Hazel Hunter, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar P. Hunter, died yesterday afternoon of diphtheria. It was not until 10 o'clock the night before that it was known she had the disease. Hazel was a sweet little child who was dearly loved by her little companions. The father is a traveling man and is now in southern Utah. The funeral was held privately this afternoon from the late home.

Lillian Sage, a child six years old, was knocked down by a horse yesterday afternoon at the corner of West Temple and Second South streets. She was crossing the street with her eyes turned away from an approaching horse that was being driven by a man in a buggy, who did not see the little one. Lillian walked right in front of the animal and was knocked down. A gentleman rushed to her and drew her out from under the horse before she had received any serious injuries.

Fish and Game Commissioner Sharp states that the fish pond at Burdison, five miles north of Nephi, is now ready to stock with trout. Ten acres of ground, upon which there was a large spring, were given to the State some time ago by Mr. Burdison with the understanding that the State appropriate enough money to erect a dam and thus make a fish pond on the ground. Five hundred dollars was appropriated for that purpose, and Commissioner Sharp says that the pond is one of the best in the State. It will be stocked with 40,000 or 50,000 trout.

NEW CITY JAIL

IS DISCUSSED.

Proposition of Erecting One Near Eighth Ward Meeting House.

INTO THE HANDS OF MAYOR

Ordinance That Empowers Him to Name Street Sprinkling Employees—To Improve Prison Fare.

The City Council last night passed a resolution authorizing the committee on police and prison to have plans and specifications for a new city jail and police station prepared. The resolution was introduced by Cottrell and was adopted after much heated debate.

It was recommended by the committee that $5,000 be appropriated to the Mayor's contingent fund for the purpose of purchasing from John Blomquist six rods adjoining on the east the 57 feet now owned by the city next to the Eighth ward meeting house for the erection of a new city jail. An objection came from Robertson, who said it was a "hold-up of the city." He wanted to know if the committee had examined property near a heating plant which he said could be had for practically nothing, compared to the price asked for the Blomquist site. Cottrell answered in defense of the report that the price was high, but that it was a desirable site and that the land could not be had any cheaper. Edgar Howe protested vigorously, as did also Fernstrom. Hewlett spoke in favor of the report.

A substitute motion was introduced by Thomas directing the committee to take steps to begin condemnation proceedings against the property. Objections were made by Robertson, Edgar Howe, Canning and Hartenstein, who wanted other sites considered. First Whittemore favored the substitute motion. When brought to a vote, it was lost. Cottrell moved that the report be referred back to the committee, which motion carried.

SPRINKLING REFORM.

On ordinance providing for a day and night foreman of street sprinkling was introduced by Robertson. The appointments of the officers is taken by the ordinance, out of the hands of the street sprinkling department and placed in the hands of the Mayor. The foreman is to hold office during the pleasure of the Council, but no appointment is to extend beyond the calendar year for which it is made. The officers are to make a daily inspection of the manner of doing the sprinkling and to report to the Council once a month. They are also to keep general track of the men, teams, wagons, etc., and are to protect the city's property. The salary is fixed at $5 per month for each officer. Robertson said in support of his ordinance that he had never heard so many complaints of the sprinkling service, and that his measure was designed to improve it. The ordinance was passed under suspension of the rules, Canning being the only member voting n. y. Beatty and Davis were absent.

ROBERTSON'S CHARGE.

The committee on waterworks was charged by Robertson with underestimating the value of the extension of water mains from Fifth South and Sommerly streets to Rio Grande avenue. Robertson's report gave an estimate of $1,200 for the cost, and Robertson produced an estimate from the city engineer, showing that it would cost $2,700. The report of the committee recommending the extension, held over from last week, was called up by Canning, who favored its adoption. Robertson then made his charge of underestimating, and said that it was a commendable practice of committee members to be responsible for the financial distress of the city. On a motion by Robertson, the report was referred back to the committee.

IMPROVE JAIL FARE.

The chief of police and the chairman of the police and prison committee, on motion of Fernstrom, were authorized to make arrangements for meals to cost ten cents each per man every meal for prisoners in the city jail. The present cost is 74 cents, which, it was argued, was not enough to do a hard day's work on.

FOR PHILIPPINE REUNION.

It was recommended by the finance committee that the sum of $250 be appropriated to the Mayor's contingent fund to be paid to the Utah Society Army of the Philippines to help defray the expenses of the national encampment. The recommendation was adopted and the appropriation made.

On motion of Robertson it was decided to investigate the practicability of the construction of a large reservoir in Parley's canyon at a point about a mile and a half below the forks of Mountain Dell. The motion also directed the engineer to submit data which he already has relating to sites in Parley's or Lamb's canyon.

The ordinance creating the office of master plumber and providing for the regulation of plumbing inspectors, recommended by the committee on public works, was called up by Thomas and laid over.

A VACATION FOR CHIEF.

A communication from Chief Devine was read requesting that he be granted according to custom, a leave of absence to attend the convention of fire chiefs at Salt Lake City during the latter part of the month, and that $125 be appropriated to defray expenses. This was referred to the committee.

Chief Devine also sent a communication suggesting that he be empowered to make contracts for hay for the department during the ensuing year, which was also referred to the proper committee.

The following appointments by Chief Devine were confirmed on recommendation of the committee on fire department: Lieutenant W. T. Ayland, to fill a vacant vacancy; Harry Coleman and Otto Whitbeck, to be members of the fire department.

Department payroll for the last half of July, amounting to $9,686.50 were approved.

HEAVY SHOWERS

IN MOUNTAINS.

So Excessive as to Cause Floods in Various Canyons.

HARVESTING UNDER WAY.

Thrashing Has Begun General and Second Crop Lucern Has Been Cut and Stacked—Ranges Improved.

