John T. Brown Kills His Wife And Then Sucides.

Pendleton, Or., Jan. 26 .- The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Brown of Reinbeck, Ia., were found in the hills south of town this morning. Mrs. Brown had been shot in the breast and the bullet failing to take effect her throat had been cut from ear to ear with a razor. Brown had shot himself in the bad and to make the bullet surance, the premiums to be deducted those now in the service should also in the head and to make death certain had swallowed polson.

WHITAKER WRIGHT'S DEATH Intimated That He May Have Taken Prussic Acid.

London, Jan. 27 .- Without exception, the London papers express satisfaction with the salutary vindication of the law in the case of Whitaker Wright, and admit the justice of the verdict and of this 14-year-old girl at least 50 lives the sentence. The Standard alone, in an editorial, expresses some surprise at the severity of the sentence, on the ground that there was a certain degree. of extenuation in the peculiar circum-stances which Wright was placed un-der. At the same time all the papers dwelt upon the sadness of the final tra-gedy in the vein which is reflected by the following remark in the Morning Post

"Even these painful circumstances cannot cause the slightest twinge of the national conscience."

There are indications in the comments of the Liberal newspapers on the result of the case that it will be used as a political weapon against the govern-ment, which declined to prosecute Wright, Premier Balfour, acting on the advice of the law office of the crown, having announced in parliament in having announced in parliament in December, 1902, that the case was not one for the public prosecutor. These papers insinuate that the government wished to shield Wright because he was a strong supporter, financially and oth-erwise, of the Conservative cause, and because he had influential friends. The Daily News contends that the The Daily News contends that the law officers, Sir Robert Finlay and Sir Edward Carson, ought to resign, and it refers to the "wicked insinuations" of Wright's friends that a prosecution of the case would involve the Duke of Connaught, who did invest in one of Wright's companies, but was not even remotely involved in its doings remotely involved in its doings. All kinds of rumors were abroad last night as to the cause of Wright's death, and there was much speculation on the matter, but nothing certain could be learned. It is learned that Wright suf-fered greatly from insomnia for the last two weeks owing to the mental strain of the trial, and that he used drugs to procure sleep during the last few days. It is also remarked that he had greatly aged in appearance, while during the judge's summing up he showed signs of great distress. His face was pale and haggard, but no one had any idea that he suffered from an illness which was likely to prove fatal. Mrs. Pittman had an aunt residing in Oregon City, about 14 miles from Portland, by the name of Eva Fletcher. It is said that this woman died recently and left a fortune to Mrs. Pittman. It is not known where Mrs. Pittman and Bennett first met, but it is evident from the correspondence found that Bennett had seeen her at various cities in this state. 'A letter found in the dead woman's room was written to the proprietors of the Natick house, in Los Angeles, and is signed by Mrs. J. F. Bennett. She states that she has written three letters to her son and has received no answers, and she asks that if the letters are still there that they be returned to her. This letter was written Jan. 6.

There are letters among her effects from Stella Baker of Eugene, Or., to whom she had loaned money, and
