not covered by forests, but which is either agricultural, mineral or barren land. It is the desire of the western men where the reservations have been made to have these lands released. The cration of forest reservations is advocated by various organizations interested in the preservation of the forest, and most of the States want them because they wish to have the reservations made into national parks.

NATIONAL PARKS WANTED. This demand for national parks continues to increase. The first and best known is the Yellowstone National Park. This was followed by the Yosemite, in California, and smaller reservations in the same State. Then began the movement for the establish ment of national military parks, covering the ground where great battles were fought during the civil war. Beginning with Chickamauga, we now have Gettysburg, Vicksburg and Shi-loh, while there is sure to be another authorized in Virginia. Now there is a movement on foot to establish a national park somewhere in the Appalachian range of mountains, possibly in North Carolina. In the several States where there are forest reservations there are applications for parks. Two are wanted in the Cascade range in Oregon, one to include the famous Crater lake and the other Mount Hood; two in Washington, one to take in Mount Ranier and the other the wonderful unexplored region around Mount Olympia, between Puget Sound and the Pacific ocean. In a number of other reservations national parks are asked for, and an effort is now being made to create a great reservation in Minne-sota to include the headwaters of the Mississippi, so as to create a national park in that section. A proposition has been made for a national park to include Glacier bay, on Lynn canal, in Alaska. The object was to provide that the entrance to this wonderful region should never fall into the hands of some individual or corporation which would make the sightseers of the future pay toll when they visit the largglacier on the lower Alaskan coast.

CURIOUS INTRODUCTIONS.

A group of members were telling some strange experiences they had in being introduced to audiences while on the stump in various campaigns. One gentleman related an instance Hon. Timothy Tarsney of Detroit was introduced by an enthusiastic gentle-man as "The Hon. Tim Larceny."

Representative Mahon of Pennsylvania has also had some trouble in being introduced. He has been introduced to the same audience as "Ma-han," "Mahoney" and "Mahon." As Mr. Mahon is rather particular about his name the introduction was somewhat irritating. Representative Underwood told an experience of his own when campaigning in Alabama. He spent about two hours trying to convince a Populist hard shelled Baptist deacon that it would be no more than an act of courtesy to introduce him to an audience. His object was to get the Populists into the church where the supeaking was to take place. finally got the consent for the Intro duction, and the deacon introduced him in these words: "My Feder Citi-zens—I have the honor, or dishonor, to introduce to you this feller who sez he is from Birminghas." That was all.

A gentlemanly official in blue stops him before he reaches the su-preme court rooms of the senate wing and politely informs the man with the kodak that he can go no further. senators do not like to be photographed while in the chamber or while they ar about the committee rooms or corridors. But there is a reason of deeper importance, and it dates back to da's of Coxey's army. About that ceived, crank letters of all kinds. ate by bombs or other means. There was some apprehension that some crank might throw a bomb from the erank might throw a bonno from the gallery, and to guard against it no one was allowed to bring a package of any kind into the capitol. I have seen a man with a small values stopped until its contents were inspected. The ko-dak was stopped with other packages. There was a time when the house side was somewhat strict about such mat-ters, but now there are no restrictions.
