Ogden mourns the death of another old and respected citizen, Mrs. Mary Carr, whose spirit took its departure from mortality Thursday night, September 26th, at 11 o'clock. The deceased had arrived at the ripe old age of seventy years, all of which were spent in usefulness, in raising a good family of sons and daughters and in doing good to those with whom she was associated in life. Mrs. Carr was a native of England, and while in her native land she became a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and emigrated with her family to Utah many years ago, and has always been faithful to her religious convictions. The funeral services will be held in the Second ward meeting house Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The remains may be viewed at the family residence, 2706 Jefferson avenue.

OGDEN SUGAR WORKS.

The Ogden Sugar Factory is running very satisfactory, and it is expected will continue to run from now until the close of the season. Up to this time some 100,000 tons of sugar beets have been unloaded in the sheds, besides several car loads of beets from other countries, making a total of about 1,500 tons. Field superintendents report that the crops both in this county and in Davis and Boxelder counties as being much better than was anticipated the beginning of the season. He says the beets are of a very good quality, and much larger generally than heretofore. The work on the Logan sugar factory is being pushed to completion, and it is thought by the owners that the machinery will be placed in position so that at least a portion of this year's crop of beets, in Cache county and surrounding country can be used by that factory, and the balance of the beets which cannot be run through the Logan factory will be sent to Ogden factory. The run this year promises to be very successful.

LEHI.

THE SOCIALIST PARTY

Strongly Resents the Imputation that it Sympathizes With Anarchists.

Special Correspondence.

Lehi, Utah, Oct. 28.-At a meeting of the Socialist party of Lehi Utah on Sept. 18, John Woodhouse, chairman, resolutions were adopted expressing the sorrow the society felt in the great national bereavement caused by the death of President McKinley, and extending heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. McKinley in her great sorrow. The society resents in strong language the imputation made against Socialists, that they are in sympathy with anarchists. They declare Cosgrove's act as that of a mean, cowardly murderer, and all who sympathize with such monstrous wickedness and crime "place themselves outside the pale of civilization and beyond all human sympathy."

"We hereby declare," continues the declaration, "God helping us, that such a calamity shall not fall upon our nation by any act or teaching of ours. The members of the Socialist society of Lehi renounce the accusation as published and uttered by ignorant people, that attempts to make us twin sister or any relation whatever to such murderous, vindictive people as the anarchists. The Socialists are lovers of peace, justice and virtue, and we are seeking, only by the use of a pure ballot and by the dissemination of grand and noble truths that have emanated from noble minds in ages past, and likewise from equally noble minds of the present age, to help remedy just such evils and violence that we as a nation are called to mourn at this time. The blame for such desperate deeds must be placed where it belongs and not coupled with the Socialist party. It should be placed, we think, at the door of excitable, depraved and vindictive writers, and to men and women whose whole aim in life is to tear down and destroy that which they are not wise enough nor noble enough to help build. Socialists believe in the perfection of government, and advocate a more precise, orderly and harmonious arrangement of the social relations of mankind than that which has hitherto prevailed, and all the good things our government has labored to accomplish, we realize they are many, we seek only to add to them by wise and judicious legislation."

Logan, Sept. 27.-Col. Penrose of the United States army, and who resides at Salt Lake City, was the first victim in the Major's case Friday afternoon. He testified that according to the evidences on Brown's clothing and on the note book which Brown had in his pocket at the time of his death, the bullet which killed him entered the dead officer's body at the back, and ranged downward. Attorney Allison tried for some time, during cross-examination, to get the soldier's opinion on many points, including how far different caliber balls will carry, how far they will kill, etc., but Mr. Penrose declined to testify on any other point than the one mentioned.

The book through which the bullet passed was placed in evidence. It is a small note book with celluloid covers, and had a clean cut hole through near its center.

Mr. Wells of Willard testified that he saw Officer Belnap just after the shooting and that Belnap was very much excited, and pointed a gun at him, thinking he was another robber. He also testified that Majors cried pitifully when taken away from his dead body.

T. H. Davis testified that Majors' dead body was several feet from the back of which his brother hid; also that the distance between the bodies of Brown and the dead Majors was 138 feet.

W. H. Thornton of Plymouth testified that Deputy Marshal Frank Thompson said to him one day that "Abe Majors is not guilty of killing Brown; but the officers must convict whenever they find him, and they put me in a buggy and took me to the jail."

The witness denied having told Officer Thompson he had been in many tight places; denied having told Sheriff Cardon that he killed Brown; and denied having admitted in the presence of Stokes that he killed Brown. He said that on the way to Brigham City one Chamberlain asked Sheriff Cardon who killed Brown, and Cardon replied that he did not know. Majors also stated that Cardon asked him many times whether he killed Brown and he always replied that he did not.