Weekly Crop Bulletin. Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 6, 1901.—Local thundershowers occurred over the state during the first half week ended Aug. 5th. In many localities the precipitation was heavy enough to be of considerable service and, in several cases, heavy showers in the mountains caused floods of considerable extent in the mountains. Temperature continued excessive during the first half of the week, but was about normal the latter part. The average daily excess of temperature was about 4 degrees. Wheat harvest progressed rapidly, and was completed in a few places. oat harvest has begun. Thrashing has become quite general. The week was a favorable one for growing crops, and potatoes, sugar beets and corn did well. Apples, peaches and early apples continue to be marketed. On the whole, the ranges were somewhat improved by the showers of the week.

Black Rock, Millard.—Two light showers during the week, but heavy rain fell about Black Rock. The week was favorable for plant growth. The second cutting of lucern is nearly all stored. Gardens and grain are looking fairly well.—Willard Barbark.

Shoshone, Emery.—Very warm and dry. Wheat and oats are nearly all cut; the yield will be light. Grasshoppers are working on the lucern for seed.—W. A. Heave.

Fillmore, Millard.—Continued warm, with a few local thundershowers; the showers in the mountains caused small floods. A good rain is much needed. The second crop of lucern is being cut and stored. The first crop of lucern is being saved for seed.—C. Anderson.

THE KILLING OF YOUNG TREZISE.

Jury's Verdict Was "Excusable Homicide"—No Direct Evidence of Intentional Shooting—Only the Question of Unnecessary Violence Involved.

Concerning the killing of young Wm. Trezise, the Los Angeles Times of Sunday, says of the investigation at San Diego:

The preliminary examination of F. E. Vedder, charged with manslaughter, was had in the city police court today. Vedder is a conductor on a Southern Pacific freight train, and July 1 killed William Trezise, in an attempt to keep him from boarding the train at Ogilby. Trezise trying to beat his way over the tracks after the manner of tramps. Vedder claims that the shooting was accidental, the revolver being discharged when he struck the man.

Richard Trezise, father of William Trezise, a resident of Salt Lake, was in court.

Thomas Gwynn, who was beating his way over the train with Trezise, testified at length. He said he made the acquaintance of Trezise about two months ago. After working for a time on the San Pedro breakwater they left the last of June for Yuma, over the Southern Pacific. They rode in a box car from Los Angeles to Croton, and from there to within twenty-two miles of Ogilby. They walked these twenty-two miles, arriving at Ogilby on Saturday, the last of June. Monday morning they planned to catch the first train for Yuma. They secured themselves, and as the train pulled out they boarded the under-carriage. Trezise was in the rear of the car, and he and four other men, who had been with him, were standing on the train. When the train started, Trezise fell backward. He was about thirty feet distant. Vedder must have followed Trezise all of sixty feet with the revolver in his right hand. Gwynn testified that he threw clinkers at the head brakeman, but he would have thrown rocks if he could have found them. He shouted to "hurry" to "leave that train alone." Gwynn testified that some one paid his fare in the passenger train to Yuma, and that he saw the remains of his clunk. Trezise, at the undertaker's, Los Angeles.

The cross-examination was brief. The most interesting feature of Gwynn's testimony was a side remark. A gun like the one used by Vedder was passed up to the witness, and the District Attorney remarked that it was not loaded, and he need not be careful about handling it.

"No," said Gwynn, "it isn't loaded and it's a pity it isn't." In answer to a question in cross-examination he testified that he meant nothing by the remark.

Contrary to custom at preliminary examinations the defense put in a mass of testimony, occupying the entire afternoon. The witnesses were Conductor Vedder, Chris G. Carothers, Lewis A. Hayes, Lucien G. Hilderbrand, and Robert N. Richards, train men, the general manager of the Southern Pacific, and the brakeman were trying to drive Trezise and Gwynn away, that both showed fight, and that Vedder's act in striking Trezise on the head with the gun, was justified.

Trezise, who held a miner's candle in his left hand, was about to strike when Vedder hit him the overhand blow on the head, his revolver discharging at that time.

Acccording to Vedder, Trezise struck the first blow and after that it was merely a question as to who would get the best of it. As Trezise had boasted that he would ride to Yuma if he had "licked every man on the train" Vedder considered he had a tough proposition. He was positive he had no idea of shooting the man, but owing to excitement was unable to state whether he cocked the gun or not. He struck Trezise with the revolver in his clenched hand, his fingers being swollen for several days by the blow on Trezise's head. Vedder testified that everything happened in a flash, and that after the accident and that while due search was made no papers of positive identification could be found. In summing up the district attorney said that there was no direct evidence of intention, and that what he would say was whether Vedder used more violence than was necessary. Justice Anderson held the act to be "excusable homicide" and ordered Vedder's acquittal.

Richard Trezise, father of the deceased, expressed himself to Vedder's attorneys as satisfied with the result, but declined to commit himself to any statement. He said he would remain in the city several days. Vedder says his mind is easier, although he has courted the fullest investigation.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum. "Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker, of Oakway, Ohio, "an infant child of my neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I was sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this Remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance."

For Over Fifty Years Mrs. Wm. W. Wood's Great-Grandchildren have been cured of cholera, cholera infantum, and cholera morbus. It cures the child, softens the stool, always all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for cholera. 25 cents a bottle.

Wise Words from Wise Minds:

The family paper is pre-eminently the evening paper. Only a small percentage of any family has leisure to do more than to scan the morning paper, which comes into the household when the head of the family is rushing to prepare for work. The children are bustling off to school, and the housewife has her hands full of the usual morning duties. At night the day's work is over, and the evening paper is taken up when all its contents can be heard, weighed and discussed. The evening paper is the delectable paper for advertisers.—Common Sense.
