EVENING GOWN IN BLACK GRENADINE.

A dainty black evening gown of black grenadine is a summer necessity, and will be a welcome addition to any woman's wardrobe. This model shows a full-length arrangement of black crepe levels and bands outlined with narrow black trim. The chemise-like yoke is of black net, with an applied trimming of heavy black silk. The skirt, long and sweeping, is tucked over the hips and attached to the bodice. A wide crinkled crepe grade covers the joining nicely, while the sleeves, put on at the elbow and once below, are banded with crepe and edged with silk trim.

When a lamp is not burning keep the wick a little below the top of the tube. This is to prevent oil from working over the burner and reservoir.

This forms an appropriate pendant to the absolutely authentic story of the visitor to Florence, who spoke enthusiastically of the famous statue of Dante in the Piazza Santa Croce as "the statue of Dante in the lion's den."

To keep the face white and remove deep lines, cleanse the face each night with cleansing cream and massage. You can also use this cream to massage the arms.

To bleach the face and arms apply the following lotion until the skin feels, then apply a little good cold cream.

Corrosive sublimate, 2 grains; powdered borax, 4 grains; lemon juice, 1 ounce; rose water, 4 ounces.

Instead of stuffing dates with nuts, try filling them with cream cheese for an afternoon tea relish. Finely chopped nuts mixed with the cheese is an addition.

The evening dances at Calder's are becoming popular.

Many stories are told of the incongruous things said by visitors to the Eternal City, says Modern Society; but the palm should surely be awarded to a lady who was asked the other day what she liked best of all the things she had seen in Rome. "Well," she said, reflectively, "I think the thing that interested me most was the capitol. There is a cage there containing a wolf, which, I understand, is the original wolf that suckled Rome and Ju-
