ONE OF THE EVILS OF THE AGE In The Forum for May, Judge Edmund H. Bennett has an article on the marriage laws of this country, in which he states that the increase of divorces throughout the United States has become alarming. He gives statistics from several States to substantiate his assertion. These show that in Connecticut they have increased fourfold since 1860. In Massachusetts they rose from 243 cases in 1860 to 645 in 1883. In Vermont they more than doubled from 1860 to 1878. In New Hampshire 107 cases in 1960 advanced to 339 in 1880. In these two States the population was about the same at both periods. Other States which he mentions tella similar story and in some the ratio is one to every five marriages! When it is re- of right. membered that the Catholics do not allow divorce, "the proportion of marriages in other classes" appears all the more enormous Judge Bennett admits that the easy divorce laws are not the cause of this deplorable evil in American society. He points to the number of suicides that occur through domestic troubles, and shows that the impossibility of two persons living happily in wedded life who are "by nature, by education, by habits and associations, totally unadapted to each other." There are acts of cruelty and brutslity which a sensitive woman may suffer from a coarse and worthless husband, far more difficult to bear than harsh personal treatment, or even an act of infidelity committed under sudden temptation. To limit divorce to the latter would not be sound policy. And a wife can make home to the husband after due warning, will be scourged by a hell, without committing any flag- the Great God for their iniquities until ernor ever elected in Rhode Island, was in rant wrong that the law recognizes as they repent or fail-to pieces by their augurated yesterday. criminal. A previous publication or at least a public registry of intention to marry. The presence of a certain number of witnesses before some minister or to support a family.

We do not think Judge Bennett's obstacles and restrictions in the path te lawful wedlock, will not a far worse condition of society be rendered probable than that produced by easy divorce? And yet it must be admitted that there should be some wise regulations over so important a step as matrimony. The experience of parents and the authority of some supervising power ought to be inveked for the prevention, if possible, of incompatible unions and the conlikely to be repented of at leisure.

The New York Times commenting on vention of the Diocese of New York' makes the following incidental re-

"Judge Bennett discusses the matter more breadly. He inclines to the opinion that the New York system of marriage and divorce is not more civilized or decent than the Utah system of polygamy. If the opinion be limited to apply only to acts which are legally possible, rather than to custom under the law, we are forced to say that the Utah system is actually more cut or break them.

Imited to apply only the acts which are legally possible, rather than to custom under the law, we are forced to say that the Ulah system is actually more defensible. In Utah there is no excuse must actually marry his wives in a manner giving them claims upon him. But its States other than Utah the evils resulting from the combination of ease of marriage with scandalous frequency of more cry about for resmedy. Whose that norsels is clearly shown by the tenor of current legislation. Laws governing all his life a bachelor, but leaving an estate to be quarried over by several populations of Scriptural ethics relating to chastify are punished with increasing mildness. Virtue is valued more and over law, the combination of some of the parties of the committee on a drive in Sait Lake City, pome home husband and wife, an expected pome and women get married in part in Utah, and do their courts the case of the parties was not in earnest? Of course, everybody knows that bigany in New York consists in going through two marriage carmonies or in other words, that a marriage may be down; but not enough a marriage to send such a husband to the State prison for deceiving a second woman.

Such cases have been from time to time spread before our resders, and now, recalling them, we sak whether might when, as reported, he said from the supply that the difference between Utah polygamy and New York yolygamy a position to reject constraint and despise authority which is and must be likely to be much superior to the people in a republic like ours. From the bondage of a spurious priesthood which fettered the souls of men, there has been a rebound to a dangerous extreme in an opposite direction. Every man wants to do as he pleases, with little or no regard for the general goed or the requirements of religion. Appearances he must have regard for, he moves in respectable circles. A certain decorum is required in decent society and he must conform to it. It is fashionable to go to some place of worship once a week and to hire a pew, as a box is held at a theatre. But there are very few comparatively, who place any reliance upon the flabby claims to divine authority tamely assumed and often relinquished by the popular clergy, and the preacher becomes a mere theologian, speculating on subjects of which he has no definite knowledge, and exercising no positive force or actual restraint upon the lives of his hearers. They follow the bent of their inclinations and have far more

The indications are that the radical evils of society will become worse and more wide-spread. We do not believe they can be cured, except in this way: The Almighty has revealed anew His plan of redemption and with it His authority. The system He has set up will yet attract the interested attention of tion. all classes of people of every nation. The pure in heart will flock to it. Some others of course will mingle with them But those who leve righteousness and hate iniquity will gather with the Saints and help to establish a pure morality, a sound, consistent and divine marriage system adapted to the different needs of varied humanity, and with stringent rules and penalties against marital infidelity and kindred sins. The organization will grow into a mighty power and "the Kingdoms of this world," earth will be cleansed with "the besom of destruction" and a reign of righteouspess will be ushered in. CITY COUNCIL.

Claim for $5,950 Damages-The Mayor Authorized to Borrow Money.

The City Council met in regular session on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, Mayor Armstrong presiding. John Hardcastle and twelve other residents of Sandy stated that their farms had been damaged by the over-flow of water from the city canal, and they asked that the city pay them for the damage, which they said they had suffered to the amount of 5000 year extraordinary expenditures, on account of the waterworks-both for laying pipes to the "dry bench" and extending the head of the main system — have depicted the treasury to the extent that some provision is necessary to meet the usual expenditures during the coming summer. In a former communication I have expressed my views as to the only equitable way, in my opinion, to defray the expenses of waterworks extension, namely: by a local frontage tax the university, in which he says that the college clubs seem disinclined to subscribe toward paying the expenses of sending the Cambridge crew to America to row against Harvard; he therefore appeals to individual members to assist in raising the necessary amount and urges the importance of the proposed race "as it would draw the two institutions into closer relations." namely: by a local frontage tax upon the property benefited. Until some definite action is taken upon that proposition, I suggest that authority be conferred to give corporation notes from time to time, as the money may be needed, for not to exceed $25,000, and at the lowest rate of interest.
