some of the sweetest harmony that has been discoursed in Ogden for a long time, was listened to by a large and appreclative audience last evening at the complimentary recital given by the pupils of Frof. Joseph Ballantyne, assisted by the tabernacle choir. The large auditorium of the tabernacle was crowded by the lovers of music, who were delighted with the entire program which was rendered as published. The work done by the soloists was very fine. The feature of the evening was the plano solo "By the Brookside," rendered by Miss Verna Van Dyke, who is but nine years of age. The little girl evidenced in the rendition the excellent instruction she has received. Her time and tone were excellent, the audience was so delighted they continued to applaud until the solo was repeated, which was the only number encored, the audience having been requested not to encore.

Each number was well received. The pupils who took part on the program are each deserving of much praise, and to Prof. Ballantyne is due much credit for the excellent vocal training his pupils are receiving. Those present were unanimous in pronouncing the recital me of the greatest musical successes of the season.

The principal affair of the evening ook place immediately after the recital when the members of the tabernacle choir, with Presidents Shurtliff and Middleton and Charles J. Ross, assem-bled at the choir seats to present Prof. Ballantyne, leader of the choir, with beautiful gold watch and fob. Miss Minnie Brown, in behalf of the choir made the presentation, to which Ballantyne responded very feel-

President Middleton and Charles J Ross made short speeches of congratuand encouragement to the choir and its able leader. The watch was beautifully engraved with "Ogden Tabernacle choir to Joseph Ballantyne, and on the fob were the initials, J. B. It is just two years ago since the choir was organized and to-day it is one of the best musical organizations in Utah and its great progress and success is due greatly to Prof. Ballantyne's able and untiring efforts.

Hardened copper, states a German au-thority, has been sought not so much for providing instruments with razor-like cut-ting edges as for coating them with a case-hardened surface to resist changes from exposure. A lately published patent claims that copper may be satisfactorily tempered by heating slowly to a certain temperature, and sprinkling with pow-dered sulphur during the heating. The ob-jects, while still hot, are plunged into a bath of blue vitriol. and examine the work if you can. If you can't drop a post card asking for information to the Encyclopaedia Club, Deseret News, and complete informa-tion will be sent without cost to you,
