

LIL IN PRISON.

Hawaii's Ex-Queen Placed
Under Arrest.

CHARGED WITH TREASON.

The Queen Tried to Queen Victoria,
St. George.

SURPRISE FELT AT WASHINGTON.

Diplomatic Representatives to Be
Bailed by the Deposed Monarch

Liberty to Return.

London, Feb. 2.—The news of the arrest of ex-Queen Liliuokalani, published this afternoon, created a sensation. The facts were telegraphed to Queen Victoria, at Osborne, and Empress Dowager Tz'u-hsi, guardian of Prince Kuhinalan, of Hawaii, before noon yesterday in the throne room. Dowager Tz'u-hsi received a telegram via Amakusa, N. Z., announcing the arrest of the queen.

It is expected the latter's friends here and elsewhere will make diplomatic representations to Great Britain and the United States to intercede in her release.

The Hawaiian queen in this city has received no news respecting the resolution adopted by the United States House of Representatives, asking President Cleveland to submit to Congress any correspondence in his possession at the state department regarding the reports that British subjects incited Hawaii to rebellion and supplied arms to the rebels, and that the British government intended to prevent the application of martial law to British subjects engaged in the rebellion.

In this connection the Associated Press yesterday informed that three British subjects here, between the British and American consuls, are charged with inciting the Hawaiians to rebellion, and it is believed they would be arrested if their case against the queen was tried.

The British government has been informed that these three persons are to be tried before the British and American consuls, and the charges against them are denied.

It was hinted at the police today that there may be a speedy return to Hawaii pending a long session of the House of Representatives, but the queen was not present.

General Clegg, chief of engineers, is associated with the rear and harbor act of August 17, 1891. Captain Stevenson made a preliminary examination of the rear and harbor, which improvement is to be made by increasing the depth. His report was forwarded to General Conner, state of engineer, through General Conner, secretary to the Senate, who sent it on to the Member of the House of Representatives.

Botted Over an Embankment.

Philadelphia, Feb. 2.—The Baltimore and Ohio express from Cincinnati was wrecked at Wheeling, W. Va., at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, killing two men and two women. The locomotive, a light passenger, was instantly killed. Frank Kelly, another locomotive, was nearly lost. The express was running along the embankment when it jumped the track and passed over the bridge, striking the side of the bridge. Captain and Valley were in the engine of the freight. The baggage car rolled over the embankment and the engine went over the other side.
