LIBRARY IN RESIDENCE OF J. R. WALKER.

The Walker residences on South Main street have been marks of interest and admiration for many years, the several fine structures and beautiful grounds surrounding them making the block on which they stand one of the most attractive in the city. The interior of each is in keeping with the general appearance of the exterior, the arrangement and furnishings of the rooms combining convenience with excellent taste. The above cut shows the library in the residence of J. R. Walker, on the corner of Fourth South and Main streets. The room is on the southeast, and is of spacious dimensions, and fitted with handsome bookcases and other furnishings that make it attractive and tempting. The woodwork is mahogany, as is that of nearly all of the rooms in the house. The wide hall in the center has a staircase at the rear, which is lighted at the first landing with a stained glass window, and leads to the sleeping apartments above. Opposite the library on the northeast is the drawing room, another spacious apartment fitted with luxurious and artistic appointments and the dining and other rooms are in keeping with the general tone of elegance and taste.
