BREVITIES.

A goose with four legs is the latest novelty in Wauwatosa, Wisconsin.
Ballet-girls are wrongs which should be redressed.
"Make haste home," said an Irishman to his little boy, "and tell your mother I'll be home before you."
An English bull's-eye watch was found in the stomach of a recently captured cat-fish, at Monroe, Indiana.
There are one hundred and sixty-two faro banks in New York and Brooklyn.
Within the last eight centuries, suicides have occurred in Russia, on the average once in every eight years.
The minister who boasts of preaching with a notes don't wish to be understood to refer to greenbacks.
An Irishman complained to his physician that he stuffed him so much with drugs, that he was sick a long time after he got well.
In one of Josh Billings' late papers he says: "The sun was a goin' tew bed, and the beavins fur and near was a bluish in the performance."
Libraries are the shrines where all the relics of the ancient saints, full of true virtue, and that without delusion or imposture, are preserved and reposed.
A young lady being asked by a female acquaintance if she had any original poetry in her album, replied, "No, but some of my friends have favored me with some original spelling."
A beautiful lady was kissing and caressing her beautiful lap-dog, "Ah, dear," exclaimed her foppish adorer, "you not grant me the favor you are casting on Fido?" "I don't kiss every puppy," replied the pouting fair.
An English clergyman repudiates the idea of music in paradise. He says that his chair has given him so much trouble on earth, that the idea of music in the world to come is wholly repugnant to his notions of eternal peace and rest.
To kill the currant and gooseberry worm, dissolve one pound of copperas in a gallon of hot water; add four gallons of cold water; after stirring well, apply to the bushes with a sprinkling-pot, by watering.
Antinous Kastanopoulo, is the name of the Cretan girl who is fighting in the revolution. She is nineteen years old, cannot read, smokes cigarettes, is rather pretty, and has five hundred men under her command.
"Tell me, ye angelic host, ye messengers of love, shall swindled printers here have no redress above?"
The angel said: "To us is knowledge given; delinquents on the other side can never be forgiven."
"Do you see that fellow lounging here doing nothing?" said Owens to Jenkins. "How does he live?" by his wife. "Oh, no, he's a cannibal." "A cannibal?" "Yes, a cannibal! he lives on other people."
When Sir Robert Napier found that Colonel Phayre's enterprise in approaching Magdala had a brilliant result, although not exactly in obedience to orders, he is reported to have said that he might go further and Phayre worse.
The town of Burning Springs, in West Virginia, has a very economical arrangement. The town is lighted, the cooking is done, and engines are run, all by gas from oil wells, of which there is an unlimited supply.
For Swiss cream, boil half a pint of cream, the same quantity of milk, a spoonful of lemon rind, and enough loaf sugar to sweeten it. Thicken this with a teaspoonful of flour, and when nearly cold add the juice of a lemon to it; this will thicken it. Then put it into a glass dish and stick macaroons in it, or put it in glasses.
In laying the keystone of a church at twenty, recently, a ceremony which was conducted with full Masonic honors, Lord Leigh said he held in his hand the keystone of St. Paul's, and which, after the ceremony, presented by His Majesty to Sir Christopher Wren, by whom it was given to the Lodge of Antiquaries, No. 2, in London.
Don Chailly says the prime minister of King Dippo had on a white shirt, one sleeve lost, which could not have been mended for two years, and nothing else. The second man had nothing on but a white shirt. The third had a hat. Another had a pair of shoes. After King Dippo and his ministers came his wife. His chief wife carried an umbrella and wore no clothes whatever.
People who go through the world with a flourish rarely have anything to say. It is a cheap and paltry existence, which may be compared to a bass drum, which makes a great deal of noise but is not the slightest music. The best part of a comet is not its flaunting tail, but its magnetic body; the best people in the world are not those who flourish and parade and crash and smash, but the quiet, thinking, pushing, working classes.
It is now well proved in France that strong wine gives it at once the mellow richness, which by present air-tight bottling cannot be had under many circumstances. Reports from Ohio confirm the trust that every wise man will make experiments on this cheap and valuable mellow. Draw off your cask through the rose of a watering-pot, with very fine holes, making spray. Let the cream have a long course in the air. Repeat it, if the first flow proves it efficacious. Everything is seasoned by nature, why not wine? Nature gives us many hints that air evaporates the raw and ripens the essential elements, that it is amazed to think wine-makers have overlooked the law.—Cor. Times.
