There was a lively runaway yesterday afternoon on State street. A farmer's team of horses attached to a wagon took flight on Second South street and dashed around the corner on to State, and went south like a streak. All vehicles and pedestrians flew out of the way without ceremony, and the outfit continued through the liquid mud below Fourth South street, sending the mud flying to either side in a never-ending murky spray. The team finally disappeared towards Murray.

Today is what is ever referred to affectionately and patriotically in Mexican circles as the "Cinco de Mayo," the anniversary of the day when the French forces were surprised and beaten at Puebla by the Mexican patriots, and is in consequence celebrated every year with great eclat wherever there are any Mexicans to celebrate it. To be sure, the French turned around the next day, and gave the Mexicans a good sound thrashing for their Oliver, but the Mexicans never mention that; it is the previous day they ever keep in mind.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

The prompt relief from the severe pains of sciatica and rheumatism which is afforded by Chamberlain's Pain Balm, is almost worth many times its cost. Mr. Willard C. Vail of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., writes us, "I am advised by Chamberlain's sons, neuralsgia of the nerves and Chamberlain's Pain Balm gives relief quicker than any liniment I have ever used." For sale by all drug-gists.

Another strong fact which makes the suicide theory unreasonable is that there were no powder burns on the head, which there would undoubtedly have been had Long held the gun in his own hand when the fatal shot was fired. The revolver, gold watch, ring and money belt were found in his pocket by the person who committed the deed just for the purpose of creating the impression that it was a case of suicide.

Long came to this city several weeks ago from Omaha to take charge of the construction work. He has been a trusted employee of the company for several years and is said that his habits were good and that he did not drink or gamble, as far as known.

About 11 o'clock Monday night he left the Albany hotel, telling a friend that he was going to Ogden on the midnight train. The next morning he did not show up for work and his body was found in a secluded spot near the Highland Boy smelter at Murray. The body was thought to be that of Nephi Vaughn, but yesterday two brothers of Mr. Vaughn visited Ogden and stated positively that they were not the remains of their brother. The failure of Long to show up for work on Tuesday and Wednesday led to Manager May's investigating the matter with the result that the body was identified as that of Long.

Red Hot Debate on the Subject
By Utah Federation of Labor.

UPON INDEPENDENT LINES.

Social Correspondence.

Kansas City, Mo., May 2.—J. F. McBeth, son of John McBeth of Payson, Utah, was on the market yesterday with three carloads of lambs and ewes that sold well, the lambs bringing $5 and the ewes $6 each, also selling at a price that was satisfactory to Mr. McBeth. This was the first shipment Mr. McBeth ever made, as he had been selling out at home, and taking them along on his railroads built on our own farm in the valley near Utah lake," said Mr. McBeth. "We sent to Nebraska for the corn that we needed in putting the animals there, and we came back in time to sell the lambs and raise a great deal of alfalfa, which we find to be the best feed that can be produced. In adding our flock of sheep we do not exceed five thousand, as we are simply moving them up into the mountains in the spring and back down into the valleys in the fall. We begin to move out of the valley when the lambing is over which will be the middle of next month."

The cattle supply at Kansas City last week was 30,500 head, and included a large number of cattle, mostly fed steers and heifers, but a small proportion of range stockers or feeders. Kansas fed penshant—steers, 1,225 pounds, sold at $3.50 Monday, and dry western steers $3.50. Sheep were very scarce, and the big day of the week. After Tuesday the market gave way to the influence of big receipts and finally closed about like the close of the previous week, but shippers had a hard time getting rid of their stock, as the market was very slow.

Sheep still did not sell much, however, and good western fed heifers $1.10. Several dealers are carrying on trade, but have been unable to sell them, as they are all about the same.

Market closed Friday steady to strong as compared with low time of the week, Thursday. Some heavy Northern Colorado steers, 1,200 pounds, sold at $3.50.

Ultimate Delegates Agreed That
There Should be No Affiliation
With Any Party.

After a red hot debate as to whether or not the trade men should organize as a branch of Socialism, the Labor convention last night formed a Utah Federation of Labor on straight, independent lines.

For two or three hours the discussion had gone on. Should the Federation affiliate with any national party or organization? The vote decided the question negatively by 34 to 17, and upon its announcement the minority bolted the convention. The bolters insisted upon a plank binding the federation to Socialism. At midnight, though badly beaten, the Socialists allowed themselves to become reconciled.

The city school principals thought at yesterday afternoon's meeting that a desirable method of exhibiting the school educational work at the world's fair would be a series of large photographs showing the buildings and practical work of the various grades.

Cassile Springs will not wait until Decoration day, to begin business for the summer, but will open May 15 with a ball game and excursion. The game will be between the Eureka and Springs teams, and special excursions on the road will be made from different points in the state.

There are a number of musical people in town who are anxious to have Mr. Goldmark stop over a day longer, and the lecturer is being entertained at the University club, and his talk there last evening was a pure club function which no guests are invited.

A Chicago contractor named William Burns broke his elbow yesterday on the observation car. He was standing on the platform watching a dog fight, and leaned over the gate in his enthusiasm, when his arm came in contact with a pole, and snap went his arm. He was taken back to his hotel where the arm was set, and the patient left on the next train for home.

Sam Barlow, local representative of one of the big San Francisco tea importing houses, says he does not believe now that the price of teas will go up, as the Russians are being driven westward by the Japs instead of the Japs being driven into the sea, and the seat of war is being removed towards the Siberian border, instead of being transferred to Japan.

Prominent Salt Lakers have received a general circular secretary of Cleveland, a circular letter affording opportunity for them to contribute to the well advertised proposition. The intention is to endow a chair of political science in the Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

The report of County Physician Mayo for the month of April, which has been filed with the board of county commissioners, shows that there were four cases of smallpox, one of scarlet fever and one of diphtheria reported in the county during the month, all of which were in quarantine. Two of the smallpox patients reside on Eleventh south, one in Crescent and one in South Jordan.

There is a move among the local bankers to eliminate the 10-cent schedule that obtains in a number of the shops, and make the price of a shave 15 cents general all through the city, as well as
